AWAIT THRILLS IN SKY DRAMA OF AIR RACES

Show Is Guide for Future Aviation.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

What seem certain to be the supreme thrills of Chicago's summer of World's Fair festivities will be released in the presence of 40,000 eager people at 1 o'clock next Saturday afternoon in the air and on the ground at the Chicago airport.

There and then THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S American Air Races and 4 day air show—most significant and spectacular tournament in the annals of American aviation—will begin.

It will present in action, aloft and aground, 300 premier American air pilots and scores of the latest models in airplanes.

Thrills and Spectacle.

The show will be given high distinction—yes, very high, for some of it will be performed nearly two miles above the planet—by two outstanding features.

First: The thrill of the air races, the military combats between planes, and the audacious stunt flying.

Second: The magnificent spectacle of gigantic air liners coming in from the Atlantic coast, the Pacific coast, the coast of the Gulf of Mexico, and from the Canadian border, and landing serenely in the air center of the United States, which is Chicago, the World's Fair city.

$25,000 in Awards.

The scores of pilots and planes will race for large money—$25,000 in TRIBUNE cash prizes and in bejeweled trophies. One trophy alone, for the winner of the Baby Ruth race, contains 650 pounds of silver and marble.

Seventy-four planes will stream in from Michigan.

Princes of the clouds will be on the scene—men who have made history in aviation and are alive to tell the tale. Among them: Arthur Davis, Roy Hunt, Harold Neumann, John Livingston, Frank Faulkner, Bennett Griffin, who flew to Russia last year; George T. Burrell Jr., Robert Moore, and British Capt. Richard Granere.

And a princess of the clouds: Mrs. Bettie Lund, the flying witch whose terrific stunts would curl yours and her hair if either you or she paused to ponder upon their peril.

The races and the spectacles will frequently be varied with combats far aloft, which aviators call "dog fights," and with stunt flying.

But the show is no wanton invitation to Death on a Pale Horse.

It will be a dizzying thriller, but it also will possess large scientific significance.

Where Science Learns.

For this reason: Air racing is the proving ground for the aviation industry. It is its outdoor laboratory where the final tests are applied under the most exacting conditions, and where big lessons are learned which, a few months later, make air travel safer for everybody.

Hence, those who follow from day to day THE TRIBUNE'S air show will see the vast airport and proving ground at 63d street and Cicero avenue in operation.

They will see the net result of the proving—which is the majestic transcontinental, high-speed, air liners descending upon Chicago, leaving and taking on passengers and mail, and then sailing away to far horizons.

The Show's Unique Aspect.

This is the educational keynote of the tournament. It is also its unique feature because now for the first time THE TRIBUNE is tying up air racing and air stunting with commercial air transport.

Air racing is an exciting sport—none comparable to it for thrills—but the tiny buglike racing planes do not mean anything of themselves. After the drastic and terrifying tests to which the races subject them they mean lessons learned.

They mean, in short, better and stronger motors, more sensitive and yet more stalwart apparatus, and faster planes next year on the passenger air liners.

Therefore our show is not an unfeeling circus, risking good men's lives, but a heroic test of practical appliances and improvements.

The arrangements for visitors are extensive. THE TRIBUNE has built grandstands to seat 41,000 people and has provided large parking space which will be free to those who buy their tickets in advance.

TEXTILE MILLS FIRST TO MEET CONTROL BY U. S.

Submit Code to Czar of Industry Today.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 26.—[Special.] — American industry will be pointed tomorrow into an uncharted sea of governmental control.

Hugh S. Johnson, administrator of the industry control law, will conduct a public hearing on "a code of fair competition," submitted by the cotton-textile industry, the first of hundreds or perhaps thousands of such codes which are intended to bring all industry under the command of President Roosevelt and his administrators.

The President and his staff have painted this industrial experiment as an adventure which will brings jobs and security to all the people. Some business men have embraced the plan eagerly; others have seen in it a ruinous lurch into Leninism.

Johnson in a Hurry.

Administrator Johnson has plunged into his job with the greatest haste, voicing a desire to have it so organized that "three million men will be back in their jobs inside of two months."

Almost frantic efforts were put forth at the industrial control offices all day and evening to get the hearing organized.

Committees were being appointed; others already appointed were being organized, and over the whole scene hung an air of rush and much uncertainty, which made old-timers in this Washington scene hark back to the wild days of hustle and planning and spending for the world war.

Noted industrialists, called to the capital by Secretary of Commerce Roper to form an advisory and planning council, elected Gerard Swope, president of the General Electric company, as their chairman.

Cabinet Advisers Meet.

While they were meeting a group of the Roosevelt cabinet, named by the President to advise Administrator Johnson, held a conference in which they strove to iron out differences of opinion which already have cropped out among the twenty odd officials trying to superintend the plan.

Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins is reported at odds with Administrator Johnson over her insistence that the workers involved in any plan must have been given an opportunity for collective bargaining, and she was also insistent that bans against child labor must be inserted in any pact.

The theater arranged for the conduct of this first hearing under the industry control bill is the spacious auditorium of the new Commerce building, a beautiful oak paneled room with mosaic figures showing the march of commerce as conceived by Herbert Hoover, the designer and promoter of this colossal government building.

Great Economic Drama.

In the center is the small desk behind which the master of the show, Gen. Johnson, will sit, with his deputy administrators, one for labor and one for industry, on either side, and with his chief counsel close by.

On one side is a group of chairs for the advisory committee of labor leaders, and opposite are the chairs for the advisory committee of industrial leaders. Slightly backstage will be placed the advisory committee for consumers.

Mrs. C. C. Rumsey, New York social worker and daughter of the late E. H. Harriman, was appointed chairman of the consumers' advisory group. Other members are Prof. Frank Graham, president of the University of North Carolina and former economics professor at Princeton; Prof. William Ogburn, economist and statistician of the University of Chicago; Miss Belle Sherwin of Washington, president of the League of Women Voters, and Mrs. Joseph J. Daniels of Indianapolis, president of the Indiana branch of the league. Two additional members of the consumers' committee are yet to be named.

Committee Is Named.

This latter committee was named only tonight, on the eve of the hearing, and is supposed to protect the consuming public from extortionately high prices which might arise out of permitting industrialists and laborites to band together for their mutual advantage against the consumer.

The cabinet members who are members of the board of control, which sits over all, are not expected to attend in a body, but places will be pro-

A REAL EXPERT ON THE JOB

FOREST WORKER SHOT AND PAWED FIGHTING A BEAR

Thompson Falls, Mont., June 26.—(AP)—Pawed by a big black bear and wounded by a bullet fired at the animal by a rescuer, George Anderson of Missoula, a member of the civilian conservation corps, was in a serious condition here today.

Anderson, a member of the Larchwood reforestation camp on Trout creek, was tramping in the timber eight miles from that point yesterday when the bear rushed him.

He attempted to protect himself with a club, but the bear pawed the weapon out of his hands and grappled with him.

Two regular army enlisted men rushed to Anderson's rescue, but when the bear closed in Sergt. Hardiman was compelled to fire at close range and one of the bullets passed through the animal and wounded Anderson in the side. The second shot killed the bear.

Store Robbers Obliging; One Waits on Customer

Oakland City, Ind., June 26.—(AP)—Three robbers who took $252 from a grocery store here today were obliging. A woman customer entered, not knowing that a holdup was in progress, and ordered some ham. One of the gunmen took her order, sliced the meat and handed it to her. He then pocketed the money.

Shoot Official of Teamsters and His Wife

Henry Berger, 41 years old, general organizer for the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, was shot in the head, and his wife, Eleanor, 33, in both legs by assassins at Central avenue and Ohio street late last night.

The attempted murder was attributed by police to Berger's efforts to whip locals of the outlaw Chicago Teamsters' union into line to join the International Brotherhood and the American Federation of Labor.

Berger and his wife were taken to the West Suburban hospital in Oak Park. A bullet cut into the top of his head. The wound was not believed severe at first, but early this morning paralysis developed and physicians said the bullet evidently had touched Berger's brain. Now his condition is regarded as critical. Mrs. Berger was struck in the calf of the left leg and the right knee.

Auto Forced to Curb.

Two white shirted men shot the Bergers. Berger and his wife were driving to their home at 5835 North Kenton avenue from an undertaking chapel at 318 North Central avenue, where they had attended a wake for his aunt, when the gunmen drew alongside. They forced Berger's car to the curb, then opened fire. Apparently a shotgun and a pistol were used. At the first shot Berger swung his automobile upon the curb and against a lamp post. With a final volley, the assassins turned west in Ohio street and escaped. Their car was unlicensed.

At the West Suburban hospital, Berger was questioned by Sergt. John Kratzmeyer. He cursed the gunmen and vowed to "take care of them."

"Who shot you?" questioned Kratzmeyer. "Was it Murray Humphries or 'Three Fingered' Jack White?"

"You ought to know," replied the wounded man. "But I'll take care of them, whoever it was."

Says He Dodged Foes Long Time.

"I've been dodging those fellows for some time," continued Berger. "They must have tapped my wires to know that I'd be at my aunt's wake tonight. They must have been following me and trying to get me. I've been in hiding, but they must have known."

In fact, Berger has been under police guard for several weeks and last night for the first time he ventured out alone to attend his aunt's wake. As a result of the shooting police warned other legitimate teamster union officials to exercise care in proceeding out unprotected.

The attempted murder, which police considered unusually vicious in imperiling the wife of the intended victim, was the answer of union hoodlums to efforts of President William Green of the American Federation of Labor, Mayor Kelly, State's Attorney Courtney, and others to clean up the teamster situation here.

WHEAT SKYROCKETS NEAR THE $1 MARK; GRAIN PITS GO WILD

Wheat prices on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday rose 7 cents a bushel, with the May delivery closing at 99 to 99¼ cents, a mark that has not been touched since August, 1930.

Buying orders poured in all through the session and kept the pits in an uproar. The turnover was estimated to exceed 200,000,000 bushels. The heavy bullish sentiment was in large part attributable to the belief of the speculative public that heat and drought have taken toll of the crops through the great producing sections of the country.

All other grains followed the lead of wheat. Corn was up from 2⅞ to 3⅝ cents, oats 4¼ to 4¾ cents, rye 3½ to 4 cents, and barley 6½ cents. Cotton gained $3.50 a bale in Chicago and $4.25 a bale for some deliveries in New York. Stocks on the New York and Chicago exchanges also rose, particularly those regarded as likely to benefit from agricultural prosperity.

BEER BILLS WIN IN LAKE FOREST AND EVANSTON

Evanston and Lake Forest, two north side communities traditionally dry, turned wet last night by approving 3.2 per cent beer bills.

By a vote of 11 to 5 the Evanston council passed a regulatory ordinance permitting the sale of brew but banning consumption on the premises where sold. A few minutes earlier an ordinance permitting consumption on the premises had been rejected by the same numerical vote but with a different aldermanic lineup. Ald. Albert Smith, leader in the battle for beer, lashed his associates for including the nonconsumption clause in the bill.

"I wish the people of Evanston could have seen some of our aldermen who voted against this beer bill drinking highballs and beer at the city council golf tournament in McHenry county two weeks ago," he said.

In Lake Forest the city council placed no unusual restrictions on the selling of beer, except that no license would be issued to merchants whose places are open after midnight.

Says Wall St. Shut Banks to 'Get' Ford

Detroit, Mich., June 26.—[Special.]—Herbert R. Wilkin, Detroit banker, gave a forthright answer today when, testifying before a one man grand jury, he was asked why Detroit's two big banks were closed last winter.

"It was a plot by Wall street to 'get' Henry Ford," he declared.

The doors of the banks, the First National of Detroit and the Guardian National, were shut on Feb. 12. Long before that, in his opinion, Wilkin asserted, it had been decided in the canyons of New York's financial center that the two institutions must pass from the picture and be replaced by one.

Other Charges by Wilkin.

Other sensational charges made by Wilkin in the course of his testimony before Judge Harry B. Keidan were:

1. That huge withdrawals of "smart money" had been made just before the two banks were finally closed, and that one of those who cleared out a personal account was Mrs. James Couzens, wife of the Michigan senator.

2. That Detroit bankers generally, previous to the closing, had become convinced Wall street was trying to control all the credit of the state of Michigan.

3. That many checks of the two institutions were cleared through the Detroit clearing house after the state bank holiday had been declared by Gov. Comstock.

4. That federal bank examiners had coöperated with the enemies of the Guardian group, which had a chain of Michigan banks, in undervaluing assets of at least one institution so the new National Bank of Detroit could buy it at a low price.

Whipped Again, He Says.

Wilkin, who became vice president of the Union Guardian Trust company at the request of Henry Ford, said that, for the second time, the eastern bankers had been soundly whipped in their attempt to force the motor manufacturer to bow to them.

"Wall street believed," he said, "that by tying up Ford's capital he would have to deal with them or go broke. They were sadly fooled.

"George W. Davison, president of the Central Hanover Bank & Trust company of New York, first sprang the idea that the two old banks must be closed and replaced by one new one.

"On Feb. 14, two days before the closing, Davison arrived in Detroit. He told a group of Detroiters there must be one new bank. After hearing him, the Detroit bankers left with the idea that, through Davison, Wall street was trying to control Michigan finances.

"At that time the Ford Motor company had more than $65,000,000 on deposit in Detroit banks."

30 Million Tied Up.

Prosecutor Harry S. Toy asked if that money was tied up.

"About $30,000,000 of it," replied the witness.

Wilkin said that the same financial interests in 1920-'21 had endeavored to take the Ford business from its founder. He continued that when Henry and Edsel Ford then arranged to start two new banks in Detroit, Wall street withdrew a promised loan of $20,000,000 to the First National bank.

The witness was unable to remember the amount of Mrs. Couzens' withdrawals the day before the bank holiday. Other withdrawals, he said, included $165,000 by the Second National Bank of Houston, Tex., between Feb. 6 and Feb. 9. Houston is the home town of Jesse H. Jones, then managing director and now chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation. Wilkin said he believed Jones was connected with the Houston institution. Dispatches from Washington tonight stated that Jones denied any connection or the giving

New Cops' First Captives Are Pair on First Robbery

Policemen Henry Natzke and Thomas Hayes, who were added to the force six months ago, made their first arrest yesterday with the capture of two men who said they were participating in their first robbery. The prisoners are James Morgan, 26 years old, of Los Angeles, and Charles Johnson, 21, of Oklahoma. Morgan and Johnson robbed J. S. Meyersky of $1.60 in a shop at 121[illegible]th Wabash. Meyersky pointed out the bandits to the policemen.

BALLOT CLOSE; GOV. HORNER TO SIGN THIS WEEK

Opposition Battles It All Day.

BY PARKE BROWN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 26.—[Special.]—The Illinois house of representatives tonight passed the 2 per cent state retail sales tax bill by a vote of 77 to 74, not a vote to spare. Tomorrow the senate, which passed the measure originally, is expected to concur in a minor amendment inserted by the house. And Gov. Horner will sign the bill as soon as it reaches his desk, before the end of the week.

In other words, the new law will be in effect on July 1, which falls on next Saturday. On that date the tax becomes effective on sales of all retail merchants throughout the state and presumably the merchants will start adding the tax to the prices of all wares they sell. There are no exemptions in the law, the only exception being limited to "occasional and incidental sales" by persons whose main occupation is not the retailing business.

For Relief First Six Months.

For six months, that is, until Jan. 1, 1934, the receipts from the new levy will be turned over to the Illinois Emergency Relief commission for its operations among the poor. The proceeds for the remaining eighteen months covered by the life of the two year law, the main measure and its companion bills provide, will be devoted to reducing and possibly to eliminating the state tax now levied on real estate and personal property.

The house decision came at the end of a roll call that lasted three hours and a half, one of the longest on record, made so by "explanations" of their votes by many members when their names were called. The constitution required 77 votes for passage and it was not until the reading clerk reached the last name on his second time over the list of 153—the call of the absentees—that the seventy-seventh was recorded.

Wilson Casts Deciding Vote.

That gave the general assembly a new hero. The deciding vote was cast by Robert J. Wilson, a Democrat from Kewanee. After his vote for the 3 per cent predecessor of the present bill last April the storekeepers of Kewanee made Wilson's life miserable. He owns and operates a hotel there. He said the retailers not only sought to keep local trade away from the hotel but refused to give orders to traveling salesmen who stopped there.

When his name was called tonight he remained silent, as did 17 other members the first time the clerk went over the list. When the call reached the Kewanee man the second time the total for the bill was 76. The only other man who had not voted was against the bill. Wilson spoke a firm "aye" that changed the silence hanging over the chamber into a buzz of excitement.

Party Lines Disregarded.

Party lines suffered considerably in the big tug of war that has been going on for two weeks. On the showdown twenty Republicans joined with 57 Democrats to make up the total of victory. As it was the real keynote of the Horner program it had been hoped by Democratic leaders that all of their 79 majority would be with the bill. But 22 voted against it, along with 52 of the 74 Republicans in the house.

Two Republicans, Roger F. Little of Urbana and James J. McVicker of Chicago, were absent because of illness. Here was another respect in which the roll call was exceptional. Every one of the 151 members present cast his vote. There were no cloakroom hideouts.

Downstate Democrats Desert.

All of the Democrats who voted against the wishes of the administration are from downstate districts. Seventeen of the Republicans who voted for the bill are from Cook county, where the plea for relief funds was indorsed by civic organizations and leaders in public life.

The entire day was feverish. Crowds that equaled all records filled the galleries. Both sides were confident and, in spite of the belief of observers that it was too late to change a single vote, were still doing missionary work from morning until after darkness fell on the half finished final roll call.

In the early hours of the day, delegations of merchants from a dozen towns, rallied by the Illinois Merchants' association which defeated the 3 per cent tax, began to flock into Springfield from all directions.

They wore yellow badges bearing the slogan "We oppose state retail sales tax." They thronged in the lobbies during the first meeting of the day and when the bill was taken up they jammed the galleries to the last square foot.

Soon after the yellow badges hove in sight there came a second crop of slogan streamers carrying the words "Back Horner—Vote Yes. We want occupational tax."

The technical description of the bill is "an occupational tax on retail dealers." These were said to have been produced by the Illinois Taxpayers' association or some similar organization demanding the reduction of real estate taxes.

But even the ardor of these demonstrators was lessened by the depressing temperature. The mercury passed the 100 degree mark at noon and even the threat of rain failed to relieve the heavy mugginess of the representatives' hall.

Proponents of the bill, much to their early day pleasure, won a preliminary skirmish when the opposition, led by Leroy Green and Minority Leader Schnackenberg battled hard to force consideration of the tax before the luncheon recess. Green went so far as to threaten the Springfield filibuster—his right to insist that every bill be read in full before consideration.

Speaker Roe finally gave way by granting a roll call on a motion to recess until 3 o'clock. As expected, it resulted in a recess by a roll call vote of 76 to 53, the favorable votes falling only one short of the number required for passage of the bill in this chamber.

Attempt to Force Early Vote.

The purpose of the opposition was to force a vote before the late arrival of several members expected to favor the sales tax. At least half a dozen were missing up to recess time, but telegrams and other messages that most of them would be in on the 3:30 train had been received. And they were on hand for the afternoon reconvening.

The administration spokesman in this matter, young Adamowski, started the debate with a simple recital of the fresh appeal in favor of the bill by the Legislative Voters' league.

This brought replies from some of the members the league has condemned for years, which included attacks on the bill which started the crowded galleries to cheering. Speaker Roe announced the galleries would be cleared if the disturbance was repeated.

Roger J. Branson [Rep., Centralia] opposed the bill with criticism of the house's attitude on the recent proposal to rewrite into it a tax on all personal service occupations. Sol Handy [Dem., Marshall], a merchant himself, made a prolonged appeal for the little retailers.

Argues Against "Dole."

Schnackenberg then made one of the chief attacks. He used the word "dole" repeatedly.

"The best thing for Illinois today, and the best thing for those people on the dole today," he said, "is to take them off the dole.

"It is not fair to tax a part of the population that another part of it may live on the dole."

He argued for several minutes that conditions are improving, that the steel mills are hiring more men, that wheat hit the dollar mark during the day and that the dole system has "run its course." He contended that Illinois should "continue" to get its relief funds from the federal government.

"Any law that puts a burden on the necessities of life, on the man of small means, on the little dealer," he continued, "imposes an abhorrent tax."

Schnackenberg Sees Trick.

Schnackenberg said that in reply to questions put to some of the spectators wearing "back Horner" badges, they said that they obtained them at the offices of the department of agriculture. Schnackenberg asserted that this was "the sort of tactics" being employed to effect the passage of the bill.

Other Republicans followed with further offensive. They included Thomas J. Stack of Peoria and David I. Swanson, Chicago, but further debate was foreclosed by a motion by Frank Ryan [Dem., Chicago] for a vote on the question.

But the Republicans were not left entirely alone in their hostility to the administration idea. Some of the downstate Democrats who explained their votes on the roll call were as bitter as any of the speakers across the aisle.

Various Stands Explained.

"This bill is damnable," cried Leroy M. Green [Rep., Rockford], who, Doyle had reminded the house, was one of the attorneys for the Illinois Merchants' council in its legal battle against the 3 cent tax.

"Whether this bill is popular or unpopular," said Michael F. Hennebery [Dem., Wilmington], "the poor must be fed."

"This is the damnedest bill ever put on the calendar," shouted Frank Holten [Dem., East St. Louis]. "It will put all the merchants out of business."

Roland V. Libonati of Chicago addressed himself largely to his Republican associates who had voted against the tax, warning them of the serious conditions he said would arise if relief work is ended.

Leader Deserts Administration.

Although he is majority floor leader, Thomas P. Sinnett of Rock Island explained his negative vote by pointing out that he is from a state line county, which would lose business to Iowa if the bill passed.

"Those who vote against this bill are refusing to feed the starving," said Reuben G. Soderstrom, Republican, who is president of the Illinois Federation of Labor.

Elmer C. Wilson [Rep., Kankakee] charged that the supporters of the bill are of "predatory wealth" and the "malefactors of great wealth."

When the clerk completed the call of the roll for the first time, the bill had received only 69 votes and required 77 for passage. Recalling the names of those who had not voted was begun. There were an even score in this list. The sponsors of the tax were still confident of the eight more votes needed.

They came in on the second try as had been predicted. When "Bob" Wilson cast the deciding vote the result was verified by another reading by the clerk, and the victory was announced.

Refuse to Surrender.

But the Republican leaders who had been battling the bill—chiefly Leroy M. Green, Rockford, and Minority Leader Elmer J. Schnackenberg—refused to give up the fight.

They shifted their hostilities to the five companion bills which designate the disposition of the tax funds for both the relief and the replacement tax period, objecting to the acceptance of the main roll call as the one to be recorded for the other bills. Thereupon the house recessed to come back for a night session.

When the evening meeting reconvened, however, the house went into a discussion of matters not connected with the sales tax. For a short time it took up the Lantz bills, sponsored by the Illinois Agricultural association, which would permit cities, villages, towns, and counties to levy special taxes without any limitation for relief purposes. No final action was taken.

Then the vote swung to the state tax commission bill which has been at a standstill since June 14. This measure, giving the state board jurisdiction in the assessment of the capital stock of all corporations without the present exceptions, was attacked by Republicans including Schnackenberg and Green. A motion by Green to strike the enacting clause was the subject of a bitter fight.

A motion by Doyle to table Green's motion lost by a vote of 60 to 68, and when Green sought to press his victory, Doyle moved to recess until morning. The adjournment motion was passed on roll call by a vote of 71 to 59.

ROLL CALL BY WHICH ILLINOIS HOUSE VOTED SALES TAX

Springfield, Ill., June 26.—(AP)—The roll call by which the sales tax passed the house today follows:

Those absent or not voting were Little and McVicker, both Republicans.

NO EXCEPTIONS IN NEW TAX.

The 2 per cent tax differs from the first tax, recently declared unconstitutional, in that it is reduced 1 per cent and is applied to all retailers without exception. Farmers who sold products on their farms were exempted in the first bill. The Supreme court held that this violated the uniformity principle of the constitution.

FOR COMMISSION PLAN TO STUDY MILK, BEER SALE

Springfield, Ill., June 26.—(AP)—Approval for the creation of state commissions to investigate the marketing of milk and beer was given by the Illinois house today.

The milk bill, by M. F. Hennebry, Wilmington, Democrat, would create a board of nine legislators to investigate milk production, distribution and sales, and make recommendations. Persons and agencies involved in milk disputes in metropolitan areas would be under the scope of the investigation.

Replacement by a permanent commission of the Noonan committee which held hearings in Chicago after the sale of beer became legal was proposed by the third bill. The milk and beer bills go to the senate.

The Court of Claims appropriation bill was sent to the senate, approving payments of more than $200,000, which is $40,000 higher than the house committee recommended.

One of the insurance department bills, requiring that life insurance agents get certificates of authority from the state, was killed on a roll call. It was part of the administration program to strengthen the authority of its insurance officials.

MR. JOHNSON'S 100 EXTRA POUNDS TO PAY ORPHANS $500

Two friends of Ogden Johnson of River Forest, who now weighs 320 pounds, yesterday made a $500 wager based on the question of Johnson's ability to take off 100 pounds in the next five months. Johnson started training in the Illinois Athletic club gymnasium.

H. M. McCarger of Glen Ellyn, bet that Johnson could take off the required poundage, and Porter F. Leach of 7201 Euclid avenue wagered that he couldn't. Johnson, who stands 6 feet 3 inches, declared he was going to do his best to help McCarger win.

The loser must spend the $500 by taking some orphaned and crippled children on an outing or party.

LOBBIES URGING DOG TRACK BILL AT SPRINGFIELD

Measure Wins in House; Now in Senate.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Springfield, Ill., June 26.—[Special.]—Dog track interests have descended upon the legislature to press passage of the Sunderland bill, which would legalize and regulate greyhound racing in the state. The bill passed the house of representatives without debate and almost without opposition when it suddenly appeared in the jam of last Wednesday night's session in the midst of the battling over the sales tax.

Foremost in the ranks of lobbyists for the bill who are now concentrating on the senate is Dick Wilder, boss of the Madison Kennel club, which caters to St. Louis and East St. Louis patrons. It was learned today Wilder is working for passage of the bill in the senate and was seen in Springfield before the bill passed the house of representatives.

Once with Capone Interests.

J. H. Ellis, operator of the Thornton Coursing club in Chicago, was reported to have emissaries working for the bill. Ellis has been actively associated with dog tracks in Cook county for five years, having been allied with the Al Capone interests.

Edward J. O'Hare, former president of the Hawthrone dog track, owned by Capone, is said to have been instrumental in securing an almost solid vote from the Cook county delegation in the house. O'Hare, who is now interested in the Sportsman's Park racing track, has recently denied any connection with dog racing in Cook county. He is owner of a dog track at Miami Beach, Fla., however, and has been seen at the Lawndale dog track in Chicago, in which William Skidmore, west side gangster, is purported to have an interest.

The various Cook county dog track interests are reported to have reached an agreement under which they are working together for passage of the bill. The reports are strengthened by the fact that the bill prescribes that in counties of population "over 500,000" three tracks may be licensed.

Third Track Is Ready.

This provision would permit operation of the Thornton and Lawndale tracks and a third, now ready for opening, at 39th street and Wentworth avenue. Work on the tracks was begun some time before the measure was introduced in the legislature.

Some surprise has been expressed over the fact the bill was sponsored by Glenn H. Sunderland, a new member from Newton in Jasper county, who is supposedly removed from the influence of the dog track interests. He has argued that as long as horse racing has been legalized there is no reason why dog racing should not be approved. The state Supreme court has held that horse racing has the element of skill through the guidance of a jockey, while dog racing is merely gambling.

Stress Revenue Feature.

Lobbyists for the track interests have stressed the fact that the bill is a revenue measure in that it provides for a license tax and payment of 3 per cent of all bets to the state. The latter provision is not in force at horse racing tracks. This argument is reported to have been effective with representatives and is being used to win final passage of the bill.

The bill would legalize dog racing between May 1 and Nov. 1 of each year upon licenses issued by the state director of agriculture. It would permit pari-mutuel or certificate betting and permit the tracks to retain not to exceed 13 per cent—double the amount retained at the horse tracks—and "the breaks" on all money wagered. A tax of 10 cents for each patron entering the grounds is another provision of the bill.

New Cab Plan, Cutting Fares at Once, O. K.'d by Aldermen

A uniform taxicab rate of 20 cents for the first half mile and 10 cents for each subsequent half mile was recommended yesterday afternoon by the city council subcommittees investigating taxicab fares. The new rate, if adopted by the council, will supersede the present rate schedule of the large companies—20 cents for the first quarter mile and 10 cents for each succeeding half mile. The proposed rate will be submitted to the council on Wednesday and become effective Thursday morning if adopted.

The subcommittees also voted to create a vehicle license commission consisting of the corporation counsel, the city controller, and the commissioner of police, to hold the powers formerly exercised by the vehicle license bureau, a police controlled department which allegedly favored the monopoly formerly held by the Yellow and Checker Taxicab companies.

Provides Rate Making Study.

The new commission, under the proposal recommended yesterday, is to be directed to begin an immediate investigation with the aid of auditors and administrative engineers to determine a taxicab fare which will be made permanent within a 60 or 90 day period, and which will not only pay taxicab chauffeurs a living wage, but will provide for safety to the public and a fair return on the investments of the operating companies.

The action of the subcommittees was not to be permanent, Co-chairman James B. Bowler explained. It is a temporary measure to bring an immediate reduction in the present high taxicab rates, pending the findings of the vehicle commission.

The action was a compromise suggested by Mayor Kelly yesterday morning when several aldermen and representatives of the Yellow, Checker and many of the independent taxicab operators gathered in his office.

Contemplate Five Year Grant.

In its present form the subcommittee's proposal is an amendment to the present taxicab ordinance. The new ordinance, still upon the basis of a five year franchise to the operators, will be drawn later. The amendment did not limit the number of taxicabs to be operated in the city since, as several of the aldermen said, "World's Fair conditions are not normal conditions, and more taxicabs are needed at present." The number of cabs to be licensed for operation, however, will be limited in the new ordinance.

Ald. Jacob M. Arvey [24th] quoted the mayor, after outlining the proposal, as saying: "If the amendment is passed, I will put the commission to work tomorrow. The companies, although once saying that they couldn't accept such terms, probably will come around if we act expeditiously."

The motion was put by Ald. Oscar Nelson [46th], and after speeches by 15 of the 34 assembled aldermen a roll call was begun. At the end the vote was tied at 17 all, with Co-chairman John A. Massen [48th] and Bowler voting "yes."

Immediately Ald. John J. Coughlin [1st], James J. Hurley [39th], Z. H. Kadow [33d], William L. Dawson [2d], and Arthur G. Lindell [9th], who had voted "no," changed their votes to "yes." The motion carried by a vote of 22 to 12, amid the jeers and hoots of the aldermen who had voted "no" and had not changed their votes.

During the debate Ald. William A. Rowan [10th], in discussing the possibility of the Yellow and Checker taxicab companies making operating expenses under reduced rates, said that the Commercial Taxicab company in his ward was making money and charging 15 cents for the first one-third mile and 5 cents for each one-third mile thereafter.

Several of the aldermen said that "watering" the value of cabs on their books was a device used by the companies to prevent their books from showing that they made a profit from operations under present rates.

Quarrel Over Hearing Ex-Driver.

Judge Thomas A. Green of the Municipal court brought to the committee meeting Edward Krego, 5443 Drexel boulevard, a former Yellow taxicab driver, who, the judge said, was to testify that the large taxicab companies caused their men to work 14 and 16 hours a day at starvation wages.

Immediately Ald. Arvey and Ald. Bert A. Cronson [4th] interposed objections to hearing Krego. Ald. William A. Rowan [10th] retorted that there had been considerable testimony concerning "terrible" conditions among independent drivers.

An uproar followed in which Cronson, Arvey, and several other aldermen joined. Eventually Krego was allowed to testify that he had worked 40 out of 48 hours and that the company refused to give him medical attention after his automobile was wrecked when he fell asleep at the wheel.

HUNT HEIR WHO VANISHED FROM FAIR GROUNDS

Police yesterday were searching for Joseph Boren Mahoney, 30 years old, who disappeared from the World's Fair grounds last Thursday. He is the heir to the estate of the late state senator, Joseph P. Mahoney.

For the last six years young Mahoney has been confined to the Mercyville sanatorium at Aurora. He came here to visit the Fair with his nurse, Frank Collins. He was last seen at the gas exhibit in the home planning hall near 28th street. He has dark brown hair, blue eyes, is 5 feet 11 inches tall, and weighs 165 pounds. He was wearing a palm beach suit when last seen. Mahoney had no money, according to his friends.

NO SURE method of preventing baldness or re-growing hair was known thirty years ago. Then—men experimented with cure-all remedies which usually did more harm than good. Now—a few old-fashioned men still use their scalps as experimental laboratories for patent remedies and barber-shop treatments. But modern-minded men have learned that baldness can be avoided and hair can be regrown, when proper specialized treatment is administered to the scalp.

Thinking men realize that the science of hair culture has advanced in pace with other scientific discoveries. They know that Thomas treatment offers the most precise, reliable method known to modern science, of overcoming the various types of dandruff, stopping abnormal hair-fall, and re-growing hair on thin or bald spots. HOW HARRIMAN BANK QUIZ DELAY WAS CONDONED

Clearing House and U. S. Officials Involved.

New York, June 26.—[Special.]—The story of how the New York clearing house, the United States treasury department and the department of justice stayed the prosecution of Joseph W. Harriman for nine months, after false entries were found on the books of his bank, was spread upon the record of a senate investigating committee here today.

In the interim, four members of the judiciary committee's subcommittee were told, the "business as usual" slogan prevailed among the officers and directors of the Harriman National Bank and Trust company until it was closed, not to reopen, when the bank holiday was proclaimed on March 5.

A. J. Columbo, who described himself as "cashier in name only," admitted he had signed his name to a letter declaring all was serene in the bank months after C. C. Francis, a federal bank examiner, had called his attention to false entries amounting to more than $1,300,000.

Go on Soliciting Accounts.

Francis S. Williamson, former executive vice president in charge of new business, declared he went right on soliciting new business and asserted that Henry E. Cooper, whom the clearing house installed as president after deposing Mr. Harriman, urged the "directors themselves to take a more active part in obtaining new accounts."

Two former directors of the bank, James L. Turner and Milton S. Billmire, testified that the stock which entitled them to positions on the board of directors of the bank was owned by Mr. Harriman. Not one of the ten officers who testified did anything about conditions in the bank, but "left every thing to Mr. Cooper."

Mr. Cooper, the present conservator of the bank, was called upon to deny that he had sought to push sales of the bank's stock as recently as last March, when, he had admitted, he was fully cognizant of the institution's condition.

Mr. Cooper testified that the New York clearing house had ousted Mr. Harriman as president of the bank and put him in charge in July, 1932, soon after examiners discovered the false entries in the books. He accompanied Elton Bisbee, attorney for the clearing house, and Boykin Wright, Mr. Harriman's son-in-law, to Washington in December, 1932, to plead for delay in prosecution of his predecessor, he said, because he "had the pledge of the clearing house to see us through."

U. S. Official Also Influenced.

Nugent Dodds, former assistant United States attorney general, likewise had testified that he was guided somewhat in his decision to defer criminal action in the Harriman case until conditions improved because he had been given to understand, at his meeting with Messrs. Bisbee, Wright, and Cooper, that the clearing house was "behind the new setup of the bank."

The former assistant attorney general readily corroborated the statement of United States Attorney George Z. Medalie, the first witness, that he had recommended delay in the prosecution after the matter first came to his attention on Dec. 23, 1932, six months after the alleged defalcations were discovered.

Mr. Dodds did not attempt to explain the six months' delay in the treasury department's reporting the case to him for action after bank examiners reported the alleged defalcations of more than one million dollars to the controller of the currency in June or July of 1932. If the treasury was guided by the same motives that guided him—treading softly on what he described as "rubber ice," Mr. Dodds expressed the opinion that the delay had been justified.

Feared "Financial Chaos."

The former department of justice officer described the banking situation of the last days of President Hoover's administration as so acute that the slightest breath of suspicion against even so relatively unimportant a banking institution as the Harriman National bank might have caused "financial chaos."

During Mr. Dodds' testimony he and Senator Mathew W. Neely of West Virginia, one of the investigators, nearly came to blows, but were prevented, although Senator Neely had picked up a water carafe.

Chairman of the Board.

William A. Burke, vice president and controller, testified he knew of Mr. Harriman's alleged defalcations, but never reported them to the directors because, he said, Mr. Harriman knew all about them and he was chairman of the board.

It was Mr. Harriman's practice, he said, to get a daily balance of all accounts amounting to more than $5,000. Thus he was able to tell whose accounts it was safe to debit for the purchase of an unordered block of stock, he indicated.

PARK POLAR BEAR IS FOUND DEAD; CAUSE MYSTERY

Jake, a big white polar bear, was found dead under mysterious circumstances yesterday at the entrance of his cave in the Lincoln park zoo. When a post-mortem failed to disclose the cause of death Floyd Young, director of the zoo, ordered a chemical analysis of the organs in a search for poison.

While the investigation continued Nellie, a female polar bear and Jake's mate, stayed in one corner of the cage, refusing to play or take any part of her daily meal of bread and fish.

SOCIETY WOMAN IN AUTO SEIZED AS BANDITS FLEE

Mrs. John J. Shinners, 5555 Sheridan road, socially prominent wife of a vice president of Byllesby & Co., experienced several minutes of terror yesterday. Three bandits who had just robbed the Bowman Dairy company's offices at 140 West Ontario street of $1,058 jumped into her automobile, slugged her chauffeur, Stephen Meljak, and drove two blocks with her in the rear seat, screaming for help.

At Orleans and Ontario streets they jumped out and took possession of another automobile in which were Edward Schrambeck, 3420 North Hamlin avenue, and Theodore Bukowski, 4626 Melrose street. They escaped in this car. Mrs. Shinners was not molested, but she was ill from fright and police sent her home at once after notifying her husband.

Fred L. Kemp, 7512 Eastlake terrace, office manager, had prepared the money for transfer to a bank, and Miss Martha Hess, 4848 North Rockwell street, was standing at the counter when the robbers entered the dairy plant. The package of money was taken from Kemp, and with a threatening gesture toward Miss Marilea Helm of the Park-Dearborn hotel, switchboard operator, the robbers backed out and jumped into Mrs. Shinners' car.

Ex-Policeman Is Indicted by U. S. Jury for Theft

Edwin Cusack, a former Chicago policeman, and three others were indicted yesterday by the federal grand jury on charges of stealing $15,000 of merchandise from interstate shipments. The other defendants are Robert W. Bainbridge, 316 West 47th street; Christy Winters, 5932 South Loomis street, and Walter Shephard, 4515 Grand avenue. The government charged the men hi-jacked a load of tires and shoes from Columbus on March 30.

COUNTY ALLOWS TAX ATTORNEY'S $175,000 FEES

Action Taken in Spite of Courtney's Opinion.

Despite the opinion of State's Attorney Courtney that the tax collection contract between the county board and Attorney Lee La Rochelle is invalid, it was learned yesterday that the board last week approved fees and bills totaling $175,000 for the attorney.

Considerable mystery was added to the situation when several of the county commissioners said yesterday that they had only approved $20,000 of Attorney La Rochelle's bills. President Emmett Whealan of the board said, however, that the full amount of the bills had been approved.

"Somebody called me on the telephone after the meeting," Attorney La Rochelle said, "and told me that the board had voted to pay all my bills."

Expect Action by Courtney.

State's Attorney Courtney said yesterday that he had just learned of the board's action. He said he had not yet read the official records of the meeting and would take no action until then. In view of his opinion, issued several months ago, that the contract is illegal, it is expected that he will ask County Treasurer Joseph B. McDonough to refuse to make the payment.

La Rochelle had been special county representative in the filing of personal property tax suits against delinquent taxpayers for the years 1925 to 1930 inclusive. His contract was terminated by the county board last Feb. 15 when it still had six months to run.

La Rochelle said he had collected $2,500,000 in cash as the direct result of court suits, and that during his prosecution of the delinquent taxpayers another $7,000,000 in back taxes was paid. Under his contract with the board, on taxes collected directly through his efforts in court, a maximum of 10 per cent was to be paid to him out of the penalties included in the payments. On this basis, the county owed him and the three attorneys who aided him $235,000, of which $60,000 has already been paid.

Lawyer Tells of Work.

"We collected a great amount of taxes for the county," La Rochelle said, "and the amount that has been approved will pay our bills and leave only a nominal amount for actual fees." The three associate attorneys are Samuel Block, William Walrath, and Elmer Walsh.

State's Attorney Courtney in his opinion had stated that the contract was invalid as the appropriation for it was not provided in the county budget. This opinion was confirmed by Attorney General Otto Kerner, but the board included the appropriation in the 1933 budget.

DETECTIVE BUREAU CELLS FOR WOMEN SOON TO HAVE BEDS

Beds are to be installed in the 44 cells in the women's annex at the detective bureau. At present women prisoners there are compelled to sleep on bare benches.

A week ago Mayor Kelly and State's Attorney Courtney made a secret inspection of the women's annex and agreed, it was said, that beds should be substituted for the benches. Yesterday Joseph Haley, manager of police properties, began measuring the cells for beds.

Police have been averse to equipping women's cells with beds on the theory that innocent girls, held overnight for some trivial matter, might easily contract diseases.

SENTENCE YOUNG WIFE TO JAIL IN CONTEMPT CASE

Mrs. Florence Shraiberg, 21 years old, 4002 West 18th street, was sentenced to the county jail for ten days for contempt of court yesterday by Judge Francis B. Allegretti in the Superior court because she swore she was a pauper to avoid payment of court fees when she actually had sufficient assets to pay them.

Mrs. Shraiberg has a suit for separate maintenance pending against Irving Shraiberg, 2503 North Sacramento avenue, a professional bondsman. On June 6 her husband's lawyers submitted evidence that, although she had filed her suit under a pauper's petition, she owned two diamond rings and had been receiving funds from her husband for her support.

Judge Allegretti ordered her cited for contempt of court and at the hearing yesterday Mrs. Shraiberg testified that the rings, valued at $70 and $90, had been purchased for her by her husband and that he had posted one of them once as security on a bond.

Mrs. Shraiberg was taken to the county jail when she was unable to post a $500 appeal bond.

WIND OFF LAKE SAVES CITY FROM EXTREME HEAT

Once more breezes from Lake Michigan saved Chicago yesterday from extreme heat. At 11 a. m., with the mercury at 88 and all set for a further climb, the wind shifted from the southwest to the east. As a result the reading at 3 p. m. was only 85.

The cooling zephyrs were light and penetrated only a short distance inland. Thermometers at the Chicago airport registered 90 during the afternoon. Bloomington, Ill., reported 104 degrees, the hottest of the year.

Forecaster C. A. Donnel said that today probably would be hot, with little prospect of another day of lake winds.

SUES ATTORNEY, HIS COUNSEL IN MURDER TRIAL

Says Lawyer Knew Name of Actual Slayer.

Rockford, Ill., June 26.—[Special.]—George Bliss, aged 24, who is now serving a 30 year term in Stateville prison for the murder of Floyd Stotler, testified in court here today that Harry B. North, veteran Rockford lawyer, knew that he [Bliss] murdered Stotler during an oil station holdup at the time he [North] was defending another man—Henry T. Olson—on trial for the same murder. That trial resulted in Olson's conviction. Olson jumped a $10,000 bond and fled to New Orleans, where he learned from newspapers that Bliss had confessed to the murder. Bliss' companion in the holdup and murder was Maurice Mahan.

Bliss' confession cleared Olson, who is now suing Attorney North for $50,000 damages, charging the latter knew Bliss and Mahan were the slayers of Stotler when he [Olson] was on trial. North was acting as lawyer for Bliss and Mahan in an appeal from a County court decision on a gun carrying charge, at the same time he was acting as defense counsel in the Olson trial.

Bliss Testifies for Olson.

Bliss, testifying in the damage suit today, testified that he met North in a courtroom shortly before Olson was to go on trial on the charge of slaying Stotler, and that the attorney told him he "knew Olson wasn't guilty; that he had known for some time that I committed the murder and wanted to talk to me. He said that Olson could beat the case, and if he did the best thing I could do would be to beat it."

The circumstances out of which the suit against North has been filed were among the most sensational in northern Illinois court annals. Floyd Stotler, attendant at an outlying gasoline filling station, was fatally wounded by one of two bandits who held him up. Olson was picked up by the police and was identified by Stotler's father.

Convicted at Second Trial.

Olson, although maintaining his innocence, was put on trial for murder. The jury disagreed at the conclusion of the first trial and Olson was put on trial again. The jury this time convicted him. The judge fixed Olson's bond at $10,000, but Olson walked out of the courtroom and disappeared.

While the search was in progress Bliss and Mahan were surrendered to police by their attorney. They confessed the slaying of Stotler. Their complicity in the crime had been revealed by a girl to whom Mahan had bragged that he "shot Stotler."

FRANCE BATTLES TO STAY ON GOLD; MONEY IN FLIGHT

Fear Rest of Europe Will Go Off the Standard.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 26.—With the world economic conference starting on its third week and no progress yet made toward stabilization of exchange rates, it is the feeling in French circles tonight that the gold standard is facing its battle of the Marne.

The French delegation here is preoccupied with reports of a marked increase of gold hoarding in France and throughout the continent during the last two weeks. The weakness of the Dutch guilder, which staged a sensational break today, is a further source of worry. In many circles fear is expressed that the first concrete result of the conference will be abandonment of the gold standard by the remaining European nations.

Plan Reassuring Statement.

To check the wave of panic which is sweeping all the European gold standard countries, the French are anxious to see the conference make some formal gesture of fidelity to the gold standard. Negotiations are proceeding between the French, British, and Americans for a joint statement on gold policy or a series of parallel statements.

So far as can be learned the French have no hopes of enticing the United States delegation into any definite commitments. They merely want an emphatic reiteration of America's desire to return to the gold standard eventually. It is felt that while such a statement would not add anything new to the London deliberations it could be utilized by the French press to reassure public opinion.

Georges Bonnet, French finance minister and head of the French delegation, saw James M. Cox, American chairman of the monetary and financial commission, today and it is reported that the main obstacle in the path of a gold statement is not the American attitude but the British unwillingness to adopt any hard and fast position on monetary questions.

French Seek Pact with Britain.

While the pound remains steady, the French fear that it will eventually follow the dollar downward and they are bending all efforts on obtaining a stabilization accord with England—so far without success.

A close defensive alliance already has been concluded between the central banks of France, Holland, Switzerland, and Belgium, but the French are not pinning too much faith on this bulwark. The break of the guilder today was an indication of the futility of purely technical measures of monetary defense when public trust in a currency is shaken.

Financial experts say the Dutch currency is impregnable to attacks from speculators, but it is impossible to adopt any adequate defense against the flight of capital. A Dutch delegate, commenting on the weakness of the guilder, admitted that the confidence of the Dutch public had been shaken and that unless this is restored it might develop into a serious danger despite the fact that the guilder's gold cover is 70 per cent.

FORMER KING ALFONSO SLIPS INTO PARLEY; LISTENS TO COUZENS

LONDON, June 26.—(AP)—One of the sensations of the world economic conference today was a surprise visit from former King Alfonso of Spain.

He slipped in quietly and was an interested listener to speeches by Senator Couzens [Rep., Mich.] and Neville Chamberlain, British chancellor of the exchequer.

The American delegate was unaware that he was addressing a former monarch. Numerous secret service men guarded the royal exile, and the big police force attached to the conference also was on the alert.

PRINCE MICHAEL GETS A TRIMMING FROM PLAYMATE

[Copyright: 1933; By the New York Times.]

BUCHAREST, June 26.—As a result of action taken by his father, King Carol, Prince Michael is today the proud possessor of several visible bruises inflicted by proletarian fists.

For some time a number of boys from Bucharest public schools have been sharing Michael's work and play in the royal palace. They are selected by King Carol without regard to the rank of their parents. One of them, a special chum of Michael's, is the son of a locksmith.

The king, who often looks in at the boys at meal time, recently noted that Michael had adopted an unduly princely manner with some of his playfellows. Calling the boys to him, Carol said:

"There is one thing you fellows must understand. If any of you lets Michael hit you without giving him a good hiding, you can look out for serious trouble with me."

Michael's bruises followed shortly.

Boy, 15, in Jail for Debt Files Bankruptcy Petition

A voluntary petition in bankruptcy was filed in the federal district court yesterday in behalf of William Weber, 15 years old, who is in the county jail for failure to pay a judgment debt. The petition lists liabilities of $2,568, of which $2,500 represents a judgment awarded Mrs. Lucille Saliba, 1433 South Scoville avenue, Berwyn, who was injured by an automobile driven by Weber. Attorneys commenting on the action expressed doubt as to the propriety of scheduling the judgment in bankruptcy, since it contained a malicious clause and is not dischargeable.

Great Great Grandchild Is Born to London Parley

LONDON, June 26.—(AP)—A great great grandchild was born today to the world economic conference. It bears the name, "The Sub-sub-sub Committee on Limitation of Sales." The principal offspring of the conference are the economics commission and the monetary commission. Of the subordinate groups which have been formed the one appointed today is the lowliest.

COUZENS URGES WORLD ACTION TO AID DEBTOR

Asks Nations to Join Drive to Raise Prices.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 26.—Senator James Couzens of Michigan, the only Republican member of the American delegation to the world economic conference, in a speech today before a monetary subcommittee, recommended immediate action to raise prices and lighten the debt burden as a means of helping solve the world crisis.

He said, however, that he did not believe prices could be raised sufficiently to bring about the proper equilibrium with the existing debt burden.

While prices must be raised and the debt burden lightened, Mr. Couzens said, this must not be construed as an invitation to debtors able to pay to scale down their indebtedness.

No Invitation to Default.

"Certainly it is not an invitation to default," he said. "It emphasizes the necessity for organizing creditors throughout the world, of establishing some form of permanent body to act in an advisory capacity between organized creditors and organized debtors to study by what means the necessary adjustments may be brought about with the minimum of delay and injustice."

Mr. Couzens declared that the United States does not believe prices can be raised by monetary means alone. Purchasing power must also be increased, he said, and America is acting on that belief by instituting the largest program of public works ever undertaken in the history of the world.

"This undertaking," he said, "will energize production and consumption everywhere. Adoption by other countries of such a policy, moving in concert with the United States, would exert a steadying influence upon foreign exchanges. My country's undertaking so large a public works program and other measures to energize industry seems to have lead to a misconception of my government's monetary policy.

Aims to Increase Exports.

"My government believes the fundamental objective is to bring about an increase in production and consumption. Higher price levels will follow and are collateral to an increase in production and consumption.

"We believe that no considerable reduction in unemployment can take place except through an increase in the output of goods and services for home consumption in every country. In my country it will mean increased imports of raw and other materials of which in excess of two-thirds comes into my country without tariff duties.

"An increased demand for raw materials induced by the American program offers, in my opinion, far more hope of world recovery than can possibly be expected merely from the reduction of tariff duties on a number of manufactured articles which are highly competitive between the nations."

Mr. Couzens spoke after Neville Chamberlain, British chancellor of the exchequer, had made a talk in which he said the situation called for a permanent reorganization of all debts, long and short term. He, also, thought a general rise in prices would materially affect the situation to the benefit of the debtors.

He declared that one of the first necessities is to restore confidence in international lending, and to do that full information would be necessary concerning the position and commitments of borrowing countries in the future.

Mr. Chamberlain said a temporary adjustment of debts might be necessary, but each individual case varies and he opposed any omnibus measure. Each pair of debtors and creditors ought to argue out their own case themselves, he asserted.

Urges Voluntary Organizations.

What he did advocate was the formation in each country of organizations of debtors and creditors along the lines of the British Council of Foreign Bondholders, which has been operating successfully since 1868. This, he explained, was a voluntary organization. He deprecated such councils being set up by statutory authority, which, he said, is bound to limit their scope.

Concluding, Chamberlain attacked the Hungarian proposal for a series of national councils of debtors and creditors with an international supercouncil to coördinate the work.

He did not rule out, however, some sort of international advisory body which might help in individual cases if asked, but which should not have arbitrary or decisive powers. He proposed that this suggestion be referred to the drafting commitee of the conference.

A conversation of nearly an hour and a half between Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon and Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinov of Russia failed to exhaust the subject of the strained relations between their countries.

Lieut. Col. John Colville, secretary of the British overseas trade department, was present at the tête-à-tête, which took place at the foreign office and will be resumed in a few days.

Meantime, Litvinov will communicate with Moscow. He issued a noncommittal communique after the conversations stating that he and Sir John "made clear to one another the positions of their respective governments on present obstacles to the renewal of Anglo-Soviet trade." He declined to comment further.

Wheat Pact Blocked.

Conversations among representatives of the large wheat exporting countries—the United States, Canada, Australia, and Argentina—are still at a standstill.

The United States, Canada and Argentina agreed on a plan to restrict the producton of wheat by 15 per cent, but Australia stubbornly refused to agree to any restriction, claiming the right to exploit its natural resources to the uttermost.

It is believed that Stanley Bruce, chief Australian delegate, is willing to compromise rather than have an open break, but he has been unable to get permission from his home government.

India Backs U. S. Silver Plan.

LONDON, June 26.—(AP)—India indicated to the world economic conference today its willingness to coöperate in the rehabilitation of silver, as projected in the resolution of Senator Key Pittman.

India is the world's largest holder of silver, having on hand some 400 million ounces. Its adherence to the Pittman plan, therefore, is considered vital for its success.

India's action left only Canada among the principal holding or producing countries which has not yet spoken.

China, which with India is a huge holder of the metal, and Mexico, the principal producer, have expressed willingness to agree to the stabilization program.

Senator Pittman today called in representatives of Bolivia and Peru, which produce considerable silver, and it was understood they expressed willingness to adhere.

LONDON CONFERENCE EXCITED; PROF. MOLEY ARRIVES THERE TODAY

LONDON, June 26.—(AP)—Assistant Secretary of State Raymond Moley, whose arrival from the United States is awaited with tense interest by world economic conference delegates from many countries, will fly here tomorrow from Cobh, Irish Free State. President Roosevelt's special envoy will depart from the steamship Manhattan at Cobh and take an airplane direct to Croydon field, thus reaching London a day earlier than had been scheduled.

The American embassy, which had planned to send a representative to meet the noted professor at Plymouth, England, was buzzing with excitement on receipt of news of his latest plan and was endeavoring to arrange to get a welcoming representative at Cobh by plane.

Foreign delegations were so excited over the arrival of the President's adviser that it was remarked in one American quarter that "every time a prominent American sets sail from New York one might think Santa Claus was coming."

ROOSEVELT HELD IN PORT BY FOG; CRUISE DELAYED

Had Planned Trip Into Canadian Waters.

BY JOHN HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lake-Man Harbor, Roque Island, Me., June 26.—[Special.]—Fog that rolled in from the bay of Fundy held President Roosevelt weather bound here today in this little island harbor. The mists settled down last night shortly after Amberjack II. cast anchor following her run from Mount Desert island. A lazy wind from off the ocean held the fog ashore throughout the day with no signs of lifting.

The harbor where the schooner lies is cut off from civilization. Ashore are a few fishermen's cottages. But none boasts so much as a telephone. On the President's last trip up the Maine coast he was fogbound here for four days. He spent the day in his cabin, for the most part, reading and going over routine dispatches from Washington.

It was considered doubtful whether the destroyer Bernadou with Ambassador Norman H. Davis would be able to make contact tonight as scheduled.

Course Leaves U. S. Waters.

The course laid out on the charts for the day's run headed to the southeast, across the lower end of the Bay of Fundy to Brier Island light, thence to St. Mary's Harbor. It meant that the President would be going into Canadian waters.

More calamitous than the coming of the fog was the departure of Amberjack II.'s chef, John Cutter, friend of the President, who had been acting as cook for the schooner's crew, left last night for Boston aboard the destroyer Bernadou. This morning found the lockers well stored with delicacies presented by admiring citizens, but with no one to prepare them. The President and his companions breakfasted on cold beans.

Davis Boards Destroyer.

Boston, Mass., June 26.—(AP)—Norman H. Davis, United States ambassador at large and head of the delegation to the Geneva disarmament conference, boarded the destroyer Bernadou at the Boston navy yard late today for a quick trip up the New England coast to join President Roosevelt.

Wife Waiting Arrival.

WELCHPOOL, N. B., June 26.—(AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt arrived here today to visit the Roosevelt summer home on Campobello island. She will supervise the final arrangements for the arrival here Thursday of the President of the United States and his party.

ASK ORDINANCE DOUBLING BEER LICENSE COSTS

Aldermen Threaten Fight Against Committee Plan

The city council subcommittee on beer licenses yesterday voted to recommend for the remainder of the present year a beer license ordinance which would virtually double the present fees charged to beer vendors. The proposed ordinance makes no distinction between saloons selling draft beer, and groceries which sell bottled beer for consumption at home.

The subcommittee, of which Ald. James J. McDermott [14th] is chairman, decided that it will be impossible to draft a whole new beer ordinance in time for adoption before the council recesses for the summer on July 7, and therefore will recommend that the present beer ordinance be continued from July 1, its present date of expiration, to Dec. 31, with several amendments increasing the cost to beer vendors.

Aldermen Threaten Protest.

Several members of the council said that they would protest against the boost in fees when the full license committee receives the subcommittee recommendation today. The proposed ordinance continues the present $150 license for a six month period, but adds a tax of 2 cents a gallon for beer sold. For a small establishment, selling a barrel of beer a day, this would boost the city license cost about 76 per cent. For larger establishments the fee would be more than doubled by the gallon tax.

Another amendment, increasing the license cost for hotels and large restaurants, would charge the $150 fee for each bar, instead of allowing one license to cover the whole establishment. A third would require license applicants to make new applications and post new bonds for the second half of the year. These bonds cost the beer vendor $20. A large number of them, it is understood, are written by Bailiff A. J. Horan of the Municipal court and Martin J. O'Brien, another leader in the Democratic party.

Gives Aldermen Final Word.

Another amendment suggested for the ordinance would make the aldermen the final arbiters as to who is to sell beer in their wards. It provides that after the district police captain and health and building authorities have inspected the premises for which a license is sought, final jurisdiction in granting the license shall rest with the council.

Ald. John Toman [23d] defended this provision. It would prevent a situation, he asserted, under which a city administration unfriendly to an alderman might allow some notorious dive to operate in his ward, leaving him powerless to do anything about protests from his constituents about the place.

Ald. James F. Kovarik [15th] and Ald. James B. Bowler [25th] announced that they would fight against the high license provisions in the proposed ordinance at the meeting today. Both are advocates of moderate license fees as an aid to temperance, holding that high licenses will force saloons to cheat by selling liquor in order to make a profit.

The same views were held by representatives of restaurant and grocers' associations who appeared yesterday before the subcommittee.

Woman Is Sentenced for Illegal Operation

Judge Thomas J. Lynch of the Criminal court refused a new trial yesterday to Mrs. Barbara Kolar, 47 years old, 2131 West 21st street, who was convicted of causing the death of a woman by an illegal operation. He sentenced her to 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary for manslaughter.

GOES UNDER KNIFE

SENATOR BORAH.

Baltimore, Md., June 26.—(AP)—Senator William E. Borah of Idaho underwent an operation at the Johns Hopkins hospital here today for prostate trouble and was reported to be recovering nicely.

"We couldn't ask for a more successful case," said an aid to Dr. Hugh H. Young, the noted urologist, who performed the operation. "It is like a text book case."

Mrs. Borah, wife of the senator, who was in the hospital during the operation, said her husband had been "resting quite comfortably" and apparently was not in great pain.

At Dr. Young's office it was said the senator probably will have to remain in the hospital for two and a half or three weeks.

Senator Borah came to Baltimore Saturday from Washington for what was described as his annual physical examination. The decision to operate was made after his arrival.

3 BOYS DROWN WHILE SWIMMING IN CHICAGO AREA

Three boys, members of hot weather swimming parties, lost their lives by drowning yesterday in the Chicago area.

Daniel Richley, 13 years old, 6518 Aberdeen street, went swimming in the lake at 64th street with four other boys. He dived from some piling into shallow water, and apparently was stunned when he struck bottom. The Jackson park coast guard crew recovered his body half an hour later.

James Winters, 11 years old, 5130 Emerald avenue, drowned in the swimming pool in Sherman park, at Racine avenue and 52d street. He sank unnoticed by other bathers, who discovered his body some time later.

Gordon Johnson, 17 years old, 2718 76th avenue, Elmwood Park, was drowned at Oak Springs beach, near Cary, in McHenry county. He had gone there with his brother and two other boys for a day's outing. Gordon, just learning to swim, lost his life when he stepped into water over his head.

GANG'S AGENTS SEIZED SELLING WHISKY IN LOOP

2 Confess Liquor Deals; Exhibit Beer Orders.

Two alleged agents of Hymie Levine, who ran the loop beer racket for Al Capone, were arrested in the loop yesterday by Sergt. William Drury of the state's attorney's police. They admitted to him, Drury said, that in addition to selling legal brew to more than a score of downtown bars and speakeasies they also were peddling Levine's whisky.

The prisoners are Leo Freid, 35 years old, 6971 Greenview avenue, and James Devine, 34 years old, 1015 West 54th street. When Sergt. Drury stopped them they told him they were selling Gambrinus beer for the Drexel Beverage company, 4258 Drexel boulevard, and exhibited more than twenty-five orders.

Use Former Druggan Brewery.

The beer is made by the Gambrinus brewery, 3100 Fillmore street. Terry Druggan, gangster now serving a sentence in Leavenworth penitentiary for income tax frauds, once operated it until it was padlocked by the government. He still has a claim to the brewery building, according to a report made in April by Malachi Harney, prohibition administrator, when he investigated the brewery's application for a permit to make legal beer.

Harney found, however, that a new Gambrinus Brewing company had leased the building. Edgar J. Sabath, nephew of Congressman Adolph Sabath, is president of the concern. John Martin, superintendent of employment for the sanitary district, is secretary-treasurer, and Ald. John J. Lagodny [21st] is a director.

List Beer Purchasers.

The list of places from which the pair had received beer orders, on the blanks of the Drexel company, were listed, mostly by last names only, as follows:

SHOT BY BANDITS

FRANK FALCO.

Frank Falco, 35 years old, was shot and probably fatally wounded, and his father, Angelo Falco, 63 years old, was less seriously wounded yesterday when the son sprang to his father's defense against two bandits who tried to rob their grocery at 608 Forquer street. At the Mother Cabrini hospital, where both were taken by the police, it was said the younger man was in a critical condition but the father would recover.

CUMMINGS HITS DRY LAW BUREAU; THOUSAND TO GO

Washington, D. C., June 26.—(AP)—As a forerunner of a complete reorganization of the prohibition bureau, probably to be announced tomorrow, Attorney General Cummings today ordered Porto Rico and Hawaii discontinued as separate districts of the bureau and split the Fifth district, embracing six southern states, into two administrative units.

The attorney general's move is expected to result in approximately 1,000 employés of the bureau being furloughed or dismissed, effective June 30.

Today's order directed that the handling of prohibition enforcement in Hawaii, Porto Rico, and Alaska be left to the United States marshals in those territories.

The reorganization to be announced tomorrow is designed to reduce the expense of the bureau 50 per cent. Every branch of the bureau's work will be cut sharply. A number of deputy administratorships will be left vacant. There are in the service approximately 2,500 men and women. It is known that a personnel cut of around 40 per cent has been planned.

HOOSIER STATE TAKES PLACE IN REPEAL COLUMN

Ratifies 21st Amendment in Convention.

Delegates chosen in the special state-wide referendum election June 6 assembled in the state house of representatives chambers and cast Indiana's vote for ratification of the twenty-first amendment to the federal constitution, which repeals the eighteenth [prohibition] amendment.

Fifty-six of ninety-two counties returned wet majorities June 6. Accordingly the delegates voted 246 to 88 today for repeal.

Eggeman Is Chairman.

John W. Eggeman, Fort Wayne attorney and chairman of the United Repeal Council of Indiana, was elected chairman of the convention.

Henry Marshall, Lafayette, led the debate for the wets and Dr. William Lowe Bryan, president of Indiana university, for the dry cause.

"Prohibition repeal is part and parcel of the great recovery movement which is now under way in all parts of the country," said Marshall in presenting the repeal resolution.

"Repeal is inevitable," he said, "and not only because prohibition has failed to work but because of the practical need of the revenues which the outlawed traffic of the prohibition régime has been turning to anti-government uses."

"Mistake," He Declares.

"We now know," he continued, "that it was a mistake to outlaw the beverage business and turn the revenue over to the criminal forces of the underworld. We now know that we are bound to handle the problems of the saloon era on a modern basis suggested by the experience of other nations where the saloon evil as we used to know it has been abolished by constructive common sense.

"We do not have to theorize, for everybody knows there has been a considerable and progressive recovery of farm prices since the Volstead act was modified. The figures are not imaginary.

"The sacred nature of that inherent right of the individual to order his own life, respecting always the rights of his neighbors, is at the heart of the general movement for repeal of prohibition and for the abandonment of the costly folly which has afflicted the country for the last decade and more."

Massachusetts on Repeal List.

Boston, Mass., June 26.—[Special]—Massachusetts at a constitutional convention today ratified the 21st amendment repealing the 18th amendment. The vote was unanimous, all 45 delegates voting for repeal, as they had been pledged.

WEST VIRGINIA WILL GO TO POLLS TODAY TO PASS ON REPEAL

Charleston, W. Va., June 26.—[Special.]—With both major political parties in the state backing repeal, West Virginia tomorrow is expected by a two to one majority to join the wet parade of states seeking abolition of the eighteenth amendment.

Dry leaders who have been campaigning in the hill communities of the state for six weeks have straddled the fence in their predictions and tonight base their hopes on last minute talks by Dr. F. Scott McBride and Clinton N. Howard, nationally known dry leaders.

Senator H. D. Hatfield, campaigning for reëlection, has announced for the dry cause, but Senator M. M. Neely, the other state representative in the upper house of congress, has ignored the campaign.

California Votes Today.

San Francisco, Cal., June 26.—(AP)—With both friends and foes of prohibition forcasting victory for repeal in California, opposing factions in the state-wide election tomorrow were concentrating last minute efforts tonight on getting out a record vote.

More than 2½ million qualified voters were exhorted on many fronts to go to the polls. Repealists predicted a landslide victory, while prohibitionists hoped to muster enough votes to show a "waning of the reactionary wet movement."

Iowa Wet Over 3 to 2.

Des Moines, Ia., June 26.—(AP)—The state executive council today completed its canvass of the vote in the Iowa repeal election last week and officially announced the wet majority as 127,127. The total vote for prohibition repeal was 376,661, and against was 249,534. The ratio was slightly over 3 to 2.

Texas Elects Delegates Today.

Austin, Tex., June 26.—(AP)—Prohibitionists and anti-prohibitionists will hold state conventions here tomorrow to select a list of candidates for delegates to a convention to cast Texas' vote on repeal of the 18th amendment.

The main event will come Aug. 26 when the voters will choose between the repeal and anti-repeal delegates.

ROOSEVELT MAY ASK DIXIE STATES TO SPEED REPEAL

Washington, D. C., June 26.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt is expected to appeal to the voters of the country for quick action on repeal of the 18th amendment in advance of the elections in Alabama, Arkansas, and Tennessee. This appeal, according to those in his confidence, will be based upon the argument that the heavy federal taxes, including those enacted in the recent special session of congress, can be repealed if the federal government can tax liquor.

According to southern politicians, the elections in these three states may be very close. They are hopeful that a statement from the President urging voters to relieve themselves of federal taxation would put these states in the wet column.

CHEER AL SMITH ON EVE OF N. Y. REPEAL ACTION

Albany, N. Y., June 26.—(AP)—Throngs lined Capitol hill today in a drizzling rain and roared a welcome to former Gov. Alfred E. Smith as he arrived from New York City to preside at the Empire state's repeal convention tomorrow.

A brass band blared "How Dry I Am" and "The Sidewalks of New York" as the 1928 Democratic presidential candidate ascended the capitol steps with Gov. Herbert H. Lehman and Mayor John Boyd Thacher II. to make a brief address.

"I consider that tomorrow will be one of the most important days in the history of the United States," Smith told the crowd. "The rank and file of the people of this state were not properly recorded when prohibition was put through 13 years ago, and that one false step brought on 13 long years of prohibition.

Smith promised to say a great deal more tomorrow when he takes over the chairmanship of the convention, all of whose 150 delegates are pledged to vote for ratification of the congressional repeal measure.

Policeman's Son Mistaken for Thief Dies of Wound

Daniel Shea Jr., 24 years old, son of Policeman Daniel Shea of the Rogers Park station, died yesterday at his home at 1917 Estes avenue, of a bullet wound in the spine. He was shot by James Pye, manager of an apartment hotel at 4531 North Ashland avenue. On the night of Dec. 22, young Shea, on leaving a party, jokingly tried to remove a shade from a hall lamp and Pye, mistaking him for a thief, fired. A charge of assault with a deadly weapon is pending against Pye in the Criminal court.

TEXTILE MILLS FIRST TO MEET CONTROL BY U. S.

Submit Code to Industry Czar Today.

Subordinates Pile Up.

Places have also been reserved for the technical experts who will advise the officials, and for representatives of the varying employer and employé interests of the cotton textile industry itself.

In this extraordinary crowd may be recognized the nucleus of a great bureaucratic organization, which eventually will come into supervision over industry. Somewhere on the stage will be made room for the persons who are to give testimony concerning the agreement under discussion.

The procedure to be followed was not available tonight, and Mr. Johnson gave the impression that he didn't know himself, except in a general way. The hearing is expected to develop rules of procedure as it goes along, with a sort of "law merchant" as the administrator has several times described it, growing up to guide future hearings.

The cotton textile industry's code of fair competition is aimed chiefly at setting a minimum wage and a maximum work week of 40 hours. The lowest wages to be paid in the industry, if the agreement is approved, will be $10 weekly in the south and $11 weekly in the north.

Members of Swope's Committee.

The committee of outstanding business men appointed by Secretary Roper to guide the department of commerce in future long range planning for business and industry named as their executive committee, in addition to Mr. Swope, the following.

John H. Fahey, publisher of the Worcester [Mass.], Post; Gen. R. E. Wood, president of Sears, Roebuck & Co.; Henry H. Heimann, executive manager, National Association of Credit Men; Henry I. Harriman, president United States Chamber of Commerce; Edmond C. Van Diest, president General Service corporation; Austin Finch, president, Thomasville Chair company, and O. Max Gardner, former governor of North Carolina.

In addressing this group, telling the business men of his aims, Mr. Roper showed the extent to which he expects the government to enter the field of business control. He spoke of controlling production, the size of factories; aims for raising the standards of living, and asked the committee to study these and other plans.

Control of Ups and Downs.

"In the first place," said Mr. Roper, "there is the major problem of whether or not we can effect adjustments and devise controls which will avoid, or at least ameliorate, the violent periodic oscillations in employment and income which have been becoming more and more extreme and disastrous with the advance of our industrial system.

"This broad central problem suggests a large number of subsidiary problems. For example, in the first place, is there any way by which a balance can be maintained between the growth of productive equipment and the growth and distribution of purchasers' income?

"Can we avoid over-expanding our plants beyond the ability of the community to buy their products? Is this problem in any way connected with the size and distribution of plants? Would there be a closer coördination between plant capacity and consumer demand, if industry were decentralized into smaller plants more widely distributed? Has there been in fact any tendency towards the decentralization of industry? Is there any way of determining what is the best size for a plant in a given industry?

Cotton Reduction Race On.

Atlanta, Ga., June 26.—(AP)—A cotton reduction marathon was on in Dixie tonight and states raced to be the first to cut their acreage within the quota suggested by the government.

A total of 10,000,000 acres, already red and white and green with the staple, must be retired and from Texas to Virginia the planters are mapping plans to cut their crop down in an effort to keep the price up.

Texas says it will be the first to reach its quota. It's the greatest cotton state in the Union. Mississippi, second to Texas in production, says it will be the first.

The initial step in the program is to get farmers to agree to retire 10,000,000 acres already planted. The government will pay them cash or grant options on government owned cotton as an inducement to action.

CENTURY OF PROGRESS NOTES

The lake steamer Juniata, bringing 400 members of the Ohio Pharmaceutical society to Chicago, docked yesterday in the Chicago river between Lake and Orleans streets. The members will spend three days in Chicago visiting A Century of Progress and holding a convention on board the ship, which will also serve as hotel and restaurant.

Mr. and Mrs. John Schmidt of Hinckley, Ill., say A Century of Progress Exposition is the most spectacular of all World's Fairs, and they are qualified to speak with authority. They attended the World's Columbian Exposition, the Louisiana Purchase Exposition at St. Louis, the San Diego Fair, the Panama-Pacific Exposition and the Sesquicentennial Exposition in Philadelphia. They are both 85 years old.

Mrs. Bess B. Dahlquist will give the first of a series of Tuesday lectures at 3 p. m. in the Wigwam of the Lincoln group.

City Sealer Joe Grein's collection of cheating scales, false bottom baskets and short measure alcohol cans is on display on the second floor of the general exhibits group.

The Western Clock company's exhibit in the general exhibits group was opened yesterday. It contains models of time measuring devices from the earliest sun dials to the latest electric clocks.

Tomorrow and Thursday afternoon 1,000 ballons containing 500 tickets to the sky ride will be released from the top of the West Tower of the ride, to float westward over the city. The tickets will be honored for one ride each on the children's day, Friday. One thousand ballons will be released each afternoon. Half of these will carry tickets.

Fireworks displays will be resumed at the World's Fair tonight. Frank Duffield of the Thearle-Duffield Fireworks company, announced last night. Other displays will be given Thursday and Sunday nights and a supershow will be presented on the night of July 4. After July 4 there will be four or five shows a week. A feature of the July 4 display will be a finals on top of the east tower of the Sky Ride.

Commander Evangeline Booth of the Salvation Army dedicated the Army's exhibit in the Hall of Religion yesterday.

A new hay fever and asthma relief device, developed by the Frigidaire division of General Motors, is on display in the General Motors building at the Fair. It is a machine which simulates the cool atmosphere of the northern Wisconsin and Michigan woods. The device was tested in the protein clinic of Johns Hopkins hospital in Baltimore, where Dr. Leslie N. Gay said it brought relief for even the most acute cases.

An office has been opened by the Visitors' Tourist Service at 3101 South Park way to assist Negro Fair visitors. J. H. Brannam is in charge of the office. The service is a branch of the Business Tourist Bureau of Chicago.

James Marshall, 2 days old, one of triplet boys born Saturday at the South Chicago hospital to Mrs. Evalyn Marshall, 8548 Phillips avenue, died yesterday in the infant incubator at the Fair. The babies were born prematurely, according to Dr. Martin A. Couney of the incubator staff, and were taken there so they could breathe life giving oxygen.

The Princess Alexandra Kropotkin, who was to have eaten hash à la Rector with George Rector, manager of the A. and P. exhibit at the Fair, sprained her ankle yesterday while en route in Iowa, thus postponing the engagement until Thursday at 12:30 p. m. At the request of the princess, Mr. Rector will himself prepare the hash, and at the request of Mr. Rector the princess will prepare the rest of the lunch—Russian blini [pancakes], kotletki [cutlets], and ousadba [salad].

Midgets from the World's Fair visited Mayor Kelly yesterday and invited him to their village. "You will find a village free from crime, unemployment and unpaid taxes," said Midget Mayor James D. Doyle, who was accompanied by Thomas Keenan, chief of police of the village; Dutchess Leona, the mayor's secretary, and Prince Ludwig, commander of the village's army. They were given a key to the city of Chicago by Mayor Kelly.

BANDITS ROB DAKOTA MAN.

Three bandits riding in a sedan forced the automobile of Cyrus Manley of Grand Forks, N. D., to the curb at Jackson boulevard and Hoyne avenue yesterday and forced Manley to drive to the 2100 block in Gladys avenue, when they robbed him of $120.

ROBBERS SLUG BUTCHER.

Two robbers slugged Louis Ladmirault, owner of a meat market at 1020 East 78th street, and took $400 early yesterday.

TRADE PAINTINGS AT ART FAIR FOR BIKES AND TEETH

Barrel of Beer Swapped for Etchings.

Business picked up yesterday in barter and exchange in the Grant park outdoor art fair. While artists had sold almost $1,300 worth of paintings and sculpture up to yesterday morning since the opening of the fair on Saturday, many were lending an alert ear to proposals that paintings and such be exchanged for such things as medical and dental service, tea tables and bicycles.

June Knavle was given the choice of a radio or a Japanese tea table in exchange for a painting. She took the tea table. Helen Mann let it be known that she is in the market for a bicycle.

Marcena Barton gave a dentist a painting as advance compensation for fixing up an old poet friend with a new set of teeth. Another artist, name withheld, traded some etchings for a barrel of beer. Cait Mount, director of the fair, swapped a painting for a pair of Japanese arbor vitae. She explained that she wanted them for the grave of her father back in Galesburg, O.

Seek Artist Wanting Violin.

A violin valued at $350 offered for a painting was being held until an artist could be found who could use it, Miss Mount said.

Crowds continued to collect about the gay stalls where almost 600 artists have their work on sale. Particularly popular were the portrait sketchers who turned out a likeness while the patron waited. To keep the broiling sun from blistering their noses, some of the feminine contingent of artists had acquired sun hats of vivid reds and blues, with brims a yard in diameter held on by chin ties.

Among the visitors was Sri Deva Ram Sukuh of Benares, India, who is traveling in America lecturing on the Hindu philosophy. A portrait of him and also one of Gandhi is exhibited by Mrs. Ella Bloom. Catching a glimpse of Miss Mount's sandeled feet displaying vivid red toenails, the visiting Indian remarked that fashion was old in India.

Artist's Wife Celebrates Sale.

"The women in my country have been doing that for centuries. I suppose the fad is just getting over here," he said. He said he considered the art exhibit very good, giving the public a chance to meet the artist.

A few booths away Fritzi Weisenborn had just sold a "nude" for her husband Rudolph, and was celebrating the sale with sandwiches and beer.

"There seems to be a changing attitude toward art," she observed. "The folks from out west and down south aren't so shocked. I think they are more ashamed of their ignorance. But once in a while they look at that abstraction over there and think it is just a puzzle."

The fair will continue over July 4.

Chawa, Noted Egyptian Violinist, Is Fair Visitor

Sami Chawa, noted Egyptian violinist, visited the Fair yesterday. Mr. Chawa has played for King Victor Emmanuel of Italy, who presented him with a jeweled pin when in Cairo on a visit, and has given concerts in London, Paris and Washington.

PUT OFF INQUEST TO FIND MOTIVE IN WOMAN'S MURDER

The inquest yesterday into the murder of Mrs. Mary Morrison, 36 years old, who was shot down Sunday morning in front of her home, 458 North May street, was continued yesterday because police were unable to find a motive for the slaying, which was deliberate. The slayer fired at her five times from an automobile, a 5 year old boy was riding with him.

Joseph Dannenzano, 19 years old, son of Mrs. Morrison by her first marriage, was the only witness to testify. He told of accompanying his mother to mass and then sitting with her on the front porch at the time she was killed.

Mrs. Morrison was married three times, the coroner was told, her first two husbands being dead. The third husband, Clyde C. Morrison, formerly employed by the Commonwealth Edison company, left her three years ago and the son said he now lives somewhere in Indiana.

Bartenders' Union Lists Its Members with Courtney

The Bartenders and Beverage Dispensers' union, Local No. 278, which is affiliated with American Federation of Labor, has submitted a list of its membership to State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney for inspection. Recent arrests of organizers for the union, all of whom were discharged on racketeering charges when arraigned in court, caused John F. Ryan, business representative of the union, to protest police action in making the arrests.

"I had to warm my most attractive assistant"
—says a beauty shop manager

Every girl who works with others should read what this beauty shop manager told her assistant... it may be important in holding any job.

"She was excellent on the job, yet customers never asked for her twice. I'd noticed a hint of perspiration odor from underthings, and when a customer asked for another girl to finish her hair . . .
THAT NIGHT
"I had to tell her. 'Why not Lux lingerie every night,' I suggested. 'No chance of perspiration odor then!' Now . . .
"She is absolutely fastidious . . . my most popular operator, every hour of the day is booked ahead now . . . and 'dates' every evening, too! Four minutes a day with Lux helped her, as it will every girl."

NOWADAYS a job is too important to risk—no girl should take chances with perspiration odor in underthings. Personal daintiness must be protected every day . . . others must never be offended.

It's so easy to do this! We all perspire, and underthings absorb this perspiration, but dainty girls Lux them daily. Lux takes away odor—saves colors and fabrics.

Wash after every wearing. One tablespoon of Lux does one day's undies . . . stockings, too! Use lukewarm water—Lux dissolves instantly in it.

Avoid ordinary soaps—cakes, powders, chips. These often contain harmful alkali which weakens threads, fades colors. Avoid cake-soap rubbing, too. Lux has no harmful alkali. Anything safe in water alone is safe in Lux.

Mrs. J. Iwersen washed 457 small items with one box of LUX:

118 pairs silk stockings and socks
83 pieces silk lingerie, nightgowns, etc.
34 aprons, blouses, child's dresses
42 napkins, doilies, etc.
10 child's sweaters
4 baby blankets
166 handkerchiefs
and did the dishes for 1½ weeks

FAIR DOUBLES '93 ATTENDANCE FOR FIRST MONTH

Maj. Lohr Expects 250,000 Visitors July 4.

Topping the Columbian Exposition's attendance figures by more than 2 to 1, A Century of Progress ended its first month of operation yesterday with results termed highly satisfactory by Maj. L. R. Lohr, general manager.

In a jubilant mood, Maj. Lohr talked of the future of the Fair, convinced that the steady rise in attendance will continue and that the next big peak may be reached July 4. "It's only a guess," said Lohr, "but I expect to see a quarter of a million people here on the Fourth. However, the figure may be anywhere from 100,000 to 500,000."

Double 1893 Fair Figures.

For the first thirty-one days it was open the Columbian Exposition tallied a paid attendance of 1,196,831.

At 11:30 p. m. last night 87,400 persons had paid admissions at the gates. This brings the total for the first 31 days of operation to approximately 2,491,000.

"When we opened," said Maj. Lohr, "we were convinced that the success of the Fair depended upon the impression given on first visits. We worked hard to finish on time and we have not permitted any extensions since the opening day. We didn't want people to see carpenter work going on.

"Now we are permitting a few additions. There will be a few more restaurants with low prices. We want food within the reach of all.

Attendance Above Forecasts.

"The attendance predictions have all proved faulty. One man's guess was as good as another, but we had an idea that the average daily attendance the first month would be in the neighborhood of 75,000. But what happened was this: First two weeks, 60,000; third week, 81,000; and last week, 112,000. Yesterday the figure was around 105,000. I expected to see this carried through for the next two weeks. But some time the figure is going to 125,000, then to 150,000, I feel certain."

Maj. Lohr estimated that concessionaires have taken in $2,500,000 to date. Some are complaining, he said, with a laugh, "but those who complain most are making the most money."

"No Fair has ever taken in as much money at the gate," he added.

Can Accommodate Half Million.

Reports reaching his office indicate to Maj. Lohr that a majority of those now visiting the Fair are "repeaters"—those who come again and again. A decrease in the guide book sales is one index for this conclusion. The first week they sold well; so well not since.

"Could you take care of half a million people?" Maj. Lohr was asked, in reference to the large attendance expected on July 4.

"A half million persons would tax our transportation system and our food facilities, but not the grounds," he answered. "One million might make it uncomfortable, but not half that number."

HUGE JULY 4 CELEBRATION TO BE GIVEN AT FAIR

Tentative arrangements for a huge Fourth of July celebration at the World's Fair were announced yesterday. The day's program will begin at 10 a. m., with a parade down Michigan avenue from just north of the link bridge to the Fair grounds. The parade will enter the Exposition grounds at the north entrance and proceed down the Avenue of Flags to the court of the Hall of Science, where speeches will be made. The speakers have not yet been announced.

Taking part in the parade will be troops from the army, the navy, the marines, various veterans' organizations, Boy Scout troops, national groups of all countries represented in Chicago, disabled veterans who will visit the Fair for the first time, the Chicago police, the Black Horse troop, and a dozen or more bands. All exhibitors and concessionaires at the Fair will be represented by floats.

The American Legion will hold a field day, including several baseball games.

The crowning event of the day will be a colorful pageant, The Progress of the Nation, to be given on the floating theater in the north lagoon from 9 o'clock to 10:15 at night. The pageant will be followed by a huge fireworks display.

Travels Four Months in Covered Wagon to Fair

Here to Join '49ers

A touch of the old west was brought to Chicago last night by Flavius Josephus Helm, 76 years old, of Brownsville, Tex. Flavius arrived in a covered wagon drawn by two aged mules named Jessie and Johnnie.

The Texan, covered wagon and mules were discovered in West Cermak road, proceeding leisurely toward the World's Fair. It was after dark when Flavius whoa'ed Jessie and Johnnie to a halt in the automobile parking lot at 26th street.

The Texan said he hoped to join the Days of '49 camp concession at the Fair. With him was John Lovasco, 16 years old, a family friend, whom he picked up at St. Louis.

Music Box Once Owned by Lincoln Stolen; Recovered

A music box once owned by Abraham Lincoln and stolen from the home of Paul Du Pont, dress designer at 55 Cedar street, was recovered by Chicago avenue police yesterday following the arrest of Charles Levine, 19 years old. Policeman John Onthank said Levine confessed stealing the box and selling it for $2 to W. W. Eckhardt, owner of the chain garage at 4440 North Clark street. Eckhardt, who did not know the music box had been stolen, returned it. The box is worth $500.

PRESS VETERANS OF '93 FAIR TO HOLD REUNION

Men and women who were on the staffs of Chicago newspapers in 1893 and "covered" the World's Fair either as reporters, editors or artists will hold a reunion at A Century of Progress on Aug. 12.

An incomplete list of 150 names of those eligible to attend the reunion has been drafted, and others are expected to be added.

Dedicated by the committee to "celebrate the anniversary of the first typographical error," the chief event will be a banquet at which George Ade, one of those who "covered" the Fair of '93, will be toastmaster.

Among the men and women expected to participate are Frank A. Vanderlip of New York, who 40 years ago was financial editor of THE TRIBUNE; Ray Stannard Baker, then of the Chicago Record; Will Payne, Willis J. Abbot, Forrest Crissey, Slason Thompson, John T. McCutcheon, E. W. Harden, Mr. Ade, John Fay, Harriet Monroe, William C. Graves, Leigh Reilly, Herman L. Reiwitch, Lincoln McMillan and W. G. Schmedken, Allan Eddy, Thomas H. Cannon, Herbert L. Jones, Opie Read, Brand Whitlock, Henry Barrett Chamberlin, Wallace Rice, Carter H. Harrison, and Clint C. Riley.

A committee to arrange for the reunion of "Press Veterans of '93" consists of B. J. Mullaney, now of the Peoples' Gas company, chairman; Charles H. Dennis of the Chicago Daily News; James Keeley, formerly of THE TRIBUNE and now with the Pullman company; James O'Donnell Bennett and Edward S. Beck of THE TRIBUNE. William K. McKay, Chicago correspondent of the New York Daily News, is secretary. Men and women eligible to participate in the reunion are asked to communicate with Mr. McKay, whose address is care of THE TRIBUNE, Chicago.

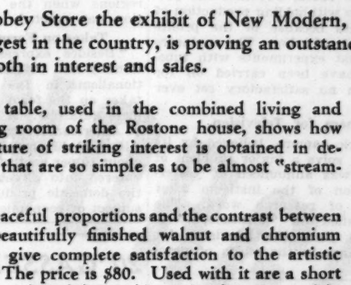
TOBEY

Quality Furniture

When quality merchandise is joined with cash prices and low operating costs, real value results. With its present methods Tobey's reaches the goal of seventy-seven years of one family management to give the greatest possible value in quality furniture.

The New Modern as seen at the Fair



The Modern houses are proving to be one of the features of the Century of Progress. Every day more than five thousand people pass through the Tobey furnished Rostone house at the Fair and their enthusiasm has surprised even the most ardent supporters of the New Modern.

The visitors have found the New Modern livable. They have found that it is fresh and beautiful and without the bizarre ornament that marked much of the "Moderne" that resulted from the Paris exposition of 1925.

At the Tobey Store the exhibit of New Modern, one of the largest in the country, is proving an outstanding success, both in interest and sales.

This table, used in the combined living and dining room of the Rostone house, shows how furniture of striking interest is obtained in designs that are so simple as to be almost "streamline."

Its graceful proportions and the contrast between the beautifully finished walnut and chromium metal give complete satisfaction to the artistic eye. The price is $80. Used with it are a short sideboard and low cabinets in the same spirit. The new modern chairs are strikingly covered.

INSURE Your FULL MONEY'S WORTH by Stocking SAVOY FOODS

SAVOY (Vacuum Sealed) Pineapple, For Example!

With everything pointing toward a downward slide in the purchasing power of your dollar, which means increasing prices, where can you make a better investment in health, enjoyment—and big actual cash savings—than by stocking flavory Savoy Foods?

Savoy Hawaiian Pineapple is a good example. At its present price, it is an outstanding value. You simply can't lose. For SAVOY Pineapple is the finest available in America today. It has, in generous quantities, Vitamins A, B and C. It is valuable as an aid in preventing nutritional anemia. It exerts a great variety of health promoting effects and possesses dietetic values unknown in many other fruits. Those are the hidden values of Savoy Pineapple. But its sparkling, tempting appearance and its individual flavor are not hidden.

You've never tasted anything like the freshness and flavor of Savoy Hawaiian Pineapple—for IT'S VACUUM-SEALED. The ripest fruit—ripened to the height of flavor by the tropical sun—is used. It is placed in the can and vacuum sealed in its natural state. Then—and not until then—is it processed. No flavor-robbing live steam ever comes in contact with Savoy Pineapple. As a result it has no trace of the "cooked" odor and taste caused by ordinary processing. It looks and tastes precisely as the fruit you'd eat if you walked out on the plantation and selected ripest, finest pineapple.

It may sound odd to say "Invest in food," but that is precisely what you will do if you stock up with Savoy Hawaiian Pineapple. It is a wonderful summer food, sparkling, refreshing—and healthful. There will be scores of times during this hot summer when you'll be glad you have it on hand. Sliced or Crushed. Also Pineapple Juice—unsweetened, natural, full flavored.

NEW RADIO SET'S TUBES ARE SIZE OF SHOE BUTTONS

A radio set with tubes the size of shoe buttons was exhibited yesterday in a demonstration of short wave broadcasting before the Institute of Radio Engineers, whose eighth annual convention opened at the Hotel Sherman.

Picking up a commercial broadcast from a Chicago station, B. J. Thompson and G. M. Rose Jr., engineers from the RCA Radiotron laboratories at Harrison, N. J., rebroadcast the program on a wave length of one meter and a frenquency of 750 kilocycles. The ordinary range of wave lengths on commercial stations is from 250 to 500 meters and the frenquency from 500 to 1,500 kilocycles.

Short wave broadcasting is the field promising greatest development in the future of the radio industry, the RCA engineers told their audience of 350 delegates. The development must be turned that way, they said, because the present channels of broacasting are now at full capacity.

Tubes In Experimental Stage.

The new capsule tubes, capable of receiving short wave broadcasts, are only in the experimental stage, they said. However, as the voice of a sports announcer came from a baseball field, the results seemed quite satisfactory.

The RCA men said they were unable to announce what production costs would be on the new tubes. From the simplicity of the tiny glass bulbs and their projecting wire leads, however, it appeared that the cost would be only a fraction of what present tubes sell for.

The fact that the RCA is working on such an inexpensive tube, the engineers said, seems to give the lie to the story spread last winter by the technocrats that it would be quite possible to produce a satisfactory radio set with no tubes, but that the producers were withholding production of tubeless sets because of the profits from the sale of tubes. The engineers asserted that experiments with tubeless sets have been carried on for years, with no satisfactory set ever produced.

Camera for Television.

An electric camera, believed by its inventor to solve a major problem of television, was announced at yesterday's session of the institute after ten years of research work. The camera, called an "iconoscope," is believed to place the television for outdoor scenes in the realm of practicability.

Economic and Industrial Forces Built U. S., Charles A. Beard Explains to Scientists

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Nationalism came under the scope of historical and philological sections of the American Association for the Advancement of Science at a symposium held at the Chicago Historical society auditorium last night. Its American phases, its history in Europe, its effect on war and economics, were discussed by Charles A. Beard, historian, of New Milford, Conn., Albrecht Mendelssohn Bartholdy of Hamburg, Germany, and Bernadotte A. Schmidt of the University of Chicago.

This unique phase of a scientific convention was sponsored by the Far Reaching foundation of Denver. Dr. Beard was the only one to bring the political and racial expression into a form where it might be analyzed, a process so necessary to science. After outlining the colonial and civil war phases of American nationalism, finding the people swinging from nationalism to provincialism "as the shoe pinches," he showed how this nation was really built by industrial and economic forces. He told of the long conflict between the open door industrialists and labor over immigration, and compared American with European nationalism.

American Nationalism Different.

"American nationalism," he said, "notwithstanding certain outward similarities, differs from that of Europe in many respects.

"It never has been associated with a powerful monarchy or state church. It is republican and secular in institutional expression, despite the power of Protestant sects. It is not associated with long and bitter rivalries and wars against powerful neighbors. In the consciousness of the average citizen of the United States, Mexico and Canada are geographical expressions, not armed personalities crouched to spring.

"Nationalism in the United States is not racial in the narrow European sense. The very name American comes from the accidental attachment of a man's name to a map. The number of American citizens who are aware of or take seriously the great Nordic myth is small. Even if the quota system works against certain nationalities of Europe, that may be called an accident of history; it is primarily because the ignorant competitors of the American Federation of Labor came from those regions when the restrictive legislation was enacted.

Takes on Form of Autarchy.

"Besides expressing itself institutionally and culturally, American nationalism, in the economic sphere, takes on the form of an almost complete autarchy. A searching analysis of American foreign commerce by Dr. Alfred Ruhl shows that in 1927 only about 10 per cent of American imports entered into direct competition with the domestic production. While the subject of economic autarchy is being discussed by theorists, the fact has been substantially established as a phase of American nationalism. That, too, is of profound significance for the future of world relations.

"A comprehension of the forces at work in American life, fallible as it is bound to be, is our best hope, is the beginning of wisdom, and provides the only available guidance for those who would shape the world to their heart's desire."

Dr. Mendelssohn Bartholdy said that imperialism carries incomparably greater danger to world peace than nationalism does.

"A realist view of public life as most 'civilized' nations lead it today," he said, "should acknowledge the fact that the world is not yet ripe for the realm of God on this earth nor even for the conception of universal service in which the smaller communities should be enlisted for the human commonwealth.

New Ideals of Germany.

"Recently a series of official declarations on behalf of the new régime in Germany have emphasized the differences between this Bismarckian policy of a little Germany strong in its territorial definiteness, and the new ideals of a spiritual community embracing every German wherever he lives and whatever his citizenship may be.

"One after another the new Nationalist states, whether Fascist or bolshevist or racial, have surprised the world by their readiness to come to terms with their neighbors and even to adopt a strikingly conciliatory policy, sometimes in marked contrast to the imperialistic tendencies of the former governments of their countries.

"A radical change in the general conditions of life, the distribution of power, and the political religion of man can never be attained and carried through without intense suffering, both physical and moral. Such suffering, indeed, is by many philosophers said to be the very ferment by which the process of forming a new unit is made possible.

Imperialism vs. Nationalism.

"Imperialism uses the means of ruthless economic competition, of conquest and colonial exploitation, and, in the last resort, war, to inflict the suffering on others. Nationalism confines the travel to its own people by cutting them off, at least during the first revolutionary stages of its coming into existence, from the outer world, declaring a state of siege at home and creating a new ruling class out of those who had no share in the patrimony of the state of yesterday. Peace abroad suits a Nationalist government at home."

Prevention of war, he said, is largely a matter of domestic policy and good citizenship. War as we know it today, he said, shows an inherent tendency to defeat its own professed ends. During the trial of war socialism in the material sense of the word gains enormously at the expense of individualist liberalism.

Bernard Fay, College de France, Paris, and Charles E. Merriam of the University of Chicago, led in the discussion.

Fifteen engineering sections of the association met in various Chicago hotels yesterday and discussed the technical progress of their work.

Progress in science must not halt because of the mistaken fear of the economic results of invention, H. P. Charlesworth, vice president of the Bell Telephone laboratories of New York and retiring president of the Institute of Electrical Engineers, said at a meeting at the Edgewater Beach hotel. The atack on the problem, he said, should be to advance the social organization to keep pace with the physical sciences.

Clashes between various schools of technocracy are expected today at the sessions of the National Technological congress and the continental convention on technocracy, which opens at the Morrison hotel. Gen. William I. Westervelt, technical director of Sears, Roebuck & Co., will open the meeting. Stuart Chase, Clarence Darrow, Dr. A. Eustace Haydon of the University of Chicago; Howard Scott, director of Technocracy, Inc., are among the speakers.

Praises Railway Efficiency.

The railroads have shown greater progress in eliminating waste and promoting efficiency than any other industry, R. H. Aishton, chairman of the Association of Railway Executives, told the mechanical engineers at the Palmer house.

"I assert without hesitation," he declared, "that more efficient and economical operation, the result of research and mechanical improvement, is all that has saved the railways from extinction during this period."

Samuel O. Dunn, editor of Railway Age, presented facts to show the reduction in railroad accidents since 1913. For railway employés killed this improved from one to each 498 in 1913 to one for each 1,907 employés in 1931. The number of passengers killed in 1913 was one for each 3,000,000 carried. In 1931 this was one for each 13,000,000 carried.

FARM FAMILIES BECOMING JUST LIKE CITY FOLKS

Sociologists Are Told of New Rural Life.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

That important unit of American life, the farm family, went into the laboratory of a sociological round table discussion yesterday in Judson Court lounge at the University of Chicago, and came out not materially different from its urban counterpart. Prof. E. A. Ross, head of the sociology department at the University of Wisconsin, summed up tersely the major changes in rural existence of the past generation in an address to the sociology section of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

"There are fewer children," he said. "Farm women as well as city women know and practice birth control. The child is not so valuable in farm work as he used to be. More has to be done for each child, under a higher system of education, consequently a big family is more of a burden. There is less reliance on the Bible than in the old days and less cultivation of uncongenial relatives.

"Parents are more enlightened about instructing their children. Improvements in roads generally has decreased the difference between town and country families."

E. L. Kirkpatrick, also of the University of Wisconsin, presented a financial analysis of the farm groups based on a 1932 survey that demonstrated graphically what happened to 100 families in Green county, Wis., during the depression.

The survey showed that the average net cash income of the families dropped more than $1,000 during the depression. Receipts averaged $3,198 in 1929 and $1,441 in 1932, originating in the sale of live stock, live stock products and crops, and from miscellaneous sources. Deduction of expenses left an average net income of $1,221 in 1929, and only $91 in 1932.

Costs of living were cut, in the average family, from $1,713 to $1,390 in terms of 1929 dollars. Purchases of clothing and house furnishings were sharply reduced, the investigators found. The car, the telephone, the radio and daily paper were largely eliminated during the period of financial pinch.

Musicians of the gay '90s may get out their pearl inlaid mandolins and pick the strings to their hearts' content. It's fashionable again. The American Guild of Banjoists, Mandolinists and Guitarists brought the news to their 32d annual convention, attended by 400 persons, in the Hotel La Salle.

But the old favorites like "Cupid's Realm" overture, "Over the Waves" waltz, and "La Tipica" polka that used to delight the mandolin clubs of 40 years ago, will be out of date.

"Banjo, mandolin, and guitar and their kindred instruments are not to be considered as schoolboy tinkle-tinkle instruments," James H. Johnstone, secretary-treasurer of the guild, explained. "They're capable of playing some of the greatest compositions ever written for regular orchestras. Now the mandolin or banjo orchestra has all the voices of the choir. We have the mandolin, which corresponds to the violin voice; the mandola to the viola; the mando-cello, to the violincello, and the mando-bass, to the string-bass. The same holds true for the banjo."

Seventeen orchestras are competing for silver cups at the convention. The Gould Mandolin orchestra of Minneapolis, composed of 40 pieces, played last evening in the Minnesota building at A Century of Progress. The Battle Creek Plectrophonic orchestra, which is also competing, will play at the Michigan building this afternoon.

JUDGE SETS TRIAL OF 3 ACCUSED IN 'TERROR MURDER'

CRIMINAL COURT.

Lonzon Simpkins, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Phillip L. Sullivan.

The murder trial of John Rooney, secretary of the Circular Distributors' union, his sweetheart, Rosalie Rizzo, and Henry Berry, a union business agent, was set yesterday for July 10 by Judge Rudolph F. Desort. The defendants are charged with the murder of Stanley Gross, 21 years old, a guard for Goldblatt's department store at 1609 West Chicago avenue, who was shot to death a month ago in front of the store. The trial date was set after Judge Desort had overruled a defense motion to quash the indictment. The state charged that the murder climaxed a campaign of terrorism directed at merchants who refused to employ union members. The state was ordered to furnish the defense with a list of witnesses not later than July 5.

THOUSANDS HERE FOR OPENING OF GROTTO PARLEY

Several thousand members of the Mystic Order of the Veiled Prophets of the Enchanted Realm and their wives arrived in Chicago yesterday for their annual convention. Many of the visitors came from Canada. The sessions will open this morning in the grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel and will continue through Thursday.

Mayor Kelly will welcome the delegates to the city and the World's Fair. Other addresses of welcome will be delivered by Masonic dignitaries. At 2 o'clock the delegates, wearing their colorful uniforms, will hold a parade in Michigan avenue.

A dinner dance was held last night at the Medinah Michigan Avenue club, with Lamar Field, the grand monarch, and other officers of the lodge as special guests. Among the early arrivals was Mayor John S. Herron of Pittsburgh and a party of 200 members of the Islam grotto of that city.

ICE FUND GIFTS LAG AS HOT WAVE INCREASES NEED

While the heat continued yesterday to accentuate the need for ice in hundreds of underprivileged homes, THE TRIBUNE free ice fund received only $38 to bring relief to these families. A check for $25 came from a person who asked that the gift be acknowledged as from "a friend."

To date, including yesterday's gifts, the fund has received only $262.18. Early this month with the first heat wave tickets were distributed for 125,000 pounds of ice, asuring needy families of ice over the hot spell. This service must be continued. Mothers are depending on the ice fund to keep their children well and their babies' milk fresh and sweet.

Gifts were received yesterday from the following:

FREE ICE FUND.

$25—A Friend.
$5—J. C. C.; Ida Ray.
$2—Evelyn.
$1—Daisy.

Total	$ 38.00
Previously acknowledged	224.18
Grand total	$262.18

The Camp Algonquin fund, which provides free vacations for needy mothers and children, was sent $25 by Helen B. North. "Evelyn" sent $5, and Mrs. J. W. Pieper $1. This gives the Camp Algonquin fund a total of $1,074.99.

Contributions to both funds should be directed to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower. Each gift will be acknowledged in THE TRIBUNE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

QUEBEC, Que., June 26.—Police today tossed tear gas bombs into a crowd of 500 idle who had massed around the city hall here and threatened to raid a wholesale provision warehouse. One man was arrested and will be charged with fomenting a riot. Between twenty and thirty were overcome by the fumes.

The men had gone to tell the mayor of Quebec to hurry up with distribution of relief money.

"Let's raid the J. B. Renaud store. We'll get some food there," one of the men called out, and immediately there was a break for the door. It was here the police tossed bombs.

SPANISH FLYERS FOUND DEAD IN MEXICAN WILDS

Wrecked Plane Located Near the Coast.

MEXICO CITY, June 26.—(AP)—The federal minister of interior tonight announced that the bodies of Capt. Mariano Barberan and Lieut. Joaquin Collar, Spanish trans-Atlantic flyers, missing six days on an attempted flight from Havana, and the wreckage of their plane, Cuatro Vientos, had been found in a lagoon in the state of Tabasco.

A tug, the announcement said, will leave at 3 a. m. tomorrow to take the bodies to Puerto Mexico.

The minister's information came from R. Vazques Cerda, chief of immigration at Puerto Mexico, who said: "Airplane Cuatro Vientos found wrecked in the lagoon Alacran, state of Tabasco. Pilots dead."

Found By Oil Man.

The aviators, who recently flew from Seville, Spain, to Camaguey, Cuba, took off early last Tuesday from the Cuban capital for this city, whence they planned to fly to Chicago. They were last reported flying over Tabasco. Meanwhile mountains, swamps, jungles and plains in southeastern Mexico had been searched by land, sea and air to locate the officers.

The discovery of the wreckage and bodies was made yesterday by a man identified only as Señor Balcazar, presumably a field man for the British Eagle Oil company which is doing exploratory work in that region.

A message to the company from its lineman at the camp of Agua Dulce, Vera Cruz state, said Balcazar reached there today with news of the discovery, asserting he had found the wrecked plane with the flyers dead in the cabin.

Recall Severe Storm.

Commercial airplane pilots recalled tonight that a severe storm was in progress over the Alacran zone at about the time the Spanish plane was believed to have reached there. This area is about 130 mile west of Carmen, Campeche, where the plane was reported about 10 a. m. last Tuesday.

Alacran, which is in a dense, uninhabited, swampy jungle, is about ten miles inland from the coast near a lagoon. It is about ten miles north of the regular Pan-American Airways route from Mexico City to Havana.

The discovery indicated that the plane was almost exactly on its charted course and had not been flown to sea, as some aviators thought. Air officials familiar with the Alcazar sector believed the plane was caught in a violent tropical storm and that either the motor failed or the pilot lost control of the ship.

HUSBAND CAUGHT IN PARTY THEFT, WIFE TESTIFIES

The light fingered tendencies of her husband, Sylvanus Hooper, 6206 Wabansia avenue, were described to Judge Joseph Sabath in the Superior court yesterday by Mrs. Bernice Hooper, 1841 Newcastle avenue, when she appeared to ask temporary alimony.

She has a bill for divorce pending, from which her attorney, Norman Becker, read to the judge the charge that Hooper is a victim of kleptomania, causing him to pick up ashtrays, silverware, and other valuables at parties to which he and his wife attended. She kept such a close watch on him to prevent such occurrences that friends accused her of jealousy, Mrs. Hooper charged.

"Why just two weeks ago," charged Mrs. Hooper, "he walked out of a party carrying a teakettle."

"I did not walk out with it," replied Hooper.

"No," she retorted, "you didn't. You got caught."

Judge Sabath granted her $10 a week temporary alimony. She protested, asking for more.

"I'm afraid that if I make it higher," said Judge Sabath, "your husband may go out and pick it up."

"And I'm afraid he'll take it out of my purse after I get it," she replied.

Quake Hits East Indies

BATAVIA, Java, June 26.—(AP)—Sixty-seven persons were killed today in a severe earthquake which struck South Bencoolen, a seaport on the west coast of Sumatra. The quake also was felt at Kota Agung, Palembang, and Lampung. At Kota Agung nine were killed and 40 injured. Nearly 300 houses collapsed there.

BANKRUPT'S WAGE ASSIGNMENT IS HELD AS INVALID

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday affirmed the decision of Federal Judge George A. Carpenter that wage assignments are not valid after the person who made the assignment has been adjudged bankrupt. The decision was made in the case of Edward W. Skorcz, an employé of the Chicago By-Products Coke company, who assigned his wages on a loan of $1,800 made by the Trustees System Service corporation, now in receivership, to August G. and Marion J. Roloff.

The loan, of which all but $650 was paid, was secured by a real estate mortgage and Skorcz's wage assignment. After Skorcz was adjudged bankrupt on May 17, 1932, the Trustees System Reinco company, the present owner of the assignment, tried to collect the money. The Appellate court decision, made by Judge William M. Sparks, with the concurrence of Judges Samuel Alschuler and Evan A. Evans, held that "wages to be earned in the future are not property upon which a lien may attach."

An appeal is pending on a second wage assignment case in which Federal Judge John P. Barnes ruled that the wage assignment is valid after bankruptcy.

Orphans Who Saved Train from Wrecking to See Fair

Six boys from the Passaic Home and Orphan asylum of Passaic, N. J., who discovered a washout on the Erie tracks near their home and flagged with their coats an approaching commuter train, will arrive today in Chicago as guests of the railroad. The boys, ranging in age from 11 to 15 years, are Rudolph Borshe, Jake Melnizik, Douglas Fleming, Frank Mazzola, Mike Mazzola, and John Murdock.

MISLEADING ADS DENOUNCED AT U. S. CONVENTION

Speaker Warns Nation May Take Action.

Grand Rapids, Mich., June 26.—[Special.]—"Predatory, fraudulent, unscrupulous and objectionable advertising" was condemned by speakers today as the Advertising Federation of America opened its twenty-ninth annual convention here.

"The truth in advertising movement did much to put advertising on a firm foundation," declared Edgar Kobak of New York, president of the National federation. "There is still some fraudulent and otherwise objectionable advertising, but an even greater problem is presented in the kind of advertising copy which challenges public credulity and threatens to lower its respect without actually being fraudulent or indecent."

Raps Exaggeration.

"The tendency toward dramatization has gone too far," Mr. Kobak continued. "Consumers are beginning to be annoyed at copy which attempts to create in a product intangible values which are not inherent in the article itself. Our house is not clean. Small wonder that legislation was drafted to force truth in advertising."

Maj. Benjamin H. Namm, president of the Namm store, Brooklyn, addressing the Newspaper Advertising Executive association, as vice chairman of the fair practice committee of affiliated better business bureaus, predicted that if each industry and craft does not "put its house in order the government will step in."

The new national recovery act is a favorite topic of consideration in all the sessions. Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg wished it well, but "dropped a flower on the constitution's grave."

Roosevelt Makes Appeal.

President Roosevelt and Hugh S. Johnson, administrator of the national recovery act, called upon the advertising industry to help the nation to fight the depression. President Roosevelt's letter said: "I wish you would say that I hope the high standards which have made good advertising an economic and social force vital importance to us all will be continued. Your coöperation will be valuable to the restoration of improved levels and flow of trade. It also will help business and industry to return to better times. By doing these things you will be serving your country and government."

The convention will end Wednesday, and most of the 1,000 delegates will go to Chicago Saturday to participate in advertising day at A Century of Progress.

FAIR VISITOR IS HELD UP.

Martin Zichowski of Detroit, a visitor at A Century of Progress, was robbed of $16 by three gunmen at Van Buren street and Maplewood avenue early yesterday.

THOUSANDS PERISH AS FLOOD DESTROYS LARGE CHINESE CITY

HANKOW, China, June 26.—(AP)—A cloudburst in eastern Kweichow province has resulted in the destruction of the important city of Tungjen with a great loss of life, according to meager advices reaching here. The date of the disaster is not known, but it is believed to have occurred June 20.

Advices received here said that in addition to destroying Tungjen, drowning thousands of persons, a wall of water swept through the Mayen river valley, drowning an additional thousand and destroying many villages. Dispatches said that the American Evangelical Mission hospital at Tungjen, the headquarters of which are in Cleveland, O., was partly destroyed.

The disaster was described as the worst the area has experienced in thirty years. Floods swept down the Mayen valley early in the morning without warning, it was said, and they struck Tungjen while the city slept. Tungjen is 400 miles southwest of Hankow.

DELAY VERDICT UPON DEATH OF DRY LAW VICTIM

Oskaloosa, Ia., June 26.—[Special.]—More than 600 persons gathered in the Mahaska county courthouse here tonight to hear testimony at the inquest into the death of Gerald Blackwood, unarmed fish peddler who was shot and fatally wounded June 16 by three dry raiders. The coroner's jury will consider the evidence and return a verdict tomorrow.

It was shown in the testimony that the shot which caused Blackwood's death was fired by Police Chief Howard Allgood of Oskaloosa. The others in the raiding party, who went to an island in the Des Moines river at Eddyville, ten miles from Oskaloosa, were Sheriff Frank Hook of Mahaska county and a deputy, Fritz Van Genderen.

Reached for His Pocket.

All testified and stuck to their original story that Blackwood was killed when he reached toward his hip pocket as if to get hold of a pistol when the dry raiders flashed a light on him.

Mrs. William Stanton, mother of the slain young man, took the stand and told of the deathbed statement he made. She testified that he told her he had been fishing on the island and was startled when the light was flashed on him. Attempts were made on cross-examination to show that Blackwood at first believed that Sheriff Hook had been the man who fired on him.

Result of Family Protest.

Until tonight the three officers had refused to tell who fired the fatal shot.

Dr. Leroy Patterson, county coroner, appointed a jury of three undertakers after the members of Blackwood's family demanded an official investigation.

There was no testimony brought out to show that Blackwood had any present connection with bootlegging operations. He made a living, it was said, selling fish he caught in the stream. He had been arrested some time ago for a minor dry law violation.

PRESIDENT OF BANK KILLS HIMSELF AT EAST ST. LOUIS HOME

East St. Louis, Ill., June 26.—(AP)—Conrad Reeb, president of the Southern Illinois Nationad Bank and Trust company of East St. Louis, shot and killed himself today at his home here. He had been connected with the bank for 40 years.

Police said they did not know why Reeb ended his life. His widow, two sons and three daughters survive.

Dr. Carl Wilhelm said he had been treating the banker for nevousness.

Paul S. Abt, vice president of the bank, in a statement said: "As far as the affairs of the bank are concerned, there was no reason for him to take this rash step, any indebtedness which he owed to the bank is more than covered by securities."

SAYS WALL ST. SHUT BIG BANKS TO "GET" FORD

Witness Tells of 'Holiday' in Michigan.

of any information to the Houston bank management.

Apply for R. F. C. Loan.

On Feb. 5, the witness asserted, the officers of the Guardian group had gone to Washington and applied to the Reconstruction Finance body for a loan of $47,000,000.

Discussing a trip he took to Washington, Wilkin said he was told by F. G. Awalt, then comptroller of the currency: "We've been too easy on you birds all over the country. Now we're going to be tough."

The banker added that he had not heard of any other states being treated as shabbily by Washington as Michigan, but that "they were plenty tough here."

In regard to the withdrawal of $4,000,000 from the two institutions, and the paying out of the money after the issuance of the governor's bank holiday proclamation, Wilkin said this was of doubtful legality.

Came as Surprise.

Wilkin testified that he "never had any intimation" that the Guardian group was tottering. He believed the Guardian National bank was sound when the holiday was declared.

He said the Union Guardian Trust company required a large R. F. C. loan at the end of 1932 because of shrinkage in deposits and the value of its assets. He said the shrinkage in deposits was due entirely to the condition of the times rather than to "smart" money withdrawals.

"Yes, he knew all about them."

Wilkin said Ford was recognized as the greatest industrialist not controlled by the "financial groups of Wall street."

"Is it also true that the government, whenever it was asked for loans, always wanted to know why 'Henry Ford does not come across'?" Judge Keidan interrupted.

"Yes, sir," Wilkin said emphatically.

"That was true on several occasions?" Judge Keidan asked.

"Yes, sir," Wilkin repeated.

Cites Saginaw Purchase.

One instance of the alleged cooperation by federal bank examiners with those who wanted to buy the holdings of the Guardian group cheaply was referred to by Wilkin. It concerned the Second National bank of Saginaw. Officials of the New National bank of Detroit, he said, tried to purchase the Saginaw institution for $54,000, but were finally forced by the receiver to pay $400,000.

BANK LOANS 14 MILLION

Cleveland, O., June 26.—[Special.]—The Union Trust company, now in the hands of a conservator, loaned the Vaness company, $14,000,000 during a three day period, records of the closed bank have disclosed.

The Vaness company is one of the major companies operated by O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen. It is divided into three active holding companies: The Metropolitan Utilities, Inc.; Terminal Property company, and General Securities company. The Geneva corporation, formerly a fourth branch of the parent Vaness firm, has since been reabsorbed by Vaness.

Records reveal that various holdings of the Van Sweringen interests were pledged to secure a demand note of $5,000,000 dated Oct. 29, 1929, in favor of the Union Trust company, and again to secure a demand note of $9,000,000 dated Nov. 1, 1929 in favor of the Union Trust.

Refuse to Discuss Loans.

Neither Liquidator Oscar L. Cox nor Joseph R. Kraus, chairman of the board of the Union Trust, would discuss the loans. Cox indicated the loans have not been satisfied.

At the time of the recorded making of the loans the statutory lending limit of the bank, as provided by law, was approximately $7,500,000, according to officials of the bank. This limit is set up by law as 20 per cent of the capital and surplus of the bank, and not more than 4 per cent unless a complete statement of the borrower's assets and liabilities is filed with the bank.

SHERIFF WAITS FOR A WARRANT BEFORE ARRESTING KINNEY

Peoria, Ill., June 26.—[Special.]—Arrest of Garrett De Forrest Kinney, former director of finance under the Emmerson administration, has been ordered by Attorney General Otto Kerner.

Sheriff Frank W. Lichtweiss today admitted that Kerner had ordered the arrest, but that he was awaiting a state warrant before he placed Kinney in custody.

Kinney's condition was greatly improved today. He sat up a part of the day. Dr. N. W. Cutter announced a crisis probably would come tomorrow in his condition and it would be ascertained whether there would be infection in the wound.

Will Look to Bond.

Springfield, Ill., June 26.—(AP)—The National Surety company of New York will be asked to make good on the $25,000 bond it gave as surety for Garrett Kinney, former state finance director who shot himself at Peoria last week. State officials said that if necessary suit would be filed against the bonding company.

Information at the attorney general's office was that no warrant for the arrest of Kinney would be issued until his condition has shown considerable improvement.

30 HOUR WEEK FOR MILWAUKEE EMPLOYES KILLED

Milwaukee, Wis., June 26.—[Special.]—The common council tonight killed a plan, advocated by Socialist leaders, for a 30 hour week by city employés. Instead, by a vote of 14 to 12, the body passed a resolution sponsored by Ald. Cornelius Corcoran specifying that the 40 hour week, put in effect for municipal workers eight months ago, shall not be disturbed.

It was proposed by the Socialists that if the 30 hour program were adopted the pay of workers should be reduced, by voluntary contributions, proportionately with the hour cuts and additional workers hired. This would have left total pay rolls the same and the burden on taxpayers unchanged.

The Corcoran resolution provides further pay reductions, in voluntary contributions, of from 10 to 25 per cent. The expected saving of $75,000 would be used for direct tax relief. Past pay cuts have gone for relief purposes. City employés, who have not been paid for three months, regarded the cuts, even if called by a more pleasant name, as ironical under the circumstances.

RENEW BANKING HEARING TODAY; KAHN A WITNESS

Debate Possible Effect of Mitchell Verdict.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 26.—[Special.]—Otto H. Kahn of New York, head of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., one of the largest private banking houses, will be the first witness tomorrow, when the Pecora committee resumes its inquiries into banking practices.

Mr. Kahn arrived tonight with three of his partners, William Wiseman, Benjamin J. Buttenweiser and George Bobenizer, attended with lawyers and experts from their establishment. They declined to discuss the hearing.

Ferdinand Pecora, the committee's lawyer, declared that the interrogation tomorrow will concern itself with various railroad financing issues and foreign bond issues, with especial attention to the Pennroad corporation, a holding corporation for railroad securities. Pecora says originally the corporation was organized and controlled by officers of the Pennsylvania Railroad company, and Kuhn, Loeb aided it in marketing securities and received $5,251,586 for its services.

Will Follow Morgan Inquiry.

Mr. Pecora says he does not expect a selected list of individuals to whom securities were offered similar to those brought out in the J. P. Morgan and company inquiry, will be presented.

In a general way it has been indicated that the Kuhn, Loeb inquiry will be on similar lines to the recent hearing of J. P. Morgan and company, in this case the pivotal interest being Mr. Kahn, who, in addition to being a banker, is president of the Metropolitan Opera company, vice president of the Philharmonic Symphony orchestra, a director of the Federation of Arts and treasurer of the American Shakespeare foundation.

Affected by Mitchell Verdict?

A feeling seems to be prevalent in the capital that the acquittal of Charles E. Mitchell, former chairman of the National City bank, on a charge of having evaded income tax payments for 1929 and 1930, has thrown a damper over the Pecora hearings. Senator Fletcher holds to the opposite, and today he reiterated his remarks of last week, to the effect that the acquittal of Mitchell will have no influence upon the conduct of the inquiry.

"Before the inquiry is finished," he said, "we shall go into banking practices and in addition examine the investment trust situation and the use of holding companies to effect unwholesome business purposes.

"The principal job is that of disclosing speculative practices which, in the name of investment, robbed millions of people of their savings."

The hot weather, it appeared today, may be a factor in determining how long the hearings will run. The weather man began to turn on the heat again today, after Sunday's thunderstorms, and Chairman Fletcher, mopping his brow in his office, said the extent of the hearings would depend upon the interest displayed by his committee colleagues. He did not intend to stay in Washington alone during the hot weather.

Hot Weather a Factor.

After finishing with the Kuhn-Loeb hearings the program has been to take up Dillon, Read & Co., but today it was declared that if the weather keeps hot this inquiry may be held over until fall.

Pecora has been in New York, delving into the private files of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., as he did into the house of Morgan.

$25,000 DAVIS FEE FOR CHILEAN LOAN, DEFAULTED LATER

Washington, D. C., June 26.—[Special.]—One report published in an afternoon paper here was that Norman H. Davis, roving ambassador to Europe, accepted a $25,000 fee from Kuhn, Loeb & company, in connection with negotiations for a Chilean potash loan in 1930, and that the loan was defaulted later. During the Morgan inquiry, Davis was among those on the lists of "favored customers" to whom certain securities had been allotted by Morgan and company at ground floor quotations.

"Fee," Davis Says.

Boston, Mass., June 26.—[Special.]—Norman H. Davis, en route to confer with President Roosevelt, discussed his connection with the Kuhn, Loeb Chilean transaction, which, it is reported, the senate committee soon will take up at Washington.

"Yes, I received $25,000 as a fee in that matter," Davis admitted.

"Were you a government official," he was asked.

"I helped to negotiate the loan as a private citizen."

"Did you negotiate it while in the United States?"

"Yes, I was here. Now, look here, I am willing to work for the government for nothing. That transaction was made as a private citizen and had nothing to do with our government."

OPEN GRAND JURY INQUIRY ON OLD W. PARK BOARD

Quiz Auto Supply Dealer on Sales.

Presentation of evidence in the west parks scandal to the grand jury was started yesterday by the staff of State's Attorney Courtney, who has had two assistants, Henry Seyfarth, and T. J. Strachan, investigating the affairs of the former park board for the last month.

The first witness, it was learned, was Earl Greenspan, head of the Commercial Tire and Supply company. Greenspan was questioned, it was reported, regarding the sale of several thousand dollars worth of automobile chains to the parks when they were run by a Republican board under the presidency of W. R. James.

Investigators deemed the price paid for the chains to be excessive. The audit of the park books made for President Harry Joseph of the present park board after he took office named Greenspan's concern as one of many companies which made sales to the old park board without the formality of submitting bids.

Charge Disregard of Law.

The ordinances of the park provide that all purchases of more than $500 must be made after submission of sealed bids, but the old board, it is charged, disregarded this law on a wholesale scale. The auditor reported that the Commercial Tire and Supply company made sales totaling $3,702 to the park board between March 1, 1932, and Jan. 30, 1933, without ever submitting a bid, so far as park records show.

Greenspan, it is reported, was only the first of many supply dealers who will be called before the grand jury and asked to tell how they got fat contracts or orders from the park board without submitting bids. The audit lists 32 concerns which sold supplies to the park board in a single year, in amounts of more than $500, without submitting bids or receiving a contract.

Find Bids Ignored by Board.

It also shows several instances where bids were submitted, but where the board failed to give the contract to the lowest bidder. In some cases, the auditor found, the bids which were received were apparently ignored, while the board made purchases at higher prices from concerns which had not entered bids.

The pace of the park investigation apparently quickened yesterday, although Prosecutors Seyfarth and Strachan refused to discuss their activities. It was learned, however, that they called to their office and questioned at length five payrollers under the former board. They are making an extensive investigation to determine how many of the 4,406 temporary payrollers which the James board put to work did anything to earn their pay checks.

STABBED IN STREET QUARREL.

Harry Cleary, 26 years old, 5643 Dorchester avenue, was stabbed in the face by an intoxicated man with whom he quarreled in front of 1440 East 55th street early yesterday.

COUNTY COURT'S TAX COLLECTIONS SET NEW RECORD

Total of $149,000 Paid to Avoid Receiverships.

TAX COLLECTIONS.

June 26	$ 36,751	$ 46,977
Uncollected	19,180,222	50,431,614
	1930.	1931.
June 26	$ 81,403	$ 328,071
Uncollected	50,431,614	112,559,161

Personal property taxes for 1931 collected yesterday totaled $12,460.

A record total of cash payments on delinquent tax bills was noted in County Judge Jarecki's court yesterday as he entered the ninth week of his campaign against tax dodgers under the Kerner-Skarda act. Payments in court totaled $149,396.

Before enforcement of the new tax receivership law, the entire daily average of tax payments, including current taxes, was lower than the court payments of yesterday alone. Several property owners paid their taxes in full to avoid the appointment of the county treasurer as receiver to collect income until the back taxes are paid.

Attorney John G. Campbell, representing the Cuneo press, 2242 Cottage Grove avenue, paid a delinquent tax bill of $38,882 in full. Attorneys for Harry Zimmerman and the Chicago Title and Trust company as owners of the 20 East Delaware street apartment hotel, also paid the delinquent tax bill of $49,421 in full.

Payments of $15,000 and $15,900.

Attorneys representing two large Evanston properties paid $15,000 on back taxes to avoid receiverships, and representatives of the properties at 1364 Estes avenue and 1341 Touhy avenue paid $15,900 in delinquent taxes in a similar move.

While many of the property owners came in to pay the back taxes, others refused to pay with the result that Judge Jarecki, at the behest of Assistant State's Attorney William T. Crilly, appointed County Treasurer McDonough receiver for 14 properties. The properties and the amounts of taxes owed upon each follow:

701 East 60th street	$62,303
7618 Eastlake terrace	8,484
7724 North Hermitage avenue	8,163
7220 North Clark street	7,395
5463 Dorchester avenue	10,458
6901 North Ashland avenue	9,851
6812 North Ashland avenue	6,596
6315 South Western avenue	18,167
1400 West 47th street	8,639
732 West 79th street	11,291
1327 Estes avenue	13,772
1224 Morse avenue	10,930
1633 Morse avenue	6,071
6231 Sheridan road	19,180

James E. Bistor, one of the leaders in the recent tax strike, again refused to make any payments on the back taxes of his property at the southwest corner of 71st street and Constance avenue, upon which the delinquent tax bill is $9,917 and nothing has been paid for three years.

Charges Act is Invalid.

Attorneys representing Bistor presented as an answer to an information filed against Bistor a plea that the Skarda act is unconstitutional, that the county judge has no jurisdiction, and that Bistor is not receiving enough revenue from the $65,000 building to pay any taxes.

"That is not the kind of an answer I want," said the judge. "I want a detailed explanation as to the income from the building and the disbursements and a full explanation for the nonpayment of taxes."

He ordered the attorneys to bring in the new answer before the end of the July term.

SUES TO DIVORCE S. F. MANNING, CITY OFFICIAL

Mrs. Carrie W. Manning, 51 years old, filed suit for divorce in the Circuit court yesterday against Samuel F. Manning, chief clerk of the board of health. She charged infidelity and alleged that Manning had her placed in a sanitarium to obtain control of her property and to convert her annual income of $7,000 to his own use.

Mrs. Manning was declared sane by Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude two months ago after her attorneys had filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus for her release from the Pinel sanitarium at 741 Diversey parkway. She is now living with relatives. Manning, who is 55 years old, lives at 726 Addison street.

The bill alleges that in April, 1932, Manning had her convey deeds to him for her properties in Rice county, Kansas, and Aurora, valued at $52,000, and then "confederated with physicians to hypnotize and mesmerize her into thinking she was mentally ill."

Mrs. Manning voluntarily entered a sanitarium at that time, the bill says. When she returned home last August, according to the bill, her husband and two women he was entertaining in their home forcibly took her to the psychopathic hospital and later to the Pinel sanitarium.

GARAGE OWNER SHOT IN BATTLE WITH 3 GUNMEN

Milton Mann, 29 years old, was shot and possibly fatally wounded last night in a battle with three men in a garage at 5936 North Western avenue, of which Mann was part owner.

Witnesses told Sergts. Robert Callahan and Edward Garrity that the three men entered the place, asked for Mann and walked over to him. Mann drew a pistol as soon as he saw them, it was reported, and began shooting. He missed, but two of the assailants' bullets struck Mann in the abdomen. He was taken to the Edgewater hospital. The three men then fled in an automobile.

The police recalled that Mann, then known as an independent bootlegger, was shot and wounded on Nov. 14, 1931, when a gunman fired at him as he was standing in a telephone booth in a saloon at 4139 North Western avenue. In the second as in the first shooting Mann maintained that he knew of no reason for the attempt on his life.

ALLEGE MELLON DEFRAUDED U. S. OF 220 MILLIONS

Washington, D. C., June 26.—(AP)—A District of Columbia judge today took under advisement a motion for dismissal of the 220 million dollar suit against Andrew W. Mellon and other former treasury officials which charged they helped foreign steamship companies defraud the government of income taxes.

The suit was filed by David A. Olson, a former investigator for the senate committee investigating banking and the stock market.

In addition to Mellon he named Ogden L. Mills, also a former treasury secretary; Arthur A. Ballantine, one time undersecretary; Alexander W. Gregg, treasury solicitor during the Hoover administration, and David H. Blair, former internal revenue collector.

J. Harry Covington, defense attorney, claimed Olson's complaint was founded upon malice and was so fanciful it had no place in court.

Olson claimed that not only did Mellon and other officials fail to collect $100,000,000 due from the unnamed foreign steamship companies but that they placed the government in a position where it was compelled to refund $10,000,000.

Should Olson win the suit, the treasury might award him up to 10 per cent of the total amount involved.

PROF. LOVETT JOINS STRIKERS AND IS JAILED

Charged with Advising Defiance of Police.

Robert Morss Lovett, professor of English and literature at the University of Chicago, noted as a pacifist, communist, and radical, undertook to uphold the civil liberties of a group of apron factory strikers and lost his own civil liberty thereby for two hours yesterday. Today he will have as a forum the Wabash avenue police court.

Prof. Lovett and Thomas McKenna, 26 years old, 1317 Madison Park, executive secretary of the Civil Liberties union, were designated to investigate reports that strikers were being beaten by the police.

Professor Denies Disorder.

So they went to 3900 South Michigan avenue, where picketers were marching in front of the factory of Bernard Sopkin & Sons, in a demand for a minimum wage of $11 per week and a nine hour day instead of ten.

A slight difference in what happened later appears in the accounts of the elderly professorial agitator and Sergt. Edward Freemont, who sent Lovett and McKenna to a police cell, where they remained two hours before Miss Jessie Binford, head of the Juvenile Protective association, put up $25 bail for them.

"There were about six pickets in front of each of the four entrances," Prof. Lovett said. "A fair sized crowd of strikers and sympathizers had gathered, but they were orderly. Suddenly about two dozen police ordered them all off the sidewalk.

"I asked who was in charge and explained that the Civil Liberties union had obtained permission from Mayor Kelly for the posting of pickets. The police ignored me, but I persisted in demanding our rights until I was in the patrol."

Police Charge Orders Defied.

Sergt. Freemont said Prof. Lovett was making a speech to the strikers.

"We ordered everybody to clear the sidewalk and move on," the policeman declared. "The old gentleman told them they didn't have to move.

"'Don't pay any attention to the police; you have a right to picket here,' he told them, so all I could do was to lock him up and his friend with him."

Representative Oscar De Priest, Ald. W. L. Dawson, and Ald. Robert Jackson, and Ida Carter, conferred with Henry and Benjamin Sopkin in behalf of the strikers. An offer of an increase of 20 per cent in pay for those earning between $4 and $6 and a 15 per cent increase for those earning above $6 weekly was made. It is to be considered by the strikers.

Demand Coal Field Aid.

The Chicago Civil Liberties committee yesterday sent a letter to Gov. Horner announcing that federal intervention to restore civil rights in the Illinois coal fields would be asked if state action is not taken.

The letter charged that four types of occurrences had violated civil rights: 1. The prohibiting of meetings on private property. 2. The prohibiting of picketing. 3. The fact that deputy sheriffs are chosen from the union dominating the local situation. 4. Acts of intimidation, beatings and raids by armed men.

"We see no alternative except continued violence or a solution of the causes of the conflict," the letter said. "While we have no concern with the causes, we are prepared to lay the situation before the federal government under the terms of the industrial recovery act if action in the state is not promptly taken."

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Automobiles stolen, 82; recovered, 78; stripped, 12 [from police records for 24 hours ending at midnight Sunday].

James Rufus, 11 years old, was arrested at 19th street and Wabash avenue last night when he and two other boys, one 10 years old, the other 13, tried to steal an auto. His companions, whom he identified as William Seymour and William Sellers, escaped. Rufus is part white and the other boys are Negroes. Rufus said a man known to him only as Ted, offered them $30 for each car they stole. This man is being sought.

CASHIER IS SLAIN DURING ROBBERY OF INDIANA BANK

Suspect Ruse to Release Bandits on Trial.

La Crosse, Ind., June 26.—[Special.]—William E. Temnell, cashier of the La Crosse State bank, was shot and killed today without provocation by one of five bandits who invaded the bank. The slayer and his companions fled to a car parked at the curb and drove north out of town after seizing $500 from the bank cash drawer.

Immediately after the shooting a heavy guard was thrown around the Marshall county jail and the courthouse at Plymouth, where four of five bandits who looted the Citizens State bank at Culver on May 29 are on trial. County officials saw in the La Crosse raid a plot to draw officers from Marshall county to leave the way clear for a jail delivery in Plymouth.

The La Crosse bandit gang rushed into the bank, guns drawn, and told Miss Lillian Younggreen, assistant cashier, that "this is a stickup." As Miss Younggreen and Temnell stood with their hands in the air one of the bandits, learning the safe was closed by a time lock, with a curse sent a slug from a .45 pistol into the cashier's chest.

The bandits then fled after emptying the cash drawer. Police took two rifles, property of the bank, which one of the bandits had picked up and examined, in the hope of finding finger prints.

Temnell is survived by a widow and two children.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE SOCIAL STAKE IN GREAT ESTATES.

It is reported that the Woolworth prince, the Hutton M'Divani, signed a contract renouncing continental marital rights in the American family fortune. The quid was said to be a handsome annual subsidy putting the Georgian above the more common of the practices of European noble mendicancy. M'Divani, if this be true, cannot take the fortune and let the gal go. Father Hutton has given him an inducement to restrain the continental habit to at least a minimum of disrepute and scandal.

Even stanch defenders of private rights are disposed to regard the appropriation of American made fortunes as supply bills for scalawag European nobility as something for correction even if it has to be by punitive levies and restrictions. The labor and the purchasing power of the country are represented in the accumulation of such wealth and there is more than a sentimental objection to its distribution abroad in the form of subsidies of inane pride to worthless titles.

Any great estate invested in productive enterprise raises a question of just distribution or disposal which has not been answered satisfactorily as yet. The legal fact that there are heirs does not prove or imply that these heirs have the greater moral equity. The moral and sound economic equity may lie in the organization of workers who have made the enterprise in which the wealth is contained and it may be that the paramount public policy requires that when death changes ownership the right of the workers to continue in employment as before is of first social importance. Attempts have been made by owners to assure that, but without conclusive success.

Opposed to the labor equity and to free private disposal of fortunes the communistic element of government has projected a policy which has neither justice nor sound economics behind it, although it is prevailing. That is the confiscation and distribution by taxation. This not only robs the heirs and disregards the workers but the payment of the death taxes may destroy the industry. It may have to be sold to pay the levies.

The theory is that there should be a constant leveling and grading process going on in the government fiscal program, confiscating and distributing wealth by taxes and in public works, as an encouragement, presumably, to citizens never to work when they can avoid it and never to extend their energies in any enterprise for which they may have a talent. Such confiscation does not answer the question put by the workers' equity in a successful organization. It merely discourages industry and puts enterprises in greater jeopardy at a change of ownership.

It is as impossible to assure that the capacity of the founder of a great enterprise can be passed on as it is to make his life immortal. On the other hand, it is certain that any plan that will keep the control among the founder's associates will be better than forcing the property on the market to be snapped up by speculators or stock market gamblers with no interest in the enterprise or the men who work in it.

GOOD WORK BY THE STATE'S ATTORNEY.

The indictment of two suburban policemen for maltreatment of a party of Chicago motorists marks another step in State's Attorney Courtney's vigorous warfare upon this pest. Mr. Courtney is to be congratulated on this campaign, which is especially timely. Offenses of the character he is handling are relatively rare and, thanks to his action, are going to be rarer. The influence of his determination to punish every case is undoubtedly already effective and with the coöperation of juries and magistrates will put a prompt end to the nuisance. Certainly the public supports Mr. Courtney's campaign and appreciates his efforts.

WAGES, NORTH AND SOUTH.

An agreement governing wages and hours which is said to have the endorsement of the owners of two-thirds of the cotton spindles and looms in the United States has been submitted to Washington for approval. The code provides a maximum work week of 40 hours, which is 20 per cent shorter than is customary in southern mills. The code establishes a minimum wage scale of $11 a week in northern mills and $10 a week in southern mills. So far as the southern mill hands are concerned this means an increase of some 30 per cent in their pay.

Just who has agreed to this code of fair competition is not stated, but presumably most of those who have signed up are northern operators. It remains to be seen what the southern gentlemen will do about it. If they accept, it seems likely their competitive position in the domestic market will be pretty seriously impaired. That might be corrected in part by allocating to the southern mills a geographical section of the market, but it is much easier to state that principle than to apply it.

Unless something like that is attempted, however, the agreement might well work havoc with the southern mills. Without the advantage of cheap labor, working long hours, many of the southern mills would have to close, just as many New England mills were closed by southern competition. The Democratic congressmen from southern states are in a hot spot. They can hardly use their influence with the administration in favor of low wages and long hours for their constituents, but neither can they afford to indorse a code which will destroy the new south.

The proposed minimum wage is shockingly low, but it should be remembered that the wages offered in the Carolina mill towns and the long hours of labor have not been too low or too long to attract workers out of the hills. That can only mean that the wages, the hours, and the life in the southern textile towns are, by and large, considerably more attractive than a corn patch on a mountain side. If the southern mills are forced to suspend operations the workers will be obliged to go back to a life which they enjoy less and to an even lower standard of living. That would be a strange result indeed of a law intended to increase the living standards and purchasing power of the American people.

BEER LICENSES.

If the opponents of prohibition repeal who base their opposition upon the evils of the old time barroom will put their zeal to work on a practical basis they will support the proposal to lower the license fees on beer. Perhaps that is a bit of realism we must not expect, but the rest of the community and its representatives in the council should act upon it. We think considerations of revenue argue the same way, but certainly if we do not wish to put a premium on dramshops we shall make it possible for beer to be sold in competition by groceries, delicatessen and other retail agencies which serve home trade. By putting licenses high beer will be sold only by specialists—that is, in saloons which are able to make a profit by quantity. It will concentrate the sale and consumption of beer in a relatively few public places and limit its sale to the people for consumption at home. It is not public policy or in the interest of temperance that this should be brought about.

AN INTERNATIONAL NUISANCE.

Hugh Gibson, who has been transferred, presumably in the esoteric procedure of the state department, from Belgium to Brazil, has contributed for public intelligence some remarks on unofficial ambassadors which are both characteristic and worthy the attention of his fellow Americans. They are characteristic, we think, because Mr. Gibson is one of our diplomats who seems to have remained American. His representation of American interests at the naval conference of 1927 is remembered by all Americans who favor the maintenance, at least, of our naval position. His remarks are worth our attention, for they are a reminder from a man who has first hand experience of the possibilities of the apologetic American as a real nuisance.

Mr. Gibson says these individuals who constitute themselves unofficial ambassadors have given the impression abroad that American opinion is convinced we ought not to be paid and do not expect payment of the debts.

This has impressed the press and public abroad and obviously has made it more difficult for governments to conform their action to the realities. The people abroad, convinced by these self-appointed representatives of American opinion that we do not expect any payment, naturally demand that their government shall make no payments whatever or enter into no commitment for any payment. This makes the task of our official representatives, the task of diplomatic negotiation and agreement, unnecessarily difficult.

We do not know of any way to stop this misrepresentation by Americans save by exposing them to unpopularity and rebuke at home and by warning the European press and public that it is misrepresentation. The latter is difficult because Europe wishes to believe the apologetic Americans. As for the Americans who talk down their own country for the sake of a garden party invitation or a condescending nod from any titled nonentity, there is not much to be done with them. Many are expatriates who even when they are home associate with their like. Perhaps Ambassador Gibson's rebuke will help.

Editorial of the Day

A PLANETARIUM FOR NEW YORK.

[Illinois State Register.]

If the American Museum of Natural History at New York City succeeds in bringing to fruition its long cherished plan of constructing a planetarium in connection with its institution, as now seems very probable, it will make a notable contribution to the scientific and cultural resources of the metropolis as well as the nation itself.

The great success and popularity of the Adler planetarium in Chicago—which, by the way, is a wonderful magnet for visitors in World's Fair times or at any other time—is convincing evidence of its strong appeal to the serious minded population. It has few rivals in the field of education and enlightenment.

The planetarium is a modern development worked out by famous engineers and opticians of the famous Zeiss plant at Jena, at the suggestion of the director of the Munich museum, and it dramatizes astronomy to a degree never before realized. To those who have not visited its remarkable exemplification at Chicago, which was the gift of Max Adler, it may be said that it is nothing more or less than a fine "playhouse" in which the majestic drama of the heavenly firmament is unfolded.

Capacity houses generally follow the lecturer as he explains the 5,000 stars hung in the artificial sky and "arranges the constellations to suit conditions that prevailed long before man appeared or as they will be thousands of years hence" and come away convinced that they "have learned more about astronomy in an hour" than they ever did in a month's study of college textbooks, according to their own accounts.

The popular interest in astronomy, as indicated by the large patronage accorded the Adler institution in Chicago, has been one of the surprises of the day. Novelty, of course, is a strong attraction in itself, but mere newness does not account for the many visitors who return again and again. Nor does it explain the marked demand for popular texts on the stars in this city.

New York City and the east in general, we opine, would find a planetarium a most valuable institute and a notable acquisition even in a metropolitan center which boasts many attractions in other fields. When this astronomical museum is thrown open to the public the people will find that it not only deals with great things it presents them in an understanding way.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THE PRESIDENT is reported to be strong against having "yes men" around him. But he is having members of his official family report to him for conferences on board his schooner now riding the billows of the stormy Atlantic. And suppose you were a professor on the President's staff and you had been summoned and went out to the schooner and you were roosting on the taffrail or the lee rail or whatever rail came handy and Franklin Delano sat in front of you and said in low deep tones: "Then you don't approve of this plan I've just outlined to you?" And you looked around and gazed down into the cold, remorseless ocean which would be probably about nine miles deep right there and then you gazed out on foam capped waves and saw two whales, six swordfishes and a dozen sharks playing idly around. Would you say "no" or "yes"?

THEN WHAT THEN?

He may fight for recognition,
He may struggle for control,
He may barter for big money,
Change his goal;

Yet however great his fortune,
Or however keen his pen,
He must die some sudden day,
Then what then?

Through the grueling, grinding glitter
Of the garish, gloating day,
Through the bitter, blinding battle
Of all need,

Comes a sense of futile folly
To all world-worn, weary men,
Be they valiant or defeated—
Then what then?

OH, FOREIGN NATIONS, foreign nations, peg not a single peg, the good old dollar has been my friend, I vow; through all my life it's stood by me and I'll protect it now. You wouldn't peg it when 'twas worth a good round hundred cents; but now that 'tis down to eight, you'd nail it to the fence. But foreign nations, hold! stand back! This truth you shall find out—our dollar may be down, by heck, but it never will be out.

A MAN WHO HAD a 22,000 acre mechanical wheat farm in Texas sees it sold on the auction block this week for the benefit of his creditors. The idea of the farm was that everything in the way of raising immense crops could be done by machinery. The thing worked great for a while and the man made money. And then, ding it, along came a two years' dry spell and low grain prices and there wasn't a single doggoned piece of machinery on the place that could make rain or raise the price of wheat. Which, although this is the machine age, arouses the suspicion that after all there may be something or other that machines can't do. Anyhow, not yet.

THE GOVERNMENT has changed the name of the old postoffice building to the United States courthouse. But who cares? Now that they've washed it the darned place looks like any other henhouse that's just had a coat of whitewash.

LAY OF THE LOST MINSTREL.

Tee hee, quelle vie,
Whom did I see
But yestere'en, down town?
Who seemed quite lost and loop-crowd tossed
With tall but puzzled frown?

'Tis delicate to dwell
Upon the painful point, 't was thou,
In indecision's spell;

"KING Pins Gold Medal on Explorer."—Headline. Since gold has been kicked off its perch by Great Britain, the U. S. A. and other w. k. nations the explorer wasn't probably any too thankful to the king for pinning a gold medal on him. He would have felt much more grateful if the king had pinned something on him that really costs money these days, such as a calf's liver or a lamb chop.

MR. JOHNSON, commissar of national recovery down in Washington, says he wants everybody in these United States to be able to buy a half dollar's worth of ham and eggs. Very fine for most people, but for me personally not so good because I don't eat breakfast. Then what—have I got to eat a half dollar's worth of ham and eggs or face a firing squad or could I trade in my ham and eggs for something really worth eating like cohn pone and pot likker?

SORE EYES AND VITAMIN A.

WHEN a person has an acute ophthalmia, or acute sore eyes, it is in order to inquire as to whether he has been getting enough vitamin A in the diet. Where the sore eyes are due to this cause the best treatment consists of changing the diet. This is better than using eye drops.

Surgeons connected with the public health service undertook an experiment to discover how much deficiency of this vitamin in the diet of dogs would increase or decrease their susceptibility to streptococcus infections. On that point the investigation was a total loss. It threw no light on the subject. But it showed enough in another way to compensate. It showed that dogs did not need to be kept long on the diet before they had sore eyes. For a while the dogs appeared to thrive on the diet. Then, rather abruptly, trouble appeared in the eyes, and, having started, ran a rapid course.

The first eye symptom was increased tears. Then the covering of the eyeball was found to be red, swollen, and rolled outward somewhat. The secretion was now purulent instead of simple tears. Next, the cornea of the eye, the front part through which light must pass, would appear hazy. As this process advanced it took on a ground glass appearance. Later, the cornea could be expected to slough and the sight be lost.

This progress from simple tearing to ground glass cornea and sloughing was very rapid. By this time the dogs were losing weight, their coats were becoming rough, and they would be judged to be sick dogs by even a novice.

This observation is in line with a very careful study of the effects of undernutrition, especially on growing children, during the world war period, made in a north European country that did not participate in the hostilities but, nevertheless, suffered greatly for food. The investigation was made ten or more years after the war ended. Meanwhile the children had grown to young womanhood and manhood. They had regained their weight, and, so far as could be judged, their growth had not been stunted. It was found that undernutrition had affected the eyes and that that effect had been more enduring than any other.

At that time the importance of vitamin A was no more than suspected. This was one of the studies that led to closer investigation of it.

Some years ago the Kentucky health department was the subject of ridicule when it said much of the so-called trachoma of mountain people was due to undernourishment rather than to a trachoma microbe or anything else which might cause trachoma, sore eyes, and blindness. It is reasonably certain they were right, though at the time they could not prove it to the satisfaction of others.

The foods rich in vitamin A are numerous. Many of them are plants that grow in almost every climate and on almost every soil. The one we think of most frequently is the common garden variety of carrot. If the children begin to have sore eyes perhaps the entire difficulty lies with the diet and the only cure needed is dietary. The possibility is good enough to warrant planting some carrots, spinach, and greens.

SACCHARIN.

Mrs. L. J. T. writes: I have started using saccharin in my coffee and I now have a feeling of depression and heavy and difficult breathing. Will you tell me whether or not it is advisable for all persons to use saccharin?

REPLY.

It is not advisable for everybody to use saccharin as a substitute for sugar, although that is occasionally advisable for a diabetic. Using saccharin is not the cause of your symptoms. It may be that your reason for using saccharin is also the reason for your symptoms.

SUGAR IN BLOOD.

K. A. writes: Is it possible to eliminate excessive sugar from the blood?

REPLY.

It is. There are several ways. Using insulin will do it. A simpler but more inconvenient method is to eat less bread, cereals, pastries, potatoes, corn, peas and beans, and sugar and all other sweets. Some cases require attention given to some ductless glands.

SPLASHING BY AUTOS.

Chicago, June 21.—[Friend of the People.]—Something should be done about auto traffic on State street. I was down town today and was splashed to the knees with water by automobiles driving in street car tracks. Passengers must stand in safety zone while waiting for cars. If the cars keep between the zone and curb this does not result, but when they ride the car tracks the result is a mud bath. E. F.

The ordinance pertaining to safety zones does not specifically prohibit operator of vehicle from driving along and on street car tracks or right of way passing by safety zone. The traction line on State street is equipped with the Trilby or groove rail, which is the most satisfactory type of rail in use to date for a paved roadway. Water lodges in the groove of rail during a rainstorm and it is possible that same is forced out either by the wheels of a street car or by other vehicles. However, it is the practice of cleaners to broom the water from any depression whenever and wherever found on the roadway, including the right of way of the traction lines in conjunction with the brooming of the street pavement.

DIVORCE.

Chicago, June 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Can a divorce be granted in Woodstock, Ill., [1] on grounds that were fixed by plaintiff's attorney which plaintiff has no proof of? [2] Also, is this possible when no witnesses were presented? [3] Can attorney for either party acting as temporary judge grant divorce? [4] Isn't it right that both attorneys present the case to the judge (disinterested) from the stand of a lawyer for either party, making him a third party instead of just the two lawyers, who are friends and were eager to have the case concluded? [5] Can this case be considered legal? H. F.

1. The Illinois statute requires that some one of the statutory grounds be proved in open court. We are not in a position to say whether some judges may grant a decree in violation of the statute.
2. See 1.
3. Depends on what you mean by "acting as temporary judge." He would not have power to enter the decree merely by virtue of being the attorney.
4. Yes, as we understand your question.
5. Your facts are not clear enough for us to advise you further.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 27, 1917.

STOCKHOLM. — Vodka riots have broken out in Russia. At Troitsk, a Siberian town of 40,000 population, not far from the boundary pyramid which is carved with the words "Europe" and "Asia," 400 are reported dead from excesses following brandy looting. At Tomsk, a city of 112,000 population, the headquarters of the gold mining district and seat of the only Siberian university, mineral works were plundered and banks looted. Twenty-three hundred prisoners were freed by the people and joined in the looting. Twenty were killed when the military tried to arrest the looters.

PETROGRAD. — Mlle. Kshesinska, the dancer and favorite of the former emperor, has instituted suit against the provisional government for 2,000,000 rubles owing to its failure to eject the followers of Nikolai Lenin, the Radical Socialist leader, from her palace, which they occupied during the revolution, and the refusal of the military authorities to send troops to evict the Leninites.

WASHINGTON. — As a result of federal forces set in motion yesterday, 400 coal operators, representing both the bituminous and anthracite fields, pledged themselves to sell their product at a fair and reasonable price to be fixed with the approval of the national defense council's coal committee.

WAR SUMMARY.—The senate agriculture subcommittee rewrote the administration food control bill, as passed by house, giving President Wilson the power and responsibility of deciding whether the nation shall be "bone dry" during the duration of the war. Paris reports a calm day after the French obtained objectives northwest of Hurtebise. Counter attacks were repulsed. Berlin admits the losses, but contends that counter attacks ousted the French. London reports successful operations northwest of Fontaine-les-Croisettes. Unofficial reports say Lens is slowly being encircled. Berlin reports a heavy bombardment of the whole front by the British. Rome reports Austrian repulses with sanguinary losses in the Monte Ortigara sector.

BLOCK ISLAND, R. I.—The United States cruiser Olympia, Admiral Dewey's flagship at the battle of Manila, ran aground in the fog off Block island early yesterday. It was reported in a bad condition, with considerable water in its hold.

WASHINGTON.—American loans to the allies passed the billion dollar mark yesterday when the treasury placed $15,000,000 to the credit of Great Britain and $10,000,000 to France's account.

WORLD'S FAIR QUESTION BOX

Requests for information concerning A Century of Progress will be answered in this column. It is urged that questions be stated briefly.

QUESTION—Is it true that the Columbian half dollar, dated 1892, and struck at that time to commemorate the Columbian Exposition, may be redeemed at the present Fair for $10?

ANSWER—No.

QUESTION—Will you give me the attendance figures on the Chicago, London, Paris, St. Louis, Buffalo, San Francisco and Philadelphia expositions?

ANSWER—Chicago, 21,480,000; London, 6,080,000; Paris, 28,000,000 in 1889 and 38,000,000 in 1931; St. Louis, 12,804,000; Buffalo, 5,307,000; San Francisco, 13,127,108; Philadelphia, 6,408,289.

QUESTION—Where can I send my $5 certificate to be exchanged for tickets?

ALIEN INFLUENCES.

Chicago, June 23.—THE TRIBUNE'S editorial, "Alien Influences," is altogether too tame. For many, many years I have been trying to find a naturalized citizen, but have never been able to discover one. In fact no such human exists. Alien born is always alien minded. Heridity, nativity, training, education fix the individual into permanency. Therefore why should the alien born, always alien minded, be allowed to exercise the privilege of suffrage?

ELEANORE GRIDLEY.

Woodstock, Ill., June 23.—Your editorial, "Alien Influences," depicts the situation remarkably well. Proper amalgamation of our nation is one of the vital factors towards national unity.

I take the liberty in stating my case and my reactions.

Five years ago, when 20 years old, I arrived in the United States from Europe on April 3. On April 5 this year I inquired about my final papers, hoping to receive them in September. Instantaneously after my arrival I came to the conclusion that I would adopt this country wholeheartedly. Ever since I have strived to be a citizen, but the fact that my father died here when I was still a minor did not give me citizenship, as my father had only his first papers.

In the first year I worked in a factory partially; after that I sold German goods, trying to sell American goods in Germany. At that time I saw something like an adverse trade balance to come to this country, taking into consideration the money sent well nigh all over the world by foreigners gainfully employed here, and not taking into consideration the money we received for interest and amortization on foreign loans.

I did not succeed in exporting to Germany, so I sold out at a great loss and assumed a debt for which I am still paying, having received the money for the enterprise from my brother. I could not take it upon myself to export gold from this country, which I learned to love, and not counterbalance it by exports to Germany. Somehow this may sound exaggerated, but it is a fact and I account for it by my innate feeling of "America first."

In 5 years I sent about $50 abroad representing debts which I owed there. Otherwise I did not send any of my wages to Europe.

I could not send goods to my relatives on account of exorbitant duties [European governments did their best to drain this country of its well deserved riches], but money I did not send either; luckily my relatives were not starving.

I did not read a vernacular newspaper for 4½ years. English is the only language I speak now. My mother tongue sounds strange to me. I like it that way. I do not belong to an American organization of the country I come from because I believe nobody can be a true and unprejudiced citizen of this country while still being half the time among the old country's influences.

Either I am 100% American or I stay out. We want to be a nation of 125 millions of Americans, and Americans only.

To close, I regret that we have foreigners who, by their subversive preaching, try to inject poison into our nation, but, thank God, they do not succeed.

ERNEST REICHLE.

SNOOPING WILL GO ON.

Chicago, June 19.—I intended to write in compliment of the editorial of June 6 on "Prohibition Is Dead but Not Prohibitionism," but the clipping became covered on my desk.

Several persons have inquired whether I read it, so others took my views of its excellence. I think the article stated more cause for thinking than usually appears even on THE TRIBUNE'S editorial page. Few persons would notice that the recent cure-all legislation abounds in the same sort of penalties and disregard of the individual's rights which mark the liquor laws. When government gets a club to use in one field it will be sure to employ it in another, a fact accepted by the writers of the constitution but generally unknown under present methods of education.

THOMAS JAMES NORTON.

FLOWERS IN THE PARK.

Chicago, June 10.—I want to say a word of praise to the gardener who planted and laid out the flower beds this year in the south part of Lincoln park. The ageratum, canna's lautaria, heliotrope, and coxcomb are more hardy annuals and can stand the weather elements better than the hothouse roses planted there in past years. The park is for children, too, and we want them to enjoy it. But let's play ball farther up in the park where here are no flower beds. Little feet and flowers don't mix well. Large and small should help to protect the flowers that bloom for us and are so pretty.

Said only in kindness by one who loves the flowers and little children.

A CITIZEN.

TIP FOR RADIO MANAGEMENTS.

Chicago, June 16.—Those who control and arrange radio programs might take a tip from the fact that advertisements of radio sets always emphasize the fact that the set will get police calls. Police calls are human interest and that's what the public wants. Conventions, prize fights, and other spontaneous human activities have more appeal than the hours of indifferent music and flat tire humor with which the programs are loaded. What became of the suggestion to broadcast congress? That would have been a show!

CHARLES GRANT.

ECHO OF THE BAND CONTEST.

Cleveland Heights, O., June 21.—It was disappointing to read in your columns an article condemning the management of the national band contest recently held in Evanston, Ill. Allow me to say that the Cleveland Heights High school band is very well satisfied with the way in which they were taken care of while at the contest. It is evident that with the tremendous size of the project everything could not be foreseen and handled perfectly, but the local management and the host city of Evanston are to be highly commended for their services.

MORE SALES IN NEW YORK

Chicago, Philadelphia and Detroit are respectively the second, third and fourth largest markets in the country . . . but these three great markets combined do not equal the New York Market in population or in retail sales. Over 12,000,000 people are concentrated in the 60-mile city and suburban area served by New York City newspapers. With less than one-half of one per cent. of the country's area, the New York Market has 10 per cent. of the country's population, 14 per cent. of the retail trade and 21 per cent. of the income tax returns.

ACCORDING to Government figures, there are more retail sales in New York City and its suburbs than in the city and suburban territories of Chicago, Philadelphia and Detroit combined.

In retail sales as well as in population the New York Market is two-and-a-half times as large as the Chicago market . . . six times as large as the Cleveland market; five times as large as the Los Angeles market . . . The Philadelphia market has only 29 per cent. of New York's sales. Boston has only 23 per cent. Detroit has only 20 per cent.

There is more business in this one market than in all of 18 States combined, more than in all of New England, more than in all of 53 cities of over 100,000 population and their suburbs combined.

With one effort, one advertising schedule and one sales campaign in this small, compact city and suburban area the manufacturer can sell more merchandise and at less cost than in a third of the States of the country or in dozens of large cities combined.

Concentrate your advertising in this market of largest sales. And remember that the newspaper which the department stores prefer for their own advertising in New York is The Sun. If these local advertisers can depend on The Sun more than on any other newspaper to bring customers to their individual stores, certainly the manufacturer can depend on The Sun to send buyers of his merchandise into the thousands of conveniently located retail outlets.

GERMAN NAZIS SEIZE CATHOLICS IN DAY OF RAIDS

Centrist Party Denounced by Hitler's Aid.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 26.—Catholic leaders were among the political opponents of Chancellor Hitler to feel the wrath of the Nazi steam-roller tactics today.

Arrests were the order of the day. Nazi storm troopers and regular police conducted raids throughout the reich, seizing Steel Helmet leaders, reichstag and state diet members, mayors, teachers, communists, and Socialists.

In Bavaria, the Nazi government announced that all Bavarian People's party members of the reichstag and diet were under arrest. The government defended its action by asserting that "political Catholicism is trying in every way to sabotage the government's orders."

Catholic Prelate Arrested.

Among those seized were the 65 year old Catholic prelate of the cathedral at Bamberg, Johann Leicht; Prince Karl von Wrede, Baron Hirsch von Planegg, Ritter von Lez, chief of the "Bavarian Guards," Catholicism's defense organization, and Fritz Schaeffer, moving spirit of the Bavarian People's party.

In Berlin, Alfred Rosenberg, chief of the foreign department of the Nazi party, attacked speakers of a Catholic Action meeting yesterday in the newspaper Voelkischer Beobachter. He is the first high official of his party to denounce Catholic leaders.

"It is necessary to show the Nazi movement and entire Germany how the leaders of the Catholic Action and the Centrist clergy think even today," he said.

He cited the phrase in the address of the Rev. Father Paul Vetter, one of the speakers: "It is a pioneer time, with all its hardness and rawness, in the desert of life."

Rosenberg continued, "it is too bad that he forgot that the 'desert of life' in which we are all was brought about by the Centrists coöperating with the Socialists."

Fill Jails with Foes.

How thoroughly Hitler's machine is sweeping aside non-Nazis is indicated by today's arrests everywhere. In five cities alone—Magdeburg, Senftenberg, Regenburg, Hamburg, and Bremen—572 persons were taken into custody.

In upper Silesia communists suspected of using their bicycles to act as political couriers were jailed.

Meanwhile, Vice Chancellor von Papen's organization, "the Cross and Sword" was endeavoring to assemble Catholic sympathizers of Hitler and thus break the back of the Catholic Centrists, meek survivors of the "new" Germany.

Organization of the middle classes by the Nationalists was prohibited by the government. A Nationalist rally, at which Dr. Alfred Hugenberg, Nationalist party leader was scheduled to speak tonight was suppressed. Hugenberg, who is reported to have resigned as minister of economics and agriculture, sent a courier to Neudeck today to confer with President von Hindenburg.

An army chaplain today furnished a striking example of the arrogance of the Nazis. The chaplain, Wilhelm Mueller, who has been deputized by Hitler to study Protestant problems, changed the close of the text of the Lord's prayer by using his own words in a service in Koenigsberg.

Vice Chancellor von Papen and Ulrich von Hassel, German ambassador to Rome, left for Rome tonight on a secret mission.

HAWAII TO DEPORT 600 FILIPINOS OVER LABOR DIFFICULTIES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HONOLULU, T. H., June 26.—Six hundred Filipinos who took part in labor demonstrations today will be sent back to the Philippines this week. This was announced by the Hawaiian Sugar Planters' association.

Three hundred of the Filipinos struck this morning at the Waimanalo plantation. They demanded that Casetano Ligot, labor commissioner representing the Philippine government in Hawaii, be discharged. Ligot had aided planters in arbitrating labor disputes last week. Later 300 unemployed Filipinos paraded in Honolulu demanding that they be given jobs or returned to their homes.

Police are investigating the assertion of a housemaid that three Filipinos, armed with cane knives, attempted to kidnap the child of Capt. Robert Bradish of the United States army from his home at Kawailoa, Oahu.

AUTOIST FATALLY HURT WHEN CAR STRIKES PILLAR

An autoist was fatally injured yesterday afternoon when he lost control of his car and it struck a steel support of the Wabash railroad tracks at Loomis boulevard and West 75th street. The victim, John G. P. Greb, 60 years old, 251 East 136th place, Riverdale, died last night in the Auburn Park hospital. He was part owner of the Tip-Toe inn, 6234 South Ashland avenue, and until recently had been a resident of Denver, Colo.

Greb's death and four others reported yesterday increased the 1933 motor death toll in Cook county to 477. The other victims:

Louis Messard, 28 years old, 164th street and Spaulding avenue, Homewood. Died in Ingalls Memorial hospital, Harvey, of injuries suffered Saturday.

Jacob Canigan, 46 years old, 5738 South State street. Died in the County hospital as a result of being struck by an automobile June 3.

Mrs. Victoria Max, 69 years old, 4507 North Keeler avenue. Died in Washington Park hospital of injuries suffered June 14 when she stepped from an automobile as it started moving, driverless, down an incline in Villa Park.

Albin Carlson, 47 years old, 7009 St. Lawrence avenue. Died in the County hospital of injuries incurred in a collision last Friday evening.

Miss Edith Lawrence, 20 years old, 5951 South Albany avenue, and her sister, Alice, 17, were severely injured yesterday when the automobile in which they were riding crashed head-on into a 63d street car at California avenue.

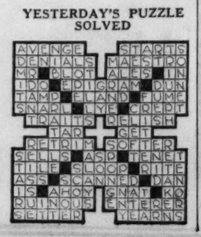
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



PARIS DIVORCE REPORTED PLAN OF MRS. HUTTON

Los Angeles, Cal., June 26.—(AP)—Rumors of a possible divorce between Aimee Semple McPherson-Hutton, Angelus temple evangelist, and David Hutton, chubby baritone singer, cropped out anew in Los Angeles today to the accompaniment of denials of the reports.

The reports were heard with persistence in several circles associated with Angelus temple and one source credited its information to "good authority."

Hutton's attorney, Fairfax Cosby, admitted Hutton had discussed with him the chance that his wife might be in Paris for the purpose of obtaining a divorce.

Mrs. McPherson-Hutton went abroad several months ago for a rest and lately has been staying in Paris, from where a bizarre series of reports concerning her have emanated, among them an assertion that she had given birth to a nine pound son.

This was denied and later described by a physician who had performed a major operation upon her as a hoax cablegram sent by him at her instruction to ascertain how certain information being forwarded here by the evangelist was becoming public.

CALLS HUSBAND TO PARIS.

PARIS, June 26.—(AP)—The Paris edition of the New York Herald Tribune said tonight that Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton had cabled her husband, David Hutton, to join her immediately in Paris, thereby discrediting reports that she intended to seek a divorce.

The newspaper added that Dr. Charles Bove, surgeon and gynecologist, who operated upon Mrs. Hutton recently for an intestinal obstruction, confirmed that Hutton had been summoned, but denied there had been a turn for the worse in his patient's condition.

FILE NINE WILLS WITH CLERK OF PROBATE COURT

Nine wills were filed yesterday with Clerk Mitchell C. Robin in the Probate court and were admitted to probate as follows:

MARY GORLEWICZ, died Dec. 8, 1932. Estate, $20,000, to two sons and one daughter. Martha Pankanin, the daughter, is executrix.

HARRY BRANDT, died May 7. Estate, $10,000, to son, daughter, and daughter-in-law. Alfred Brandt, son, and Ella Brandt, daughter-in-law, are executors.

JOHN BURBLIS, died April 17. Estate, $5,000, to brother, Joseph Burblis. John Mazelauskis is executor.

PATRICK BOYLE, died Dec. 26, 1932. Estate, $3,500, to widow, five sisters, and two brothers. Alice Boyle, the widow, is executrix.

MARCUS KAGY, died May 9. Estate, $18,000, to brother, Amos Kagy, the executor.

HATTIE ELLIA, died March 25. Estate, $20,000, to two sons and one daughter. Albert Henry is executor.

ANNA FRIOUF, died May 24. Estate, $3,500, to Mary Dlouhy, the executrix.

CHARLES HIESTAND, died April 21. Estate, $3,500, to widow, Louedda Hiestand, the executrix.

GRACE SNYDER, died May 29. Estate, $2,000, to half-brother, Walter Kerman. The Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company is executor.

$5,000 IS RAISED FOR BOYS' CAMP BY RADIO REVUE

Approximately $5,000 was raised for the Chicago Boys' club summer camp by the All Star Radio revue at the Auditorium theater last night. The money will enable 2,500 poor boys to get out in the fresh air at Winona lake, Ind., this summer.

A capacity crowd including many society and business leaders filled the theater. Twenty-five debutantes, who aided in the ticket sale, acted as ushers and sold fans and candy. Expenses of the benefit have been underwritten. Gov. Horner sent regrets that he was unable to attend to Paul Steinbrecher, a director of the club.

Among the radio stars and acts were Quin Ryan and His Skalawags from W-G-N; Uncle Bob of KYW; Vincent Lopez of NBC; Gene and Charley of CBS; the Cumberland Ridge Runners of WLS; the Tripoli trio from WCFL, and Chuck Lanphier of WJJD. Pat Barnes was master of ceremonies.

FUNERAL TODAY FOR WIDOW OF C. H. DONNELLY

Funeral services for Mrs. Nina Blakeslee Donnelly, 74 years old, widow of Judge Charles H. Donnelly of Woodstock, will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon from the late home at 416 Clay street, Woodstock. Mrs. Donnelly succumbed to a chronic heart ailment Sunday. Born in McHenry county Nov. 30, 1858, she had always resided in that community and had been active in woman's club and Eastern Star circles. Her husband, for 24 years a judge of the McHenry County court and the Circuit court of the Seventeenth circuit, died in 1920. Two daughters, Mrs. Mary Donnelly Webster of Evanston and Mrs. Helen Donnelly Cram of Rye, N. Y., and a sister, Ida Blakeslee of Woodstock, survive.

She Pushes Bandit Chief Out of Door and Gang Flees

Three bandits entered the Kedzie bakery, 5311 South Kedzie avenue, yesterday and demanded money from Mrs. Wanda Tuzek, 25 years old, wife of the owner. She pushed the leader toward the door, and the robbers fled to a car parked at the curb.

Antoinette Donnelly Tells How Noted Beauties Keep Charm

Junior League Will Publish Civic Calendar

First Issue Will Be Out on August 1.

BY JUDITH CASS.

On Aug. 1 a select and literary minded group of Junior Leaguers will make their bow as editors and publishers. The first issue of the Chicago Calendar, a concise, intelligent revue of cultural events during the following fortnight, the newest project of the league, will be off the press.

Many, many months ago the league decided there was need for just such a little manual in Chicago. Six months ago Mrs. Carleton S. Scribner, the editor-in-chief, went to work with an able corps of assistants to develop the idea. Since then she has been spending most of her waking hours [sleeping, too] in the Junior League office in the Italian Court building on upper Michigan avenue, which is serving as an editorial office.

The Calendar is to be pocket size, so that it can be conveniently stowed away in a handbag for reference in needful moments. The cover, carrying the name in bold letters with the underline "Current and Cultural Events," remains a secret until Aug. 1. The reason, explains Mrs. Scribner, is that it's too hard to describe.

Society will want the little book because it will be full of everything that interests society. Musicians will want it for the latest events in the world of music, artists for its news of exhibits, and every one in general for the lectures, sports events, dance exhibits, in fact everything that smart and intellectual persons want to see and do in Chicago.

Put 10,000 on Mailing List.

The Calendar is to be a bi-monthly affair. There is a mailing list of 10,000 already compiled and all of the profits will swell the coffers of the Junior league's various charities.

Mrs. John L. Cochran, who will spend this week-end as a July 4 visit with her parents, the Ellicott Evanses, at their summer home in Wisconsin, is one of the ablest members of the Calendar staff. Miss Katherine Cowan, who is soon to become Mrs. Robert M. Carr, is doing the theater; Mrs. Alfred M. Wolfe is in charge of the musical events, Mrs. Ambrose C. Cramer is getting up the art schedule, and Miss Elaine Blackman is responsible for telling readers about lectures and other civic events.

The Chicago league is the only league in the country, we are told, that has launched itself in the publishing business in such an impressive way. There are the Art Calendar and the Park Avenue Calendar, similar magazines, in New York, but they are not the work of the New York Junior league. And the Chicago Calendar is one step ahead of the New York Calendars, for it is providing several blank pages in the back of each issue for names, addresses, and telephone numbers.

Andre Maurois Arrives Friday.

That distinguished Frenchman Andre Maurois is due in Chicago Friday morning to be the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed. It will be his first visit here, so his three days [he is leaving Sunday night] will be busy with luncheons and dinners and visits to the Fair. On Friday noon he is to be the guest of the writers' committee of A Century of Progress at luncheon in the Trustees' Lounge and on Friday evening the P. E. N. club is having a dinner for him at the Arts club.

Long awaited news comes with the announcement that the polo event of this summer season is to be an east-west match the middle of August at Onwentsia. Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, a member of the executive committee of the United States Polo association who has been bargaining for either an Indian-American game or an east-west match for months, told the plans yesterday at luncheon.

"Tommy" Hitchcock, the only ten goal player in the world, is to pick the eastern team, with probably such men as Winston Guest, Earle A. S. Hopping, Michael Phipps, and William Post II., as players. Eric Pedley, Cecil Smith, and Elmer Boeseke Jr. are among those who will come from the west. This is all there is to be known right now, but it is quite enough to insure a brilliant society turnout with much entertaining before and after. The tentative dates are Aug. 9 and 13, with perhaps another date if a third game is necessary.

Within the next fortnight committees are to be appointed to look after the social details of the event.

"Glorious Fourth" at Glenview.

A red, white, and blue folder yesterday announced the "glorious Fourth at Glenview." It's to be an all day family party from daylight until far into the night, with plenty of fun and excitement.

The entertainment committee offers a full day of golf for the men. In the morning the players will compete for the President's trophy given by Frank R. Elliot for the first time this year. The winner will also have his name engraved on the new Independence day trophy recently presented to the club by Harrison B. Riley, who with his family is spending most of the year now at his California home. The second lowest net score will capture the Vice President's trophy that is the gift of Fred L. McNally.

The afternoon calls for approaching and putting contests and a driving contest at the tenth tee.

The children are to have a special lunch at noon followed by the magic and story telling of popular Bob Lotz. The "oom-pahs and boom-booms" of an eleven piece brass band will fill

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

Pauline Frederick, who has had an extensive career on both the stage and the cinema screen [the latter period covered the years of 1915 to 1923] and who is, therefore, a theatrical personality well known to the young folks as well as to the veteran playgoers, came to the Cort last night in a domestic comedy bearing the pretentious title of "Her Majesty the Widow." The play is a product of the Pacific coast, where it was admired, and it arrives in Chicago as a fairly well seasoned article of box office commerce.

Miss Frederick, as her advertisements proclaim, is "her own lovely self"—an attractive lady who can play widows with marriageable sons and at the same time qualify for the romantic element that every playwright insists in assigning to his leading actress. She has the enriched voice of the heroines who flourished in the decade that preceded the jazz and flapper period, and the emphatic touch, the earnest endeavor to be heard and admired, that characterized the technique of pre-war acting. There is evidence to suggest that audiences still appreciate this method—I recall that Miss Frederick had a prosperous engagement at this same theater in 1928 in a play called "The Scarlet Woman."

In "Her Majesty the Widow" Miss Frederick appears as a mother who is scheming to prevent her son from marrying a hard-boiled blonde of uncertain morals and also yearning to recapture the lost lover of her own maidenhood. This theme is worked up into a mild little household fable, equipped with standard plot devices that operate in a transparent manner.

There is a certain naïve quality in the play that marks it as remote from the cynicism of the current Broadway product. However, with the record of the recent "Family Upstairs" at the Cort theater before me [twenty-six weeks], I am confident that this theater's clientele will not complain about the new play's simplicity. The customers may even feel that this affair is slightly s'ph'sticated.

If I should ever undertake the delivery of a series of lectures upon dramatic technique before the eager students of some seat of learning, I would cite "Her Majesty the Widow" as an example of the play that mistakenly wears its skeleton on its surface. One can see every bone and joint of the plot without the aid of the fluoroscope. One can watch the meager story, carefully counting its own ribs. The plotters are always plotting in the open, so assiduously that they have no time in which to be human. That is wrong, of course, but in the biology of drama nearly all plays are freaks of nature. I add "Her Majesty the Widow" to my collection with zeal as a perfect specimen of an organism with an outside skeleton.

Miss Frederick's company is composed of worthy members of the actors' union, among whom Laurette Bullivant, as a bright little girl; Frederick A. Bell, as a gangling youth with sex on his mind, and Isabel Withers, as a loose and luscious young woman, are the most interesting.

Bright Colors Mark Fashions at Arlington

Society Attends Opening Day of Races.

BY INDIA MOFFETT.

FOR the fifth time society turned out in numbers to watch the opening program of races at Arlington Park yesterday and it was a gala occasion out on the race track on the prairies northwest of the city. It was hot, but there was a wonderful breeze. Although the white petunias and red geraniums that edge the boxes in the grand stand and the hedge of pink roses in front of the Post and Paddock club wilted a bit, the gay flowers that bloomed on almost every dress and hat of the feminine guests in the Post and Paddock club didn't wilt a bit.

Printed silks in all the colors that nature lavishes on the fields in summer were in evidence in profusion and there was hardly a hat without its bouquet of flowers. And if a woman did wear a solid color dress, invariably she had a bunch of colorful artificial flowers pinned somewhere on her gown. All this went to make a picture that was lovely with the background of the whitewashed walls and green and white striped awnings and gay umbrellas of the verandas of the Post and Paddock.

Most of the socialites who watched the races from the lower and upper verandas of the club and from the club boxes had luncheon at the club beforehand, enjoying a cold buffet that was spread out in the dining room and that was as delicious as it looked.

A Good Start For Glore Guests.

The afternoon started off right for those who had luncheon with Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Glore in one of the club's attractive private dining rooms, for most of them placed their first bets on Essie Wessie, who won the race. Mrs. Glore was chic in an orange dress with a short cape and a tiny brown tri-cornered hat. Mrs. Laurance H. Armour, wife of the vice president of the Arlington Park Jockey club, was in this party, lovely and cool looking in a black and white sheer gown with a large white bow at her neck and a white hat.

Young Mrs. Edgar L. Marston was a picture in a gay printed frock in a large flower design and a hat of the same colorful silk. Her sister, Mrs. W. Press Hodgkins, had chosen a gray and soft red ensemble, a suit and hat of the gray with trimmings of the red. Mrs. Herbert McLaughlin's very wide brimmed leghorn hat had a wreath of tiny flat henna red roses around the crown, which matched in color her red and white printed frock. Her sister-in-law, Mrs. Frederic McLaughlin II., wore an ice blue silk dress and a dark blue brimmed hat with a narrow band of the lighter blue. Having luncheon with the latter was the junior Mrs. James Simpson, smart in a brown and white checked dress and a brown straw turban.

Mrs. Robert F. Thorne had with her three of her daughters, Mrs. George Gillespie, Mrs. Corson Ellis and Miss Laura Thorne. Mrs. Gillespie, who arrived not long ago to visit her family from Arizona, where she and her husband live, was smart in an egshell thin seersucker with brown hat, belt, bead bag, and other accessories that were not much darker in color than her own face and neck and arms, so tanned is she by the Arizona sun. Very becoming it is, too, to the former Katherine Thorne.

Mrs. Thorne was one of the several fashionably dressed women who had chosen black linen, and with it she

Miss England Calls Chicago Wonder City

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 26.—Chicago still shines in a glamorous glow for pretty petite Vera Fleck, Miss England in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S beauty contest to select the queen of A Century of Progress exposition.

The dainty, blue-eyed blonde received this correspondent at her home in Chiswick, a London suburb, soon after her return from America.

"Chicago I thought was wonderful—all of it, not just the lake front," she confided.

"I think above all it was the size and bulk of the buildings which overwhelmed me," she said. "I will never forget it. After the beauty contest itself was over I was entertained in many homes by American friends. The Americans were wonderfully cordial and hospitable, I found. Our days were crowded full all the time."

With real warmth Vera recalled the American girls she met, especially her sister members of the queen's court.

"I found them uniformly charming—and so smart," she exclaimed. "They have lots of style and can certainly dress well. And, do you know, I found clothes there so cheap! I was able to pick up some dresses far below what they would have cost here. It's easy for girls there to look stylish and fresh," she remembered half enviously.

"American girls don't even have their shoes resoled, I found. It's cheaper to get a new pair."

Recalling her visit to the baseball park, where she had been requested to speak over the radio, she said:

"The Americans found my way of speaking so funny they had me speak everywhere I went just to hear me."

That was said a little puzzled. She couldn't see anything funny in her neat little voice, especially since she is back again in England, where it resembles all the rest about her.

"I want to be remembered to my Chicago and American friends," she said. "I am writing THE TRIBUNE and thanking them for all they did for me."

Apparently her best remembered view in Chicago was that from the Tribune Tower.

Poor Children to See Fair as Society Guests

Gay Dancing Parties Will Provide Cash.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

MEMBERS of society with a flair for the Fair and sympathetic hearts are planning to go dinner dancing the evening of July 12. Yesterday this date was reserved by a board of generous minded Chicagoans for the first of a series of summer parties sponsored to provide 50,000 unfortunate boys and girls an opportunity to visit A Century of Progress.

There will be dinner and dancing in the Joseph Urban room of the Congress hotel and a galaxy of radio, stage, and screen stars to provide a round of entertainment. Mrs. John Alden Carpenter and Mrs. Charles L. Howard have been invited to be the hostesses with the assistance of Mrs. Norris C. Sudler and Mrs. John H. Root.

On the following Friday, July 14, several hundred children from Chicago's poorer sections, many of them from orphanages and welfare institutions, others from settlements and foster homes, will reap the benefits of the party when they are transported to the Fair for a day of wonder and fun. The following Wednesday night there will be another dinner dance, and the following Friday another children's party, and so on through the summer.

List Members of Governing Board.

Mrs. Edward Hines has been made the general chairman of the governing board of the series, with an executive committee composed of Chauncey McCormick, Mrs. Howard, Mrs. George V. MacIntyre, Mrs. Milton F. Goodman, and Mrs. Harry Oppenheimer. The treasurer is Mrs. Chauncey McCormick; the chairman of entertainment, Mrs. Root, and the chairman of arrangements at the Fair, Mrs. Sudler. Mrs. Leo Cummings has been placed in charge of ticket sales and Samuel L. Davis has been made chairman of transportation.

In addition there are three honorary directors, Miss Jane Addams, Judge Mary Bartelme, and Dr. Herman N. Bundesen.

And others who have been instrumental in the organization and will lend their support to the parties are Mrs. Robert R. McCormick, Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Mrs. Francis Johnson, Mrs. Edward H. Brewer, and Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine.

Guide Children at Fair Today.

When Miss Katherine Waller, Miss Frances Levy, and Miss Elizabeth Anne Oberndorfer line up a dozen little Kansas City girls on the steps of the Field museum this morning for final instructions before a visit to the Fair they will present each one of them with a large scrapbook, pencils, and crayon. The idea is to have them write down or sketch the things that impress them most, Miss Oberndorfer explains.

This summer these three young eastern college women are running a children's guide service for society's boys and girls who want to see the Fair and take in the "most interesting and worthwhile exhibits." This morning is the first official trip and

SWELL GARRICK

BY ROY VICKERS

SYNOPSIS.

Swell Garrick—the World's Perfect Tailor's Dummy—is the label given him by those who didn't know that his well molded body had been created by athletic training rather than tailoring skill. Maitland, a crooked gambler, is the purported guardian of lovely Rhoda Fairclough, who is unknowingly being used as decoy. Maitland plots to trick Rhoda out of a fortune left her by an uncle who died in Rome. Garrick exposes to Rhoda, before Maitland and his gang, their crooked card tricks. Garrick is overpowered by Schewan, Maitland's chief, but manages to defeat Schewan's purpose of burning him alive in his car. Maitland has Rhoda adjudged insane. Garrick learns from his uncle, a professor of chemistry, of a drug which will produce temporary madness. Having no proof of guilt Garrick determines to settle the matter in his own way. He kidnaps Maitland and holds him captive until he learns where Rhoda is being held. Garrick learns from his solicitor that if Rhoda can gain and maintain her liberty for twenty-eight days she will be considered legally sane. Garrick plans a rescue. He calls at the institution to see Rhoda.

INSTALLMENT XIV.

PLANNING AN ESCAPE.

Rhoda was the first to speak—as soon as the nurses had left the room.

"I—I'm sorry for your sake!" she said, and her brave words cut him.

"I was a careless, overconfident fool—for which perhaps one day you will forgive me," he said humbly. Then he held up his hand for silence.

Quickly he tapped the length of each wall with his ebony cane. Then, creeping up to the door, he flung it open. There was no one outside.

For the moment he was checked, for he had felt intuitively from Kendall's manner that there was a means of overhearing his conversation. . . . That rose bowl! It had not been there before.

He examined the bowl—thrust his fingers among the roses—then laughed. Then, with a reassuring glance at Rhoda, he put his lips close to the roses and spoke.

"Mr. Kendall, I believe—or should it be "Dr." Kendall?—anyhow, my dear Kendall, I think I will, after all, have my private conversation with Miss Fairclough in the garden. Tell your servants to keep out of our way, please."

Neither spoke as they walked past the tennis courts where two games were in progress. Except for the presence of nurses and attendants it might have been an ordinary house party.

"Very well! In the middle of the night, creep out of bed and hang a stocking out of the window so that we can tell from the road which is your room."

Beyond the tennis courts was a small rose garden and here they could speak without fear of being overheard.

"That rose bowl and the connecting wire!" he exclaimed. "A crooks' trick for listening to our conversation! If you still have any doubts that this nonsense about your being insane is a crooked conspiracy, that ought to convince you."

"I've lost that feeling," she said firmly. "I know I am quite sane. But how is it possible——"

"It means that the crooks have found this weakness in our law," he told her. "But I'm going to get you out of here without the help of the law, if you'll let me, Rhoda. Do you think you can stand the strain of helping me?"

"I'd do anything to get out of here," she answered fervently.

"Then, listen!" he said eagerly. "You were brought here on the fifth day of the month. That means that on the nineteenth you will be examined by a visiting physician. You can count on their leaving you alone until that time. And there can be no doubt whatever that they intend to inject that drug again the day before the physician comes."

Fear showed in her eyes and he hurried on:

"We'll get you out of here before then. But—do you think you could bear it if I were to leave it until the very last minute? There are very good reasons for doing so. If I catch them with the drug in their possession we shall be able to put them all straight in prison."

While they were talking Garrick was looking about him, his keen eyes noting every detail that could possibly be of use.

The house was an almost square block with a flat roof. Part of it had been extended and from the rear it seemed to have more of its real character as a prison.

The garden was moderately well kept and some attempt had been made to soften the line of the twelve-foot wall that ran round the house and grounds.

"We have eight days to work in," he said presently. "I will find a means of communicating with you and of telling you what to do. Have you a room to yourself?"

"Yes, quite a big room. They don't treat me badly, you know. I mean, it's horrible, but—it's really quite comfortable."

"They want money and nothing else. They wouldn't bother to ill treat you. What time are you called in the morning?"

"Seven."

"Very well! In the middle of the night, creep out of bed and hang a stocking out of the window so that we can tell from the road which is your room. But remove it before they call you in the morning. One more question before I go. How long does it take a woman to put on a dress?"

In spite of her grim position she laughed.

"A fashionable woman dressing for a party might take an hour or more," she answered. "If you mean me—and it's a matter of escaping from here—call it a couple of minutes."

"And another minute for the shoes! Good!" The briskness of her answer had given him confidence. "The one thing I'm really frightened of is that this place will get hopelessly on your nerves."

"You mean that I shall begin to be frightened all over again, that I'm really mad. You needn't think about that, Lyle! After they had brought me back—after you had made me believe I was all right—I saw that those two nurses had been told to work up—the lunatic business. They call me 'dear' all the time and look after me unnecessarily. And as I know they're doing it it doesn't have any effect. Must you really go now?"

"Yes. There isn't a minute to be wasted."

As they approached the house the two nurses appeared and greeted Rhoda with their mechanical smile.

"There now, Miss Fairclough!" said Nurse Amy. "I expect you feel much better now for your nice walk with Mr. Garrick!"

Garrick turned and regarded her with cold contempt.

"I wouldn't overdo it if I were you, nurse. In prison, you know, they make you scrub floors and—er—that kind of thing. Good morning!"

Kendall was waiting for him in the hall. He stared down at the shifty little doctor, at his matted beard, at his rather unwashed looking face. Before his gaze the other faltered.

"Schewan will take you a good deal further than you mean to go in this," he remarked, and passed out to the waiting car.

As the car crawled through the gates on to the road, Garrick spoke to Richards.

"You see that wall, Richards. There's no one about. You can go on to the path. I want to reach that wire with my stick."

When Richards had obeyed Garrick reached upwards with his stick and touched the wire that ran above the wall for its whole length. Instantly there sounded a loud gong in the house and the two men servants came rushing out. Garrick nodded contentedly as his suspicions were confirmed. It was next to impossible to climb the wall without sounding instant alarm.

After they had traveled a mile or two towards London, Garrick stopped the car, got out, and then sat beside his chauffeur.

"Richards, I'm going to ask you to do some rather queer work for me," he began. "If you don't want to do it, it will not affect your position with me. If you do it, I shall not pay you any extra. Is it good enough?"

"Every time, sir!" answered Richards enthusiastically. "You won't mind my saying it, but I've seen there's something on."

"There is, Richards. You can guess what it is, if you like. But don't guess out loud. The less you know, the safer it is for you! Come into the library when we get home and we'll rough out a few designs."

. . . . . .

To a sensitive woman by far the most horrible part of an asylum is simply the plain fact that it is an asylum. There was no very violent or distressing case among Rhoda's thirty-odd fellow inmates. Many of them were pleasant mannered and companionable. An ordinary conversation would be started—only to veer round to some secret obsession. The horror lay in the fact that nearly all the lunatics had every outward appearance of being sane.

Rhoda was left in peace at night, but by day one or the other of the two nurses, Nurse Amy or Nurse Flo, specially detailed for the duty, would come every half hour and ask her how she was feeling.

Every half hour! She soon perceived that it was systematic, that it was worked by the clock. Always this persecution took the form of a "kind" inquiry. "Are you feeling quite steady, Miss Fairclough?" . . . "Now mind you don't hurt yourself with this spoon!" In a hundred trifling ways it was perpetually suggested to her that she was in a delicate state bordering on violent hysteria.

A day passed and another and another. Soon she was not quite sure how many days had gone by since Garrick had come to see her. And as the time lengthened hopelessness began to settle upon her.

Fruit Pudding Light Finale to Summer Meal

BY MARY MEADE.

I'm going to suggest that we make a pudding for today's dinner. And if you answer that summer is no time for puddings I'm sure it's because the ones you have known are the rich, thick, winter desserts—cornstarch, rice, or tapioca ones—which, sorrowful to say, are often too stodgy and tasteless from overcooking to be much appreciated any season. But fluffy fruit puddings, piled lightly into chilly sherbet glasses, are something else again. And it's about these graceful finales of summer dinners that I want to talk today.

Tip number one: when whipped cream is used as a garnish, instead of a good sized blob top the pudding with delicate rosettes forced through a pastry bag.

Then, doesn't just the name "snow pudding" cool you off? These chilly little snowbanks, topped with crushed berries or a soft custard sauce, will be cooling, too.

SNOW PUDDING.

1 tablespoon gelatin
¼ cup cold water
1 cup boiling water
¼ cup sugar
¼ cup lemon juice
¼ teaspoon salt
3 egg whites

Soak the gelatin in the cold water for 5 minutes, then dissolve it in the boiling water. Add the sugar and lemon juice and chill until it starts to congeal. Now add the salt to the egg whites and beat them until stiff. Beat this into the pudding until very light, put the mixture into the refrigerator, and chill until set. Lightly pile several large spoonsful of the fluffy pudding in sherbet glasses and serve very cold.

GRAPE JUICE BLANC MANGE.

3 cups grape juice
1 cup sugar
¼ cup cornstarch
¼ cup cold water
1 tablespoonful lemon juice

Scald the grape juice in a double boiler and add the sugar. Blend the cornstarch with the water and add to the juice. Cook for fifteen minutes, stirring constantly. Add the lemon juice and pour into glass dishes. This pudding is not overly stiff.

PEACH FLOATING ISLANDS.

2 eggs, separated
6 tablespoons sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
1 cup sliced peaches
2 tablespoons slivered almonds
½ teaspoon vanilla

Beat the egg yolks with half of the sugar and salt and pour the milk, scalding hot, slowly over them, beating continuously. Cook over boiling water only until the mixture thickens. Chill and mix with the peaches, which have been sweetened to taste. Arrange in sherbet glasses. Whip the whites of the eggs until stiff, adding the remainder of the sugar and the vanilla. Drop spoonfuls on boiling water and place in the oven until a delicate brown. Place an "island" on each dish of pudding, topping with the slivered almonds.

MARSHMALLOW PUDDING.

1½ tablespoons gelatin
½ cup cold water
½ cup boiling water
1 cup sugar
4 egg whites
1 teaspoon vanilla
⅛ teaspoon salt

Soak the gelatin several minutes in the cold water and dissolve in the boiling water. Beat the egg whites and salt until they will keep their shape and add the gelatin and water slowly, beating constantly. Add the sugar, a little at a time, and the vanilla, and beat the pudding until it thickens. Chill, then pile with crushed berries and serve.

Tones of Blue and Green Combined in Paris Outfit of Seafaring Bent

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Styles are getting set to go down to the sea. All the Paris dressmakers are bringing out cute little numbers that are seafaring in bent, and one of these is shown in our sketch today.

If the weather holds out in warmth, women in France will wear cottons, flax, and linens all summer. That is, when they go to the sea. The most attractive ensembles, and those having the biggest style appeal, are made of this material. Flax is particularly popular, and there is a crêpe made of it that is splendid as to chic and wearing qualities.

Louise Boulanger makes the ensemble pictured today of this flax crêpe. There is a negligible little jacket of almond green crêpe with short sleeves and banded around the closing with duck's egg blue flax crêpe. This jacket buttons down the center front.

The dress has a skirt of the crêpe in almond green, with two front panels that mount above the waistline to the bust. There is a belt of the material that buttons on two flaps at the center front.

The blouse is in the blue crêpe and has two wide bias folds across the bust, the upper of which swings over the top of the arms and extends down the back into a square that suggests a sleeve. A wide band of almond green crêpe begins from the bias fold in front and makes a funny shaped V on the back of the blouse.

Takes Time and Skill to Keep a Child 'Natural'

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

We haven't had letters in our column for a long time and I must not let that happen, because I do think they are helpful to other mothers. Take today's.

"Enclosed is a stamped, self-addressed envelope for a list of books for children under 5."

There are now leaflets ready including new books.

"May I add I am one of your most faithful readers? You put in words so well what so many of us mothers feel and yet cannot express."

[I leave this paragraph in even though it is personal, because I think that is one great value all good articles on child training have—to crystalize the readers' own experiences and thoughts.]

"I have a little girl who will be 4 in August. She has always been a pleasure and joy to me. Friends and acquaintances with children of their own have often remarked that Sally is so well behaved and obedient because she just naturally is that way.

"But with all due modesty I must claim some of the credit, as she is just a normal happy, healthy youngster who went through her 'I won't' and 'no' period just as all little ones do. But we seem to have weathered the storm successfully so far!

"Another thing these same women with unmanageable youngsters overlook is the time and patience I've given my own. Where so many children are turned over to untrained help who can do more damage in a mental way in a week than a mother can sometimes correct and overcome in a month, I have always been on the job. My girl has meant more than bridges or teas, and the reward is sufficient!

"What greater joy than a joyously healthy child who can win any one, from the milkman on the route to the stranger on the street by a winning, sweet personality, and who is never too stubborn to tell her Mommie she is sorry if she has done anything wrong!

"Have I bored you? Just an outpouring of suppressed ravings by a fond mother!"

No, of course I'm not bored, and of course these aren't just the outpourings of a fond mother. The things this mother says are quite true. When people with unruly children say that another child is naturally docile or "good" they don't know what they're talking about. Children are naturally nice or sweet [or whatever adjective you like], but it takes lots of time and skill to keep them so. To be sure, some children are more manageable than others, but you can take the "best" child in the world and mismanaging her completely, you can make her spoiled, sullen, defiant and disobedient.

Fair to Give Big Thrills to Sally's Guests

She Tells How to Write Winning Letters.

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

All you kids who like to play cowboy are going to love the 101 Wild West Show! Because we'll see, not only real live cowboys, but sharpshooters, cowgirls, Cossacks, and buffaloes, and they'll all perform for us.

I forgot to tell you yesterday about the menagerie the midgets have in their village. Two monkeys, two crows, a number of little dogs, a racoon, a tiny fox, and three midget lions all live in miniature cages.

I'm sure most of you know what a "tepee" is, but I'll bet you're not so sure about a "hogan." It's the type of house that the Navajo Indians live in, and we'll see one when we go to the Indian Village. We'll also see buffalo hides and birch bark utilized in the dwellings of the different tribes.

If July 6 is a hot day, and it's likely to be, it'll be more fun than ever to go down into the S-49, the big submarine that we're going to explore, 'cause they do say it's 20 degrees cooler inside the ship.

I'll bet you've never seen a coaster wagon almost as big as your house, either, have you? Well, if you're one of my guests on July 6 you'll see the biggest one ever on the Enchanted Island.

The guides provided by Junior Fair Tours know just how to help us see all the best exhibits, including the Federal building, which is fascinating —and they know just how to look out for children—so no one will be too tired to enjoy the affair.

Now, if you want to be one of the happy children who'll start off on a gay party with me in the big, blue Greyhound buses next week you'd better hop to it.

I'm going to select my guests on Thursday morning—so don't wait 'til the last minute to write your letters. I want you to convince me that you really want to come to A Century of Progress with me, and the writers of the best letters will see their names printed in next Sunday's TRIBUNE. Don't miss giving me your age, as well as your name and address, and scoot off to the mailbox in a hurry with it, so it'll come to Sally Joy Brown, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago.

Organdy Coats Newest Thing for Warm Day

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Organdy orders must have reached high peaks this season, what with all the collars, capes, yards of ruffles, hats, scarves and sleek little white outlines to necklines made of this flattering stuff. You have bought crisp white and colored jackets, for your party frocks, and now the newest thing among the organdy numbers is the long coat.

Some knockout plaid affairs have been discovered . . . full length coats with long puffed sleeves that were worn over plain colored thin cotton frocks. One was a three colored plaid of large squared design, paired with a navy blue organdy dress. They are about the coolest topcoats any enterprising designer ever devised for hot weather street wear.

Any clever gal who "sews her own" can run up a new coat in no time. Try a pale pink coat over a dress of pink and white checked tissue gingham, try jade green organdy over cornflower blue, or brilliant orange over a soft grey frock, or a grey organdy coat with a black and white striped dress, practically any good interesting color contrast is possible.

Three-quarters length white, pale pink, and even sky blue organdy coats with ruffled short sleeves go places at night in the company of ruffled dance dresses, and these same coats are a perfect contrast for sleek black, dark blue, or brown sheer afternoon dresses . . . and lots of the knowing gals are wearing them over afternoon dresses with very interesting results.

But the plaid and striped organdy top coat and dress ensembles are new, exciting, and ought to be tremendously successful through the sizzling hot days when every shopper is looking for something cool, tailored and designed for street wear.

MINUTE MYSTERY
BY H. A. RIPLEY

[Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.]

THE MESSENGER'S STORY.

"Here, take this to Mr. Goodspeed, president of the First National, and give it to him personally," said Albert Wilkins, vice president of the Continental bank, to Bill Smith as the messenger entered the office. Smith, just five minutes before, had returned from an out-of-town trip and would like to have called it a day but . . .! He took the sealed tan paper parcel and started on his errand.

Two hours later he rushed into Wilkins' office and gasped, "My God, sir, they got away with the $10,000! Then he sank into unconsciousness.

An hour later, Wilkins having privately informed Fordney of the above, instructed Smith to tell his story to the professor.

"Well, sir, I hadn't walked a block when two men with guns shoved me into a car, grabbed the package, blindfolded me and drove to a lonely spot on Peterson road. Not a word was spoken. They pushed me out and after loosening my blindfold and recognizing the location, I walked through the woods that led to the main highway. I had gone about half a mile when I spotted an empty sedan in a clearing. It looked like the bandit's car so I examined it. The radiator was hot and in the back seat I found those," indicating the wrapping paper and one of the bands which had bound the money, lying on Wilkins' desk.

The professor examined them closely; then with great care folded them into their original creases. "H'mmm," he murmured. "What did you do with the money, Smith?"

WHY DID FORDNEY SUSPECT HIM?

[See solution on page 29.]

Flattering Dance Frock Designed on Slender Lines

WOMAN'S AND MISSES' DRESS.

You could hardly have a prettier dance frock than this one. The pointed front bodice section breaks into a shoulder capelet, and the skirt is cut on slim lines. Chiffon prints make lovely dance frocks, embroidered organdie is another pleasing suggestion.

The pattern, No. 2827, comes in sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measure. Size 16 requires 4⅞ yards of 39 inch material.

Use of Henna Needs Hand of an Expert

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

To probably nothing so much as the "pink and orange streaks' in hennaed hair has prejudice continued against hair dyeing. I don't think the bleaching, the platinumizing or anything else created prejudice as have the off shades seen in red dyed heads.

It's interesting to note that hairdressers have made a study of this henna-headed imperfection and now feel qualified to tone down the offending shades.

They tell me that they find after hair has been hennaed over a period of years the unwanted pink and orange streaks show up. Where this condition exists the remedy is not to put another application of henna. This only re-emphasizes the overbright streaks.

The treatment really calls for expert handling. My opinion is and always has been that any hair tinting job calls for the most expert handling. I can't see how any individual can do the job for herself unless she has the intelligent hand and brain of an expert in coloring. That most nonprofessionals have not the "touch" is plainly evidenced in the incredible tinting jobs seen about, especially on the hennaed head.

The explanation offered for the vivid pinks and oranges in hennaed hair after a time of using henna is this: When henna was first applied there may have been but a few scattered gray hairs, or white. Under the henna application, these went unnoticed. But as the hair grew grayer or whiter on the head, the off-shades became more noticeable. White hair having no coloring in itself, the henna turns it pinkish or orangeish.

In order to correct this condition, the hair needs to be submitted to a retouch treatment, using different shades of dye on the now differing tints in the hair and working it all out to an event tone. From which you can see how necessary it is to have an expert in charge of the operation.

Poor Children to See Fair as Society Guests

Gay Dancing Parties Will Provide Cash.

the dozen little Kansas City girls who made their reservations weeks ago are all summer campers up at Camp Kechewa.

Others who are to see the Fair in this way the next fortnight are the Laird Bells' youngest children and the Bryan S. Reids' two youngest daughters.

Keep "Cinderella" at Fair Theater.

Charlotte B. Chorpenning's version of "Cinderella," now being staged by a talented cast of Junior leaguers in the Enchanted Island theater, has met with such success that the directors have decided to present nothing but "Cinderella" through the end of July. This means that there will be no more performances of "The Captivity of Eleanor Lytle" before August. "Cinderella" will be presented at 12:30, 2:45, and 4:15 today, and at the same hours on Thursday, Saturday, July 4, 6, 8, 18, 20, and 22.

Mrs. Wilhelm Ludwig Baum came back to town yesterday afternoon from her summer home near St. Joe to preside this morning at another of A Century of Progress lectures sponsored by the Chicago Woman's club. Miss Jane Addams is to speak in the court of the Hall of Science on "Woman's Contribution to the International Peace Movement."

There's to be a personally conducted tour of the Exposition today for those who wear the badge of Delta Kappa Epsilon. And this enlists some of our most important business and professional men.

Tracy Drake, who is the permanent secretary-treasurer of the fraternity, will spend today at the Fair with the party, and so will Frank F. Selfridge, president of the North Western Alumni association. Other DKE's who will likely be seen in the rickshas are Willoughby Walling, Louis Tilden, T. Philip Swift, William Rufus Abbott Jr., Warner G. Baird, Frank McNair, Clarence W. Sills, David A. Crawford, William Ray Carney, Charles F. Glore, Donald R. McLennan Jr, Robert A. Gardner, William and Otto Madlener, Arthur T. Hellyer, Harold H. Swift, and Robert A. Carr.

Italian Prince to Sail Today

Today Donna Myriam Potenziani's handsome young cousin, Prince Schoenberg, is boarding a liner at an Italian port Chicago bound. He is coming to see the Fair with his uncle, Prince Potenziani, as his official guide. And by the time he arrives the prince and his daughter will be returned to Chicago from their western trip during which Mrs. Arthur G. Cable and Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson have been two of their hostesses.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Iselin and Arthur Jr. of the New York family are hoping to run across them the next few days at the Fair. The Iselins are on their way from Bedford house at Katonah, N. Y., to spend a month or more in Cody, Wyo. Their stopover here is for the express purpose of seeing the Exposition.

Mr. and Mrs. Hayden B. Harris are expecting that widely known engineer, Boris Bahmetieff, whho lectures on hydraulicts at Columbia university, to arrive tomorrow to be their house guest the remainder of the week. Dr. Bahmetieff is coming for the meetings of the American Society of Engineers. The Harrises will have an informal tea for him upon his arrival, afterward taking him to dinner at A Century of Progress, probably in the Trustees' Lounge.

Four Theaters Grant Free Admissions to Orphans

Four large theaters of the Balaban & Katz chain yesterday granted free admissions to orphans and residents of homes for the aged. This was done, it was explained, in conformity with a request of Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, who urged relief from the heat for those unable to pay their way into the cooled theaters. The showhouses opened to these guests were the Chicago, Uptown, Tivoli and Marbro.

ENGAGEMENTS

Mr. and Mrs. William John Stephenson of 1037 Highland avenue, Oak Park, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Bernadette, to Eben Leighton Bellin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Ambrose Banks Bellin of Minneapolis. The wedding will take place Saturday evening, July 8, in the Euclid Avenue Methodist church in Oak Park. Mr. Bellin and his bride will be at home at 107 South Harvey avenue, Oak Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Hartley Pool of Hinman avenue, Evanston, announce the engagement of their daughter, Margaret, to Carl S. Hodge, son of William Hodge of Marion, Ind. Miss Pool attended the Frances Shimer college. Mr. Hodge attended Indiana university and the Ball university of Muncie, Ind., and was a member of the varsity football and wrestling teams.

Evanston Girl to Wed

MISS ELIZABETH REID SACKETT.
[Feich Photo.]

Miss Elizabeth Reid Sackett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel J. Sackett of Evanston, is to be married today, to Reginald David Crocker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Clinton Crocker of Spooner, Wis. The ceremony will take place in the presence of the relatives and a few intimate friends in the drawing room of the home of the bride's parents on Orrington avenue, and will followed by a larger reception in the gardens.

Junior League Will Publish Calendar of Civic and Cultural Events in City

When Count and Countess Folke Berenadotte step off the plane that brings them back from Minneapolis today they will be plunged into more entertaining. This afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Tage Palm are giving a reception for them at the Palm apartment on East Ohio street. On Friday they plan to return to New York.

Benefit Sale Today at Lake Geneva.

Today Mrs. Theis J. Lefens is opening her lovely old home at Lake Geneva . . . it has been in the Lefens family for at least forty years . . . for the second annual summer sale of the Vocational Society for Shut-Ins. The sale is to feature summer articles . . . picnic baskets and water sprinklers . . . besides the usual lovely linens and baby clothes.

Two mothers and daughters-in-law . . . Mrs. Albert S. Madlener and Mrs. Albert S. Madlener Jr., and Mrs. Daniel Peterkin and the junior Mrs. Daniel Peterkin . . . will be hostesses with Mrs. Earle J. Zimmerman, Mrs. Armin W. Brand, Mrs. Henry C. Bartholomay, Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne, Mrs. Frank S. Porter, and Mrs. A. F. Gartz Jr.

Mrs. Samuel T. Chase, that devoted friend of the Children's Memorial hospital, called yesterday to tell us that there will be another dressmakers' sale Thursday at the White Elephant Rummage shop. Good news this time is the fact that there are quantities of lace included in the sale. Mrs. D. Mark Cummings is in charge.

Mrs. Manierre to Sail July 10.

According to the last cable Cyrus Edson Manierre has had from his wife, she plans to sail July 10 with their son, Edson Jr., from France, but as Mrs. Manierre's plans are most indefinite it may be even months before Chicagoans see her home again.

John Elting, son of Victor Elting, has sailed for France where he is going to spend the summer studying at the University of Dijon. Young Mr. Elting will return next fall to resume his studies at Princeton.

Miss Myra Little, daughter of the Charles G. Littles of Evanston, is sailing Saturday on the Mauretania from France, where she has been studying the last winter. She will spend a few days in New York with her brother, Charles J. Little, and will be at home in Evanston a week from Sunday. She has planned a series of house parties during the summer to show her out-of-town friends the Fair.

The Cornelius B. Watsons of Winnetka have gone east for the graduation of their son, Cornelius Jr., from the Hill school today.

Already quite a contingent of city dwellers has gone out to the Exmoor Country club to spend the season, or part of it. Dr. and Mrs. Franklin H. Martin are there, and so are the Edwin L. Lobdells, Col. and Mrs. Horatio B. Hackett, and the Harold A. Moores. Mr. and Mrs. Orville J. Taylor will be at the Highland Park club during the month of July.

Three to Tour Yellowstone.

Today Mrs. Arthur W. Cutten and Mrs. Arthur F. Lindley are meeting Mrs. Allen M. Clement at the west entrance to Yellowstone National park and starting off on a four day tour through the park. Mrs. Cutten and Mrs. Lindley left Chicago Sunday, while Mrs. Clement came from San Francisco, where she has been vacationing the last several weeks. They are all planning to return to Chicago for the Fourth.

Miss Betty Lou Davis reached Chicago yesterday with her mother, Mrs. Dewitt Davis Jr., to spend a week with her aunt, Mrs. Bina West Miller, at her home in the Drake Towers. Miss Davis has just been graduated with honors from the Baldwin school at Bryn Mawr. In the fall, after a vacation at her aunt's summer home, Westhaven at Port Huron, Mich., she will enter Bryn Mawr college.

The Harry C. Holloways of Glencoe and their daughter, Miss Ruth Holloway, have gone east to their lovely home, Tamarack, at Tyringham, Mass., in the Berkshire mountains. One of the Holloways' sons, Larz, has been west most of the winter prospecting for gold with two of his north shore friends, John Pope and Wallace Murray. He will remain in Arizona over July 4 for the Smoki dances and the rodeo, after which he will motor back to Chicago, take time out to see the Fair, and then will join his family in the mountains.

Dr. and Mrs. Vincent J. O'Conor of Pine Lane, Winnetka, sailed Saturday on the Duchess of Athol for England. Dr. O'Conor will attend the meetings of the International Congress of Urology in London in July. Then he and Mrs. O'Conor will have a motor trip through the English lake region and Scotland.

Mrs. Gerald Grant and her very young son, born on June 11 at St. Luke's hospital, are at home in the Grants' home on Walden road, Winnetka. The baby has been named John Gallery Grant, after his maternal grandfather, the late John Gallery, and is the former Rosemary Gallery's second son, her first being Gerald Jr., 3 years old.

Mrs. Magnus Wears Black and White.

A smart black and white costume was worn by Mrs. Joseph Magnus, whose knitted string dress was of black and white checks about an inch square. Her hat was of black linen trimmed with white flowers and the only note of color in her costume was a wide yellow belt. Mrs. Huntington B. Henry's large black hat was trimmed with a bouquet of field flowers which matched in color the gay print gown she wore, and Dorothy Marshall was another whose black hat was trimmed with flowers that matched her figured print gown in color. Her sister, lovely blonde Mrs. Richard Fleming, wore a polka dotted black and yellow dress and a large black hat with yellow and white daisies flat against the crown. Their mother, Mrs. Benjamin H. Marshall, was in black with a bunch of white daisies at her neck and on her wide brimmed black hat. Mr. Marshall and Ben Jr. and Jack Couch completed this party.

Mrs. Francis Johnson, who was with Robert F. Carr and Glenn Frank, was lovely in a black and white printed silk with a touch of pale green and red and a large black hat. The Edward H. Bennetts also were in this party. Mrs. Robert R. McCormick had with her her sister, Mrs. Arthur A. Small, and their nephew, Maj. S. Leroy Irwin and Mrs. Irwin, and Mrs. Lois Frimmel.

Mrs. John B. Barnes and Miss "Didi" Shuttler were twins as far as the material of their frocks was concerned, for both were wearing gray with white polka dots. The dresses weren't made alike, however, although both young women were wearing large white hats trimmed with gray bands.

Miss Betty Dixon, who was with her fiancé, Parker Bryant, and Miss Narcissa Swift and Vittorio Liebman, wore a white tennis dress with a red and white polka dotted tie and a wide brimmed leghorn hat with a red band. Miss Swift's white frock was covered most of the afternoon with a stunning three-quarter length coat of Roman striped material made with wide shoulders and full elbow length sleeves. A tiny white hat was on her fluffy hair early in the afternoon, but both she and Miss Dixon found it cooler to go bareheaded before long. Miss Swift's mother, Mrs. Alden B. Swift, was there, and so was her aunt, Mrs. Gustavus F. Swift.

Many Others Enjoy Races.

One of the most stunning women at the club was Mrs. William H. Mitchell, who wore a printed silk gown in dark colors, mostly blues and black, and a wide brimmed hat. A bouquet of the popular field flowers at her neck gave a dash of color to her costume. A few of the many others who watched the racing and enjoyed the afternoon, whether they collected on their bets or tore their tickets to bits, were Mrs. Silas Strawn and her daughters, Mrs. James C. Cathcart and Mrs. Wesley Dixon; Mrs. Ralph S. Isham, Mrs. Charles W. Dempster, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Hertz [she was delightfully cool looking in dark blue dotted swiss with white accessories], Mrs. Julian T. Benedict and her sister, Mrs. Edward N. Hurley Jr., and their little daughters, Mileste Benedict and Jeanette Hurley; Mrs. William A. Ryan [Helen Hurley], Mrs. George Plamondon, Miss Frances Lasker, Mrs. Harry H. Lobdell, Mrs. Harry L. Thompson and Miss Mildred Thompson, Mrs. John D. Black, Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, and Mrs. Vincent Healy.

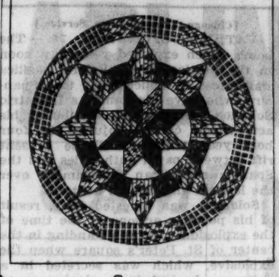
Quilt Designed by Crippled Veteran of the Civil War



Compass.

BY NANCY CABOT.

The designer of "The Compass" was a crippled veteran of the civil war, who whiled away the long tedious hours of his days making a quilt of this pattern for each of his fourteen grand children. The quilt is a combination of piece work and applique.

For a quilt pattern of this design, send 5 cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service Office, One South Dearborn.

Matrimonial Court Urged as Social Benefit

BY DORIS BLAKE.

A special matrimonial court, seen as a step in keeping with the recent advances in social science, is being urged in New York to replace supreme court handling of family problems. Separate matrimonial courts are functioning in certain cities already with beneficial results. The idea of the separate matrimonial court is to give all matrimonial matters mature and humane consideration by the justice who is enabled to be in more personal touch with the litigants.

As Supreme Court Justice Salvatore A. Cotillo argues: "The family is the backbone of the nation and any dispute or defect within this social entity should be treated in keeping with the latest sociological developments."

The latest developments in social, medical, and psychiatric investigation applied to family problems, it is believed, will prove of constructive value. Reconciliation between warring couples will be the major interest. It is planned by the proponents of the special matrimonial court to draw up questionnaires to determine the financial, cultural, social, and marital status of husband and wife.

Among the questions the wife is required to answer appear these:

What wedding gifts did you receive?

Were you employed before marriage?

What gifts did you receive from husband during marriage?

What is your income?

How much pin money did you receive?

Are you living with parents or strangers?

Did you make any accumulation of pin money?

What is your ability to pay for your own maintenance?

What is the state of your health?

The husband will be expected to respond to such queries as:

Do you own an automobile?

Have you closed out any bank accounts during the last year?

What rent do you pay?

What proportion is the cost of food to your living expenses? And the cost of clothing?

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, June 26.—[Special.]—Mr and Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson have opened their country place, Indiana Landing, seven hundred acre island near Isleboro.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Pulitzer Jr. will pass the season at High Farms, Glen Head, where they have leased the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Van H. Cartmell.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Carnegie Phipps will give a supper-dance on Monday at their country home in Westbury to introduce their debutante daughter, Miss Audrey Phipps.

FAT Hasn't Worried her for Years!

Marmola was first introduced in 1907. Since then 20 million boxes have been furnished people who were not content to sit idly by while unlovely, abnormal fat mounted. Marmola today, as in years past, is demanded by thousands in the style centers like Miami, Hollywood, New York City—in every one of the 48 states—in England, Australia, South Africa and other remote corners of the world.

Marmola is designed for people (called by doctors the "low metabolism type") whose systems need nutritional assistance—to keep from turning too much food into fat. Discover Marmola for yourself. You are not forced to undergo starvation diets or constant self-denial. Simply avoid fat or starchy foods. Each box contains simple directions and complete formula. Use it as a treatment—week by week—until you have approached your normal weight. At drug stores—$1.

RUSSIA PROTESTS TO JAPAN AFTER NAVAL 'INVASION'

Warship Enters Soviet Waters; Probes Killings.

MOSCOW, June 26.—(AP)—G. I. Sokolnikov, vice commissar for foreign affairs, today protested vigorously to Tamekichi Ota, Japanese ambassador, against the alleged action of the Japanese torpedo boat Tatzikaze entering soviet waters and sending a landing party ashore to investigate the reported slaying of three Japanese fishermen.

The incident was alleged to have occurred in the region of Cape Kronotski, Kamchatka peninsula.

The vice commissar declared that the war vessel landed sailors despite the soviet government's refusal five days earlier to entertain the Japanese government's request that the torpedo boat be allowed to proceed there with the Japanese consul at Petropavlovsk in order to investigate the matter.

Railway Parley Opens.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, June 26.—The conference between representatives of Russia and Manchukuo on the proposed sale of the Chinese Eastern railway in Manchuria by the soviets opened auspiciously today with an address of welcome by Count Yasuya Uchida, Japanese foreign minister.

Konstantin Yurenev, Russian ambassador to Tokio, and Gen. Ting Shih-yuan, Manchukuo minister, also addressed the conference.

Jap Observers Attend.

Japan reconsidered at the last moment and decided to have two observers attend all sessions. However, Count Uchida and his aids retired immediately after the addresses by Yurenev and Ting, leaving the soviet and Manchukuoan delegates free to discuss the proposed sale.

"The soviet proposal, it appears to me," said Count Uchida, "was made with a full appreciation of the new state of affairs in the far east and it affords me pleasure to see the negotiations inaugurated. I earnestly hope that the representatives will accelerate the haromonious progress of the negotiations."

DISARM PARLEY MOVES TO QUIT UNTIL AUTUMN

PARIS, June 26.—(AP)—France's approval of adjournment of the Geneva disarmament conference until after the league of nations assembly in September was obtained today by Arthur Henderson, president of the arms parley.

Henderson saw the French foreign minister, Joseph Paul-Boncour, who agreed to the plan. Henderson will present the proposal tomorrow at a meeting of the conference steering committee in Geneva. He expects it to be adopted.

Henderson said that during the recess he will negotiate with the principal governments. He expressed confidence that this method would achieve the best results, as the various statesmen are so busy now it is impossible to talk with them.

SPANIARD ARRESTED FOR THE BOMBING OF ST. PETER'S IN ROME

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VATICAN CITY, June 26.—The bomb which exploded yesterday noon in the portico of St. Peter's basilica was traced by police today to a Spaniard, who gave his name as Demetrio Solamon. Authorities attributed his act, which caused injuries to four holy year pilgrims, to the present rift between papal authorities and the Spanish republican government over the latter's anti-church attitude.

Solamon was arrested as a result of his peculiar actions at the time of the explosion. He was standing in the center of St. Peter's square when the explosive, which was secreted in a suitcase checked in a cloakroom at the cathedral, was touched off by a time clock mechanism.

When the explosion occurred Solamon ran away, with a Fascist officer in pursuit. Solamon escaped but made the mistake of pulling a document from his pocket and throwing it into a fountain near the piazza.

The officer returned and found the document to be a passport. Using the passport photograph, police located Solamon this morning.

MACHADO FOES RAIDED; CUBAN TRUCE BROKEN

Peace Efforts of U. S. Envoy Periled.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, June 26.—Government forces tonight broke the calm which has prevailed since United States Ambassador Sumner Welles negotiated a cessation of hostilities between President Machado's régime and oppositionists.

Police raided the home of Dr. Augustin Castellanos, prominent lawyer and a leader of the Union Nationalista party, and jailed him "at the disposal of the president." Police claim they took two machine guns, a number of sawed off shotguns, pistols, and ammunition as well as a radio transmitter recently used by members of the A. B. C. terrorist society for broadcasting a diatribe against the administration.

Raid Hundreds of Homes.

The raids then spread to hundreds of other homes on a tip that oppositionists are in possession of large quantities of dynamite. Arrests took 61 leaders to jail. Machado ordered the rearrest of all former political prisoners.

José Alberni, oppositionist representative from Oriente province, today appealed to the department of interior for protection. Secretary of the Interior Zubizarreta ordered Alberni's arrest. Alberni is hiding.

Welles Is "Disappointed."

Ambassador Welles was quoted tonight as "bitterly disappointed at today's turn of events." It is expected that he will visit President Machado tomorrow and endeavor to persuade him to call off the campaign.

A committee of the senate and house met today to put the finishing touches to the amnesty law, but it is now believed Machado will veto it.

Rodolfo Mendez Penate today returned from a trip to the Cuban exile colonies in Miami and New York and brought the indorsement of Col. Roberto Mendez Penate, Carlos Mendieta, and Aurelia Hevia for Ambassador Welles' mediation program.

ILLINOIS FARMS BATTLE SCOURGE OF CHINCH BUGS

Grain Fields Riddled by Insect Swarms.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Just as farmers of Illinois had worried through one of the worst planting seasons for corn seen in a generation and were beginning to watch Chicago grain market quotations for soaring prices, they have discovered in the last two days a new problem that has sent them into the fields in fighting units to save their grains from devastation.

THE CHINCH BUG.

The newly discovered enemy, small insects about the size of large ants which move in hordes, are called chinch bugs, and they are running riot in the wheat, barley, and new corn fields from Cook and De Kalb counties south almost to the Ohio river. In the Chicago area the heaviest infestation found yesterday on a tour was in Cook, Kendall, Du Page, and Will counties and in the southern sections of Kane and De Kalb counties.

Fields Riddled by Insects.

Fields were seen where the insects swarmed over the ground and riddled barley beyond hope of reaping. Corn plants were half covered with them. At the University of Illinois chinch bugs are described as one of the most destructive insects known to grain farmers.

Veteran Kendall county farmers said yesterday that the infestation was the worst seen in nearly 50 years. Crews of men were busy digging trenches between the small grain fields and corn fields. Into these trenches are poured creosote or crude oil. Such barriers, coupled with plowing up badly riddled fields of wheat or barley, and the burning of all vegetation in the fall, are the most effective methods of combating the pest.

The insects now marching along the ground almost as fast as a man can walk, are the second brood of chinch bugs, their predecessors having been hatched in wheat, barley, or rye fields early this spring. In March the state natural history survey issued a warning that the bugs had done much damage last summer, and that their eggs had survived the winter to a greater extent than has been noted in Illinois for many years.

Increasing for Four Years.

The insects, apparently, have been gradually increasing in numbers for the last four years. Even in recent weeks when they were seen in small grain fields, many farmers did not believe they would forsake the green grain for corn. Once they get into a field of corn, little can save the crop except to shut off the uninfested areas by oiled barriers.

Legume crops, such as alfalfa, soy beans, vetch, cowpeas, and clover, can be grown without danger of injury by the bugs.

BUTTER MAKERS PROPOSE PRICE FIXING PROGRAM

Dairy Industry, U. S. Officials Confer.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 26.—[Special.]—Ignoring the announced policy of the agricultural adjustment administration to avoid price fixing, wherever possible, the butter industry today submitted a plan for the arbitrary establishment of butter prices each week by a national committee within the industry itself.

The marketing agreement for butter was presented at a conference between representatives of the dairy industry and officials of the agricultural adjustment administration. The butter plan and a somewhat similar proposal for the evaporated milk industry were the only marketing agreements offered today, although agreements for the cheese, dry milk, and ice cream industries are being worked out.

At its outset today the dairy conference was warned by Charles S. Brand, co-administrator of the adjustment act, that the federal government is prepared to invoke the drastic licensing provisions of the act to enforce marketing agreements entered into locally by the fluid milk producers and distributors in the various so-called "milk sheds" throughout the country, was urged by Don Geyer of the Pure Milke Association of Chicago.

The butter agreement was presented by N. R. Clark, vice president of Swift & Co., Chicago, who represented the butter manufacturers on a subcommittee appointed to draft the plan.

START PICKING JURY TO TRY 2 IN CARL MURDER

Selection of a jury qualified for the death penalty was begun yesterday in the Criminal court of Judge Michael Feinberg to try John Milosic, 50 years old, and Ivan Grilec, 39 years old, for the murder of George Carl, 41 years old, who was shot to death last July in the rear of his grocery at 2511 South Crawford avenue.

Three other defendants on the murder charge, including Mrs. Vera Carl, widow of the slain man, have been granted severances in the trial.

The state charged that Milosic, alleged sweetheart of Mrs. Carl; Grilec, Carl's brother-in-law; Mrs. Carl, and others plotted the death of Carl in order to secure $15,000 in insurance.

PLAN PUBLICITY FOR THOSE STILL HOLDING GOLD

Will Be Followed by Prosecutions if Necessary.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 26.—[Special.]—Attorney General Homer S. Cummings is preparing to turn the spotlight of public opinion on recalcitrant holders of gold.

Pushing the anti-hoarding campaign which President Roosevelt launched in March to the semi-final stage, the attorney general said names of holders would be made public soon and would be followed by prosecutions if they continued to hold out.

Cummings added, however, that he hopes to finish investigating the 15,000 whom the treasury department has reported to him before the publicity drive starts. Only 4,013 had been investigated up to today, however, and 185 persons refusing to turn in $1,141,819 in gold had been discovered.

Will Give All a Chance.

In the other 3,828 cases, involving $23,921,931, the suspects either turned over their gold and gold certificates or claimed to have done so before the government agents called, the attorney general reported.

"I intend to give everybody the fullest chance to do his duty to the government, and then the pressure will be put on," Cummings explained. He said he would consider, however, a suggestion that a partial list of defiant holders be made public immediately to spur on the return of the gold.

May Require Two Suits.

Even if the government wins a criminal case against holders, however, it may have to proceed civilly against him also to get the gold back unless he voluntarily yielded up the precious metal, Cummings admitted. He said, however, that he believed holders convicted in criminal cases would bring in their gold as a step toward obtaining leniency.

LINER AGROUND IN N. Y. BAY FOG; OTHERS DELAYED

New York, June 26.—[Special.]—In the dense fog that had isolated the port since 3 o'clock Sunday, the Italian liner, Roma, went aground on Sandy Hook bar just inside the entrance to Ambrose channel today. She was forced to wait for high water tonight to get off and proceed to quarantine, and will not be able to dock with 409 passengers until morning.

The Roma was one of nineteen ships, with about 1,500 passengers abroad, that were fogbound in the murky haze carried to the lower bay from the sea on a southeast wind that continued to blow steadily all night.

CUMMINGS WILL ASK U. S. LAW TO WAR ON RACKETS

Washington, D. C., June 26.—[Special.]—Congress will be asked at its next session to give the federal government power to stamp out racketeering, Attorney General Homer S. Cummings announced today.

Stirred by the killing of four men and a department of justice agent in Kansas City recently, the attorney general declared that "we have gotten to a point in this country where the federal government must take a hand in fighting this underworld army which is preying on civilization."

New powers which the central government will need to combat gangsters will be studied out this summer, Cummings declared. He indicated that he will have them ready for submission when congress meets in January, but added that nothing would be submitted without having been studied fully.

Meanwhile the department of justice is considering a call for all state enforcement officers to meet with it in Washington in a council of war.

Boy Sails from Window on Screen; Lands Unhurt

Edward Kurtz Jr., 3 years old, leaned out of a second floor window last night at the home of his grandparents at 1146 Wesley avenue, Oak Park, and the screen gave way. The boy sailed on the screen to the concrete pavement below and aside from minor bruises he was unhurt.

EVERY PLAYER CHOSEN BY FANS GETS A PLACE

Simmons, Dykes to Face N. L. Nine.

BY ARCH WARD.

Every player chosen by the 500,000 fans in the nation-wide poll to take part in the game of the century at Comiskey park July 6 is included in the American league roster announced last night by President William Harridge.

When the voting started it was planned to have only 15 men on each club. This later was increased to 18, but even in the selection of the extra players the American league followed closely the vote of the fans.

"The American league in naming its team has been governed almost entirely by the expression from the fans," said Mr. Harridge. "Every club in the league is represented on the squad. There are many other star players whose ability entitles them to a place on the team, but the roster limit of 18 precludes further selections. We feel sure that the ones chosen by the fans and approved by us will give good account of themselves."

Five Pitchers Named.

Following are the players who will represent the American league:

INFIELDERS — Lou Gehrig, New York; Charles Gehringer, Detroit; Joseph Cronin, Washington; Jimmy Dykes, Chicago; Jimmy Foxx, Philadelphia; Tony Lazzeri, New York.

OUTFIELDERS—Al Simmons, Chicago; Babe Ruth, New York; Earl Averill, Cleveland; Ben Chapman, New York; Sam West, St. Louis.

CATCHERS — William Dickey, New York; Richard Ferrell, Boston.

PITCHERS—Robert Grove, Philadelphia; Vernon Gomez, New York; Wesley Ferrell, Cleveland; Oral Hildebrand, Cleveland; Alvin Crowder, Washington.

These players will report to Connie Mack at the Del Prado hotel the morning of the game. Mr. Mack will be unrestricted in the handling of his men.

Players Use Own Uniforms.

"We note the National league has made arrangements to supply its players with new gray uniforms," said Mr. Harridge. "The American league players will appear in their white home uniforms, which will bear the insignia of the individual clubs they represent. Since it is to be a contest between stars involving all of our clubs, the American league feels it will add to the attractiveness of the game for the players to wear their individual home uniforms, so that as each player comes to bat his attire will be distinctive of the club he represents."

National league club owners, at their meeting in New York last week, voted to equip their men with new gray outfits, which will be presented to the players as souvenirs after the game.

How They're Hitting.

AMERICAN.		NATIONAL.
Simmons	.367	Klein	.361
Chapman	.365	Martin	.349
Cronin	.352	Hafey	.324
West	.352	Frisch	.318
Gehrig	.336	Traynor	.308
Foxx	.333	Bartell	.305
Dickey	.316	Berger	.304
Ruth	.306	Hartnett	.294
Averill	.298	Terry	.276
Ferrell	.293	P. Waner	.275
Gehringer	.288	English	.264
Lazzeri	.279	J. Wilson	.246
Dykes	.258	Cuccinello	.232

The demand for tickets increases as the game approaches. Officials at Comiskey park who have had charge of the sale report there still are some unsold upper deck seats in the outfield stands. There have been no box seats since the opening day of the sale and all the choice grandstand tickets were disposed of the first few days.

Fans who applied early will have good locations. Orders were filled according to the date of applications.

Sure and There'll Be Irish Aplenty at Golden Gloves

Ireland's amateur boxing champions, who fight Chicago's Golden Gloves team at Soldiers' field the night of Aug. 2, will not lack support. The first day's applications for tickets were more than 90 per cent from persons with Irish names.

Frederick Doyle, 1548 Straus building.
Edward J. Conlon, 2751 W. Jackson.
Harry J. Dooley, 10 S. La Salle.
William McNamara, 155 N. Clark.
Michael Carroll, 3301 S. Damen.
Joseph H. Dillon, 7621 South Shore.
George Dolan, 6015 S. Bishop.
J. A. Kelly Jr., 350 N. Clark.

Britons Lead U. S. Golfers for Ryder Cup

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SOUTHPORT, Eng., June 26.—Great Britain's professional golfers took a lead of 2½ to 1½ over the United States today in the four two ball foursomes which opened the fifth Ryder cup matches between the two countries. Tomorrow eight 36 hole singles matches will complete the competition. All England needs is an even break to win and take a 3 to 2 advantage in the international series.

The Americans were not routed, as seemed probable at midday, only because of the excellent play of Billy Burke, National Open champion in 1931, who, until just before the United States team sailed, was denied a place on the squad. Mostly through Burke's putting, he and Ed Dudley defeated the Britons, Alfred H. Pedgham and Alf Perry, 1 up in 36 holes.

Hagen, Sarazen Get Draw.

This was the only United States victory. Walter Hagen and Gene Sarazen halved their match with Charles Whitcombe and Percy Alliss.

Today's results follow:

Abe Mitchell and Arthur Havers, Great Britain, defeated Olin Dutra and Densmore Shute, 3 and 2.

Bill Burke and Ed Dudley, United States, defeated Alfred H. Pedgham and Alf Perry, 1 up, 36 holes.

Rally to Tie at 24th.

Today Burke and Dudley, from Concordville, Pa., provided the fireworks. Rallying after being four down in the first round, they tied the match at the 24th hole. Burke was superb on the greens. At this hole he holed a niblick putt over a stymie. After the Englishmen again took the lead, Burke and Dudley rallied to win two of the last three holes.

Burke and Dudley shot the afternoon 18 holes in 69, four under par, and 12 strokes under their morning round.

The American captain, Hagen, and Sarazen, the holder of the British open title, were 3 down at lunch, and 4 down at the 26th, but finished all square on the 36th with the No. 1 British pair.

COM-ALL-YE! OR BEGORRA YE SIT BACK

Golden Gloves tickets are on sale.

Mail orders for the third annual International bouts between the amateur champions of Ireland and the Chicago Golden Gloves team at Soldiers' field Aug. 2 are now being received.

Previous experience in Golden Gloves sale has proved that the first week's sale exhausts choice ringside seats. To give out-of-town fans an opportunity to secure good seats, The Tribune has limited the first week's sale to mail orders.

Get your order in today. Prices are, ringside, $3.30, $2.50, $2, and $1.10. There are 30,000 seats at 55 cents each. All seats are reserved.

Address orders to Golden Gloves Ticket Manager, Room 530, Tribune Tower, Chicago, Ill. Money orders or checks should be made payable to the Chicago Tribune.

PITCHERS AGAIN FOLD UP; SOX LOSE TO A'S, 8-2

Wyatt Routed in Second; Heving Pounded.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The White Sox yesterday added another unhappy chapter to their own little Century of Progress Backward. They were without effective pitching, as usual, so folded up without much of a fight before Connie Mack's Philadelphians in the third of the series. The score was 8 to 2, marking the ninth defeat since the eastern teams inaugurated their current journey through the west. In between the nine losses the Pale Hose experienced intermittent revivals which enabled them to win three, two from the champion Yankees and one from their present guests.

The difficulty yesterday, aside from the Sox impotency on attack, was John Whitlow Wyatt, the ex-Tiger, who recently leaped to the heights on a one hit performance. Wyatt seemed to have just the thing needed to sharpen the Macks' batting appetites and they feasted so elaborately that he had to go out of business sooner than anticipated. His establishment went bankrupt after he had served for one and two-thirds innings. That was just long enough for the victors to pick up seven hits and five runs. What happened later to Joe Heving made no difference.

Peterson Stops Sox.

The Sox accomplished only one feat worthy of note. Tony Freitas, last year an outstanding southpaw, started and had the same appeal for the Chicagoans that Wyatt had for his patrons. Freitas was mussed up a bit in the first inning and in the second pitched himself into a full house with none out. Mack then spoiled the party before it could get started in a big way. He shoved Jim Peterson, a University of Pennsylvania product, into Freitas' place, and from that point to the finish the Sox were as helpless as caged canaries. It was Peterson's first victory of the season. He also made a hit, which was another surprise for his mates.

The large Peterson boy showed so much talent, granted it was that instead of a lack of same by the Sox, that he refused to let the latter have a close up view of third base. The first thing he did was to stop them on one run when he took charge of Freitas' full house with none out in the second. After that he allowed only five hits, scattered through as many innings.

Both Score in First.

None of these five was the work of the noted Al Simmons. He was up four times while Peterson was in charge, the first when the bags were loaded in the second. Al did nothing in this instance. In the three subsequent appearances, two with a mate on base, he did the same thing. Al didn't get the ball out of the infield all afternoon, baring his single off Freitas.

Wyatt set down McNair in the first inning before getting himself into a jam. Cramer singled to center and stole second after Johnson had fanned. Coleman walked, bringing up Foxx. He slapped a single through short to score Cramer. Madjeski struck out to end the inning. The Sox tied it up in their half, but needed three hits to do it. Haas singled with one out, Swanson flied to right and Simmons poked a single past third. Appling singled in the same direction, Haas scoring. Sullivan then slapped one on the line, but it sailed straight to McNair.

Freitas Goes to Showers.

Higgins opened the troublesome second with a single, but nothing serious happened until after the next two men were retired. Then a whole package of fireworks was exploded. McNair singled to left, scoring Higgins. Cramer did the same and McNair took third. Johnson beat out an infield hit to short, and McNair dashed home. Coleman dented the left field scoreboard with a double, Cramer and Johnson crossing the plate. Wyatt was excused without further delay. Rescuer Heving wisely slipped a pass to Foxx and then induced Madjeski to bounce into a forceout.

The Sox burned up another quantity

PROVIDING THRILLS FOR ARLINGTON FANS

The chartmakers called it a nose, but the winning margin of Rush Hour (on inside) over Bold Lover in fourth race yesterday at Arlington Park appears to be a whisker or less. Earl Steffen is up on Rush Hour and Jack Westrope, sensation of the Washington Park and Lincoln Fields meetings, is trying to lift Bold Lover's head over the finish line in front. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

All East Polo Four to Face Best in West

BY BRUCE DENNIS.

The West against the East for the polo championship of the United States!

That is the sports event which Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, member of the executive committee of the United States Polo association, clinched for Chicago yesterday after three years of work.

The matches will be played at Onwentsia Country club in Lake Forest. The dates for the first two games of the three game series were set tentatively at Aug. 9 and Aug. 13 yesterday when Maj. McLaughlin made the announcement at a press conference in the Sherman hotel.

Hitchcock to Play.

The series will provide the first chance to settle the east-west rivalry which has been smoldering among polo ists for many years. And it will bring Tommy Hitchcock, the only 10 goal player in the world, to Chicago competition for the first time in his long and brilliant career.

The east-west battles will be played primarily for sports fans, with the minor accent on society events, Maj. McLaughlin made plain.

"Chicago showed it wants polo this spring when 55,000 turned out for the nine matches of the national indoor tournament," he said. "This coming world series of polo will be offered at popular prices, and there will be 20,000 seats available. Tickets will be sold on a first come, first served basis."

Greatest Event of Year.

Chicagoland got its first taste of major league polo in 1931, when Old Aiken defeated Santa Paula, of the Argentine, in two out of three games at Onwentsia. The thrilling speed and amazing shots made fans polo conscious. Attendance began to pick up at the weekly games at Oak Brook,

In the Wake of the News

ARLINGTON PARK.

FRIEND ARCH: Well, Arch, I went out to Arlington Park for the opening day because I thought you'd want me to see how the new totalizer worked and what was going on, etc. Well, as far as I'm concerned, the new totalizer worked splendidly because it gave me back $1.20 more than I gave it. If that isn't success in these days, I don't know what is.

French Lane also said it worked very well, but even so thought on some days it might work better. In my case it would have worked better if Bold Lover had won that decision over Rush Hour. French may try to tell you I was one of those down there hissing the judges, but he's mistaken and it's not so. In the first place I don't hiss judges, and in the second place I thought the decision was all right even if my ticket was on Bold Lover.

You see, I figure this kid, J. Westrope, who was on Bold Lover, is a great rider and wins more than his share of races. But if it comes down to a nose finish I don't expect him to get the verdict. Perhaps he isn't strong enough. Anyway, if you look back through the charts you'll find he takes only a fraction of his close finishes, but wins so many other times it more than averages. Some way the horses seem to run kindly for him.

Of course, there were many who thought the totalizer a total failure because they bought tickets and didn't get anything back. But that often happens anywhere. However, let me tell you more about the machine itself.

It shows the amount of money bet. The payoff was remarkably close to the final approximate odds. It was entirely satisfactory in that respect. It is far superior to the approximate odds board at Hialeah Park in Florida where there is a sort of thermometer arrangement to show the approximate odds and one gets all heated up trying to find the particular thermometer applying to his horse.

I spent much of my time watching this new totalizer. Here is what I noted: When the announcement is made "ten minutes until post time," the money wagered up to that time is only slightly more than ten per cent of the total amount wagered. Even as the horses leave the paddock for the post the wagers are only about 50 per cent of the final total. That shows how fast the totalizer must work in those last ten minutes to record so accurately all the bets.

Of course, you understand there are separate boards for the place and show pools. I never stopped to consider before that more money is wagered for place and show than straight.

That shows conservatism, doesn't it? And bettors are supposed to be reckless. In every race the combined place and show pools, kept separate of course, exceeded the amount bet to win. The winning pool varied from about 40 per cent of the total bets

A. A. U. Track Carnival Will Open Thursday

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Chicago's outdoor track and field season will end with a three day performance this week at Soldiers' field in which the men and women stars of the nation will compete. The National collegiate meet just concluded gave Chicagoans and visitors to A Century of Progress a view of the best university runners and jumpers. These now will compete with representatives of amateur clubs from coast to coast.

The National A. A. U. meet will follow the Olympic classification of races, all distances being measured in meters. The schedule follows:

Thursday afternoon, 2 p. m.—National A. A. U. junior track and field championship meet. [A junior athlete is one who never has taken a first place in a National A. A. meet, eastern intercollegiates, National collegiates, nor has been a member of an Olympic team.]

Friday afternoon, 2 p. m.—National A. A. U. women's track and field championship meet.

Saturday morning, 10 a. m.—Five events of national decathlon.

Saturday afternoon, 2 p. m.—Five events of national decathlon; National A. A. U. gymnastic meet; National A. A. U. relay meet.

Friday Is the Big Day.

The three day carnival centers around the American championships on Friday night. There is no doubt that the competition will result in several world records and that no meet, not even the Olympic games, will exceed it in calibre of performance. It remains to be seen, however, whether Chicago will respond to the attraction.

Avery Brundage, president of the National A. A. U., and the committee in charge of the national meet are hopeful that attendance records will be broken Friday. The meet was underwritten for several thousand dollars and it is estimated that a paid attendance of 8,000 is necessary to wipe out this sum.

All afternoon sessions are priced at

New Totalizer Meets Every Test.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The story of a fashionable horse which suddenly became a very bad acting horse, and which reformed just as suddenly and became a great horse again is the story of Indian Runner, the Maryland steed that thrilled 16,000 spectators when he won the Inaugural handicap at the brilliant opening of the Arlington Park Jockey club season yesterday.

Charging from behind in the stretch as he squeezed through one narrow opening after another in the closely clustered field of 20, he came with a mighty drive in the last sixteenth of a mile to win by a length and a half. Okapi, from the Brookmeade stable in New York, was second, a half a length in front of No More, owned by C. E. Davidson of Chicago. In fourth place came Pairbypair, from Mrs. John Hertz's stable.

Gallant Sir Scratched.

So in the first great test between the east and the west at Arlington Park the horses from along the Atlantic seaboard had considerable the best of it.

It might have been different if our western champion, Gallant Sir, had stepped up to the post and run it out with the invaders. Instead, Gallant Sir remained in his stall. Contrary to expectations he did not scare his rivals out of the race, but was frightened out of it himself.

When it became certain 30 minutes before post time that the field would be so large that it would be impossible to start the race from the stall gates and that the getaway would come from the old-fashioned barrier, Owner Norman W. Church and Trainer Woody Fitzgerald were afraid their great horse might be injured in the tangle at the post. So they withdrew him from the race.

15 Have Chance in Stretch.

With Gallant Sir out of it and 20 great speedsters from all parts of the country—the largest starting field in Arlington's history—left in the struggle, the Inaugural became a wild betting affair and the running of it was just as wild. At the head of the stretch it was such a mêlée it seemed that any one of 12 or 15 horses might win.

With a blistering sun beating down, the crowd was a surprise event to the optimistic heads of the Arlington Jockey club. It developed into a heavy wagering gathering as soon as the customers became familiar with the new totalizer betting machine. The handle was $251,033.

Totalizer Works Perfectly.

The totalizer, the first ever introduced at a track in Chicago and the first all electric machine ever used in the world, attracted almost as much attention as did the star horses which were running. It worked to perfection, registering the wagers and displaying accurate odds as the betting progressed. It took the public into confidence on everything that was going on in the betting, and the public liked it, for the size of the mutuel pools grew larger as the later races came along.

It was one of the most representative turf crowds of the year in Chicago, and the finishes, for the most part, were so thrilling the fans were up cheering all afternoon. It was the first racing of the year on Chicago's north side, and persons from all along the north shore from the loop to Milwaukee mingled on the red hot lawns and in the stands and clubhouse with the race track regulars and hundreds of World's Fair visitors.

The favorites were clicking until Cee Tee, a Kentucky colt, came along to win the seventh race and pay $29.40 in the mutuels.

Indian Runner Favorite.

Indian Runner ruled as the favorite in the Inaugural. His chances did not look so rosy when he was away 12th in the big field behind a lot of horses that often have run just as fast as he can. These leaders were Pairbypair, Okapi, No More, Advising Anna, and Tred Avon, among others.

Down the backstretch they flew, with all the horses in the thick of the fight with the exception of Osculator, who was away so slowly that he might just as well have been left at the post. On the turn No More moved past Pairbypair. Indian Runner, skimming the rail, made his move and his run for victory as they wheeled around the last bend and headed into the stretch.

Winner Pays $9.84.

Okapi was leading Indian Runner by a head at the eighth pole. Then Jockey Tipton started driving the reformed horse. He pulled away from his rivals in the last couple of dozen strides. Pairbypair and No More had run themselves out fighting for the lead, and they were both dropping back rapidly as it ended.

Indian Runner's time was 1:23 4-5. It did not approach the record of 1:22 3-5.

A Maryland horse also scored a spectacular victory in the Northbrook purse, which engaged eight candidates for the Arlington Classic. Rush Hour was the victor in the closest nose finish imaginable from Col. Edward Bradley's Bold Lover. W. R. Coe's Pomposity was third. The finish was so close many in the crowd expected the judges to declare it a dead heat. Rush Hour had been stoutly backed by the eastern crowd and paid $4.36.

JUNE BEEBE'S 79 WINS MEDAL IN WESTERN OPEN

reaks Course Record at Olympia Fields.

What looked to be an inauspicious start by Miss June Beebe at Olympia Fields in the qualifying round of the women's western open golf meet yesterday turned out to be a new record of 39—40—79 for No. 4 course and gave her medalist honors.

One under the former record of 80 and one over par, 39—39—78, Miss Beebe led a field of 100 entrants by eight strokes. Mrs. Lillian Kessler Zech of Tam o'Shanter, was second with 44—43—87, while Mrs. Melvin Jones, Lincolnshire champion, and Miss Dorothy Foster of Springfield, Ill., tied at 88.

Nearly all of the low rated players qualified in the championship flight, but a play-off loomed among those above 94 until Mrs. David Norton of Glen View, one of the last starters, came in with 46—46—92. Mrs. Norton is the former Miss Virginia Vilas.

Heat Handicaps Players.

The heat was terrific and took its toll of wasted strokes as the contestants passed through valley or dense tree-lined fairways where there wasn't a breath of air. Mrs. Norman Anderson, a sister of Miss Beebe, and Miss Marge Roesslein withdrew.

Miss Beebe's card:

Par—Out	555	443	535—39
In	545	355	345—39—78
Out	733	533	445—39
In	445	355	545—40—79

Playing with Miss Beebe, Miss Jean Armstrong of Indian Hill was unable to get rid of a persistent hook. As a result, her 44-45-89, was several strokes beyond her regular game.

Miss Weiller will start defense of her title today against Mrs. John W. Taylor of Evanston in the first match round. Miss Beebe heads the lower half of the championship bracket and will play Mrs. Lee W. Mida of Butterfield, who defeated June in the final of the inaugural four years ago at Acacia.

Pairings for the four flights for the first round of match play follow:

CHAMPIONSHIP FLIGHT.

9:10 A. M.—Mrs. Melvin Jones, Lincolnshire [88], and Mrs. Connell Clifford, Edgewood Valley [92].

9:15 A. M.—Mrs. Robert I. Bullard, Springfield [97], and Florence McCoy, Lincolnshire [94].

Winfield Day Wins Junior Golf with 145

Chicago's future golf champions had their day at the Evanston golf club where forty youngsters competed yesterday in the annual junior medal event of the Chicago District Golf association. Winfield Day of Elmhurst, one of the district's budding stars, triumphed over his youthful rivals by shooting sparkling rounds of 73—72—145. Second place went to Ed Schildberg of North Shore, Chicago district junior champion, whose score was 75—73—148.

The field was divided into two classes, those over 18 years of age and those under 18. The winner in the latter division was Ken Heileman of Westmoreland, who shot 74—77—151. Second place went to John Thissell of Medinah with 81—75—156. The scores:

Win Day, Elmhurst	73	72	145

Megeff Leads Tri-State Open Field with 144

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Cooper, Hutchison Tie.

Pursuing Prof. Megeff into today's 36 hole finals were two of the deans of the game, both of whom will serve as judges in the final form contest of THE TRIBUNE school at Mid City July 5. They were Harry Cooper of Glen Oak, Illinois' new professional champion, still very much in stride after his victory over Tommy Armour at Medinah on Sunday, and Jock Hutchison, Glen View's veteran. Both went over the dunes course at Beverly Shores in 145, Cooper breaking par with a 70 in the morning and returning in the afternoon with a less handsome 75, while Hutchison was out in 73 and back in 72.

Ellsworth Hopkins of Maywood furnished the best performance of the day, a 69, two under par, in the morning. He slipped back to 77 in the matinée turn for 146 and third place. Bill Heinlein, the Indianapolis youth who munches a cigar constantly after the manner of Bill Burke, produced 70—78—148 and a putting stance which defies description. He stands directly over the ball and lists to port as he strokes it. However unorthodox it may be, it works as Bill demonstrated yesterday.

Four Card 149's.

The morning cards for Hopkins, Cooper, Heinlein, and Megeff follow:

Par—Out	444	445	434—36
Par—In	345	344	345—35—71
Hopkins—Out	434	434	434—33

JOHNNY BANKS OF NOTRE DAME TIES IN GOLF

Williamsville, N. Y., June 26.—[Special.]—Johnny Banks of Notre Dame, Don Nittinger of Southern California, Sidney Noyes of Yale, and Hank Kowal of Colgate, tied for medal honors at the end of the first 18 holes of the 36 hole qualifying round in the intercollegiate golf championship tournament today. Each shot a 73, one over par.

Yale, the defending team champion, led with a four man total of 304. The University of Texas was second in the team standings with 313; Michigan and Notre Dame tied for third with 316 each, while Dartmouth, with 321, Georgia Tech, with 322, and Princeton, with 324, finished in that order.

Michigan took third place by combining the best scores of its six man squad. The four scores taken were those of Johnny Fischer, the individual defending champion, who carded a 78; Markham with 78, Davis, with 80, and Dayton, 80. Fischer had difficulty from the start of his round and three putted several times.

Michigan's scores:

Notre Dame's scores:

Johnny Banks, 36—37—73; Robert Donahue, 43—46—89; John Montedonico, 40—43—83; William Cole, 43—37—80; William H. Vreneman, 41—43—84.

Dawson Turns in a 72 in Trans-Mississippi Golf

Colorado Springs, Colo., June 26.—[Special.]—Johnny Dawson of Chicago shot a 72 in the first round of qualifying play for the Trans-Mississippi men's golf championship on the Broadmoor course today. The medalist honors went to L. B. Maytag of Newton, Ia., and Fred Dold of Wichita, Kas., who turned in cards of 68.

Time, :23 1-5, :47 3-5, 1:00, 1:06 3-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Essie Wessie, $8.80 straight, $4.68 place, $3.60 show; Dawn Child, $6.80 place, $4.90 show; Durga, $4.40 show. Winner trained by I. Weil. Won driving. Off at 2:22½. At post 1 minute. Start good from gate. Won easily; second and third driving.

ESSIE WESSIE, away last, but slightly outrun, saved much ground when gradually improving her position at stretch turn, came through on inside of DAWN CHILD with a rush, and won drawing out, but had little to spare. DAWN CHILD with restrained for three-eighths, took command easily and but for bearing out badly, almost bolting in final sixteenth, would have won. DURGA closed well in a good effort. YTFIN rallied weakly when entering stretch, then faltered.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Went to post at 2:58½. At post ½ minute. Start good from gate. Won driving. Easily second and third same.

ET CETERA worked his way to the front on outside, drew out rapidly at the turn, weakened badly after five-eighths, and won under pressure. LOUIE DEAR, a strong factor from the start, stepped out of SONG HIT in final eighth and, holding on well, withstood FORTMANTEAU'S rush. Later, far back from the start, closed with a rush on outside and was rapidly wearing down the leaders in closing strides.

Irvine. Went to post at 5:22½. At post ¾ minute. Start good from gate. Won driving; second and third same.

SPRINGSTEEL, going in his best form and well to the front on inside, drew clear easily when permitted to do so, Boldine, closing fast to the front on inside, drew clear early, was restrained for three-eighths and, stalled off DYAK, the latter had speed from getting to winner in closing stages. INLANDER, dropped far out of it, saved much ground at the turn and went evenly in the drive.

SEVENTH RACE—Hertz course, one mile and one-quarter miles. Purse $900. Net value to winner, $675; second, $125; third, $75; fourth, $25.

Van Dusen. Went to post at 5:50. At post 4½ minutes. Start good from gate. Won driving; second and third same.

CEE TEE, slow to get going and to the front on inside, drew clear in final eighth, disposed of leaders to win drawing out. ROYAL BLUNDER followed the pacemaker under steady restraint, gained a short lead under strong urging, and weakened near end. MADWIND, in third position on outside three-eighths and, coming with a rush for three-quarters, began to improve his position at stretch turn, but could not withstand the pressure, but held on stubbornly. POMPOSITY had no mishap, weakened, but outstayed CHARLEY O. for place.

Winner trained by W. Irvine. Went to post at 5:22½. At post 1 minute. Start good from gate. Won driving; second and third same.

TWISTED THREADS, kept well up from the start, but slow to respond to pressure, came up fast when straightened out for the drive, took command from leaders, was ready to draw out. KING FIN had speed to the front on inside, drew clear turn, briefly gave way when SCANDAL SHEET, last and wearing down the outgamed SCANDAL SHEET and could not withstand winner, but getting to front under strong riding.

RUSH HOUR reached the lead on inside at the start and, on the inside, was never headed in the pace-making three furlongs, entered the home stretch under restraint in final turn and, after bearing out badly at stretch turn, he again responded to the pace, was forced very wide by winner at stretch turn and appeared to suffer again when winner was sweeping under pressure, but held on stubbornly. CUBS PLAY HALF INNING, GET A HIT, THEN IT RAINS

Malone to Pitch Against Phillies Today.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., June 26. — The Cubs played one half inning of baseball today and got shut out. Then came the rain, so the half inning, the goose egg and a hit by Bill Herman didn't mean a thing insofar as the records are concerned.

The fact that an attempt was made to play the game should be set down in baseball history, in view of past occurrences in Philadelphia. Scheduled single games between the Cubs and the Phillies many, many times in the past have been postponed with a small fraction of the provocation today's weather afforded. The Philly management frankly explained that the Phillies never expect to find the Cubs softer than they now are. And the Phillies had a winning streak going that reached seven stright up till the second game against the Cardinals Saturday afternoon.

Play Off Game Aug. 23.

The game postponed today will be played off as a part of a double header in the series which opens here on Aug. 23. A single game will be played tomorrow and the following day one of the few week day double headers arranged by the winter schedule framers will be run off.

Austin Moore, who pitched the first and only inning today, is expected to come back tomorrow and the same may be said of Pat Malone, who warmed up today but was not called upon to do any pitching.

Sure, They Have a Tarpaulin.

The fact that observers got inside Baker bowl with clouds in the sky cleared up an ancient Chicago misunderstanding. For years it has been reported that the Philly management was set against having a tarpaulin, this in the interest of calling off single games because of dew on the infield grass.

It was revealed today that the Phillies have a tarpaulin—in fact many tarpaulins, because the field covering is in nine installments. The several pieces, it is said, were derived from the tent of a stranded hoochie koochie show, the awning of a defunct jigsaw puzzle shop, and the coverings of five assorted banana carts. This, however, is not set down as criticism for the big silk affairs in the dude parks and in football stadia of our more opulent universities.

May Buy Coast Players.

It was revealed after the washout that Cub scouts are concentrating on two Pacific Coast league first basemen, Adolfo Camilli of the leading Sacramento Senators, and Ellsworth Dahlgren of the San Francisco Missions.

According to reports just made to President William L. Veeck and Manager Charley Grimm, Dahlgren has shown great fielding ability, though his hitting is not apace with that of the older Camilli.

of energy in the home second, but picked up only one run, leaving them in arrears by 5 to 2. Dykes started it with a single to center and raced to third on Grube's single to right. A walk to Heving filled the bags with none out. The walk also led Freitas to the exit. Peterson experienced no difficulty cleaning up the situation. Rhyne popped foul to Foxx. Haas bounced to Williams to force Heving, and Dykes scored. Then Swanson walked, loading the bags for the second time, but Simmons poked into a force play.

Heving kept things in order until the sixth, when an extra base knock added one run to the Macks' total. McNair hammered a triple to right center and scored on Cramer's fly to Haas. A little more hitting hung up two more runs in the seventh. After Foxx had been tossed out by Appling, Madjeski scratched a single to short and traveled to the plate when Higgins bounced a triple past Swanson. Higgins counted on Williams' single.

Bill Jurges to Marry Reading, Pa., Girl Today

Philadelphia, Pa., June 26.—[Special.]—Bill Jurges, Chicago Cubs' shortstop, and Miss Mary Huyette of Reading, Pa., will be married tomorrow. Jurges made the announcement this afternoon. All members of the Chicago squad are expected to attend.

Senators Win 8 in Row; Beat Indians, 4 to 3

The victory was the Senators' fifteenth in their last sixteen starts and their eighth in succession—a new high mark for the season in the American league. It also increased Washington's lead to two full games over the Yankees, who were rained out at Detroit. Score:

BUILD FOUNTAIN IN MEMORY OF WILLIAM WRIGLEY

An imposing memorial to the late William Wrigley Jr. is being constructed at Wrigley field during the present road trip of the Cubs.

The memorial is a bronze, marble, and granite drinking fountain, designed by Zack Davis of Chicago. It is being built just inside the main entrance of Wrigley field and will be completed when the Cubs resume home operations on July 4. The memorial is nine feet high and bears a bronze tablet carrying a tribute to the late owner of the Cubs.

"We decided on a practical memorial to Mr. Wrigley in our accordance with our understanding of his belief that usefulness was essential to the value of all things," William Veeck, president of the Cubs, said in Philadelphia yesterday.

Miller to Face Cain on Mound for Sox Today

Walter Miller will employ his left handed skill this afternoon in the fourth of the series with the Athletics, Connie Mack is expected to start Merritt [Sugar] Cain against the Sox.

Paul Gregory's one inning of relief work was slightly different from the innings he has pitched recently as a starter. He set down three batters in a row on infield bounders in the ninth.

Tom Shibe, president of the A's, accompanied by Mrs. Shibe, is making the western tour with his team.

Jack Hayes was given a rest from second base work yesterday. The vacation may be extended for a few more days. The young man has shown signs of weariness, and Manager Fonseca figured a few off days might be helpful. Until yesterday Hayes had missed only one inning all season. The reason he missed that was that Umpire Ormsby chased him out of a game.

Johnson went to sleep in the eighth inning and gave the Sox a chance to show him up with a double play. He was on first with one out when Coleman popped foul to Sullivan. Johnson didn't bother about the fly being foul. He ran just the same. Rhyne scooted over to first base and took the throw from Sullivan to complete the double play.

CANOE SCOUTS LEAVE FOR CRUISE

SCOUTS SET UP FIRST CAMP ON TRIBUNE CRUISE

BY BOB BECKER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Yorkville, Ill., June 26.—The Chicago Boy Scouts who are paddling down the Fox river on the annual TRIBUNE canoe cruise are tenting tonight. The brown canvas of pup tents instead of shingles is over their heads and there is the fragrant odor of smoke from an oak and maple fire and the smell of coffee and a browned pot roast in the big grove of trees where the expedition is camping for the first night of the 1933 cruise.

It was about five o'clock when the fleet of 11 yellow canoes carrying the 19 Chicago scouts and cruise leaders swung into the bank at the Sidney Whitely farm a short distance above Yorkville to make camp.

Everybody Takes a Dip.

As soon as the canoes had been docked Scout Master Ziehm placed a 20 minute swim for everybody first on the evening program. So the scouts churned up the river in fine style as they cooled off before dinner. Then the boys gave a fine demonstration of how to get camp chores done quickly and efficiently.

First came the choice of a site for each pup tent. This brought on a scurrying through the grove as buddies who are to bunk together tried to find ground that was level, well drained, and free of rocks and hummocks. After the site was picked the boys erected their little pup tents, spread out blankets, and made their beds.

They're Buddies, Now.

Paddling canoes together and bunking together on the trip down stream are the following pairs of buddies: Scouts Cottrell and Roesch, Speck and Ragan, Rosenberg and Griffin, Schenk and Hillier, Walston and Sasser, Kohn and Meade, Hough and Lutein, Bock and Marsh, and Himel and Casey.

The canoe cruisers found none too much water in the Fox today. On several occasions such shallow stretches were encountered that it was necessary for the boys to get out and walk a few yards.

Meet the Official Bugler!

The boys finished their first day on the Fox with a big camp fire party. Victor Hough appeared with a cornet and immediately was elected bugler for the expedition. Three harmonicas were extracted from duffel bags to furnish music for the singing. Not all of them were in the same key, but that made no difference to the enthusiastic musicians. After a 30 minute story telling session the boys crawled under their mosquito nettings for a good sleep in preparation for a ball game which is scheduled for the morning.

The Aurora scout camp near Montgomery challenged THE TRIBUNE party to a game before the canoeists left Aurora. It will be played on the school diamond at Yorkville. Following this game the canoe cruisers will visit the state game farm at the invitation of Lloyd Johnson, manager, and then will paddle down stream to make camp above the Plano bridge tomorrow night.

Track Stars Open National A.A.U. Title Meet Thursday

55 cents. Tickets for the meet Friday night range from 55 cents to $2.20. Children under 15 will be admitted for five cents at any meet. Tickets admit to Soldiers' field only. Visitors to A Century of Progress may secure passout tickets if they wish to attend the track meet, as Soldiers' field no longer is within the Fair grounds.

Watch the 100 Meters!

Every race will be a feature, but none will greater than the 100 meter dash duel between Ralph Metcalfe of Marquette university, National collegiate champion, and Jesse Owens of East Tech High, Cleveland, O., national interscholastic champion. Owens will run for the Cleveland Athletic club.

Both equaled the world record of 9 4-10 seconds for the 100 yards in the national meet. Metcalfe has been timed in 10 2-10 seconds in the 100 meter dash. He set this mark in the American Olympic semi-finals at Stagg field last year and he was credited with 10 3-10 seconds in the Olympic dash final, the same time as Eddie Tolan, who won the race by a matter of inches from Metcalfe. The two sprinters finished so closely together that they received the same time marks.

Glenn Hardin, star of the Louisiana State university team which won the N. C. A. A. championship, will compete in the 400 meter race, which corresponds to the quarter mile. Ivan Fuqua, who lost to Hardin by less than a yard in the N. C. A. A. 440, will be back for another chance as will Karl Warner of Yale, who will run for the New York Athletic club.

In the 800 meters Charles Hornbostel probably will battle Glenn Cunningham of Kansas. Cunningham, of course, is the outstanding favorite in the 1,500 meters, and his greatest rival will be Gene Venzke. Cunningham holds two victories to one defeat over Venzke in the indoor campaign.

It is freely predicted that world records will be set in every running event from 100 meters to 1,500 meters.

Irish Weight Star on List.

Dr. Patrick O'Callaghan of Ireland, Olympic winner in the hammer throw last year, will arrive this morning from New York. He will compete in his specialty against the American stars.

The women's meet Friday afternoon should be spectacular. In the 50 meter dash Wilhelmina Von Bremen, who was a member of the United States relay team that broke the world's record, will represent the Western Women's club. She will run against Clara Herman of the New York German-American Athletic club, Mildred Monju of New Orleans, Mildred Schworm of St. Louis, and other stars.

Evelyn Hall of Chicago, co-holder of the world record for the 80 meter hurdles, is favored in this event. She will compete for the Illinois Women's Athletic club, which hopes to gain the team championship. She also will compete in the relay and broad jump. Annette Rogers, who ran on the record breaking relay team, is another Chicago girl who is expected to win individual championships.

All East Polo Four to Face Best in West

Onwentsia and Fort Sheridan. Now Chicago's a polo town.

Maj. McLaughlin's efforts to promote the polo series were crowned yesterday with receipt of a telegram from Louis E. Stoddard, president of the United States Polo association. The message authorized Maj. McLaughlin to go ahead with plans for the games and said "this is the greatest polo event of the year, and Chicago is the best place in which to hold it."

Mr. Stoddard will be in Chicago tomorrow to confer with Maj. McLaughlin over the details of the series.

Hitchcock will select the eastern team and will play on it. There are a dozen or more high goal players who will battle for places on the team. Among them are Winston Guest of Roslyn, Long Island, star of the national indoor tournament, who is rated at 8 goals; and Earl A. S. Hopping of New York, another 8 goal star.

Michael Phipps of Waterbury, L. I., and William Post II. of Fort Willis-ton, L. I., are 7 goal players. Seymour Knox of Buffalo carries a rating of 6 goals.

The Western team will be picked by Carleton F. Burke, chairman of the California district of the United States Polo association.

Smith Sure to Appear.

One player certain to be a member of the western team is Cecil Smith of San Antonio, Tex., who is rated at 9 goals and is believed by many polo experts to be the equal of Hitchcock. Then there is Eric Pedley of Los Angeles, 8 goals, and Elmer Boeseke of Santa Barbara, Cal., 8 goals.

According to Maj. McLaughlin and Herbert Lorber, of North Shore, who attended the conference yesterday, H. W. [Rube] Williams of San Antonio cannot be overlooked. The only trouble about Williams, a 7 goal player, is that he may not be all in one piece by August. He is polo's wildest rider.

Aidan Roark, one of Ireland's stars, who now resides at Carmen, Cal., will be eligible for the Western team. His handicap is 7 goals. Then there are Lindsey Howard of San Francisco and Maj. C. C. [Square] Smith of Chicago, who are rated at 6.

VINES WINS IN STRAIGHT SETS AT WIMBLEDON

Sutter Defeats Japanese Star, E. Itoh.

WIMBLEDON, England, June 26.—(AP)—Paced by the national champion, H. Ellsworth Vines Jr., the American delegation in the British tennis tournament today moved through the first round of men's singles with ranks practically unbroken as two weeks of play began on the Wimbledon courts.

Vines defeated G. R. D. Meredith, 6-1, 6-2, 6-0. Cliff Sutter and Lester Stoefen scored only slightly less impressive victories on the famed center court against better rated opposition.

Sutter, paired against the Japanese Davis cup spare, E. Itoh, rushed through to a 6-2, 3-6, 6-1 victory. Stoefen needed four sets to defeat E. R. Avory, seventh ranking English player, 2-6, 10-8, 6-4, 8-6.

Burwell, Jones Win.

The other member of the American big four, Keith Gledhill, did not play, his first round opponent, Franz Matezka of Austria, defaulting.

Two former American college stars now attending Oxford and Cambridge, respectively, Clayton Lee Burwell, formerly of Sewanee and David Jones, formerly of Columbia, also scored easy first round victories as did W. L. Breese, former Harvard player.

Burwell defeated the veteran German, Hans Kleinschroth, 6-0, 6-1, 6-2, while Jones beat the British veteran, J. D. P. Wheatley, 6-4, 6-2, 3-6, 6-3. Breese won from H. K. Lester, veteran British star, 3-6, 8-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Mrs. Moody Plays Today.

Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, defending the women's title, did not get into action, but she will start tomorrow. She is scheduled for the center court with Mrs. MacReady, veteran English player.

Sutter is bracketed with the left-handed Frenchman, Christian Boussus in the second round.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 26.—Sharp price rises in speculative railroad issues featured the bond market today. With speculative sentiment quickened by favorable May earnings reports and expanding traffic, gains extended up to 4 points in some of the popular low priced issues. Demand appeared greatest for bonds of grain carrying railroads of the northwest.

Prominent in the advance were bonds of the Chicago and North Western railroad. That line's convertible 4½s, due 1949, rose about 5 points in heavy trading. Issues of Baltimore and Ohio, Allegheny corporation, Southern Pacific, and Southern Railway sprurted sharply.

Substantial gains were noted among industrial issues as the administration's national recovery program gathered momentum. Features were Colon Oil 6s, Otis Steel 6s, United States Rubber 5s, and Warren Bros. 6s.

Sharp advances in commodity prices today furnished another important factor behind buying.

Pacific States Life Insurance.

Investors' Guide: Please obtain for me information on Pacific States Life Insurance company.—Miss O. I. M.

Answer: Pacific States Life Insurance company of Denver and Hollywood was incorporated in 1920 as Mountain States Life Insurance company. It is controlled by Insurance Finance corporation of Hollywood.

Income in 1932, including $131,000 from sale of capital stock, amounted to $2,077,000, and disbursements were $1,953,000.

Net life reserve at the close of the year totaled $5,493,000. Other liabilities, including $186,000 borrowed money, aggregated $2,646,000.

Admitted assets amounted to $8,522,000. Real estate of $1,801,000 was 21 per cent of assets and compared with $1,292,000 the year before. Mortgages of $2,481,000 constituted 29 per cent of assets and compared with $2,220,000 on Dec. 31, 1931. Policy loans were $1,748,000, 21 per cent of assets; bonds were $234,000 or 3 per cent of assets [amortized values]; and cash was $91,000 or one per cent of assets.

The real estate item, which is rather large, includes the home office building, which is carried at $425,000. In 1932 the company earned a return of 4 per cent on its real estate.

Insurance in force at the close of 1932 of $46,575,000 was well in excess of $38,410,000 reported on Dec. 31, 1931. This was due in large part to reinsurance of Chicago National Life in June, 1932, which brought $14,500,000 new business to the firm.

Northwestern Light and Power.

Investors' Guide: Please give me a report on Northwestern Light and Power 6s, due 1950.—Mrs. B. F.

Answer: Northwestern Light and Power is a holding company whose subsidiaries furnish gas and electricity to 42 communities in northwestern Iowa.

Gross revenues for 1932 totaled $421,000, against $487,000 in 1931, $484,000 in 1930, and $451,000 for 1929. The company covered interest charges 2.07 times in 1932, 2.28 times in 1931, 2.25 times in 1930, and 3.53 times in 1929. At the close of 1932 current assets were $164,000 and current liabilities were $76,000.

The $1,364,000 first 6s, due 1950, are secured by a first lien on all properties subject to a $38,500 minor assumed obligation.

Petroleum Corporation Warrants.

Investors' Guide: Will you please let me know what value warrants of Petroleum Corporation of America have for acquiring the stock?—B. T.

Answer: Petroleum corporation of America warrants entitle the holders to purchase capital stock at $34 a share until Feb. 1, 1934.

RAILS REPORT DEFINITE TURN INTO PROFITS

42 Roads Show 167% Gain in May.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Carloadings and revenues of the nation's railroads continue to expand as business and industry improve. Forty-two roads which have reported their May results show net operating income two and a half times as large as in the same month last year. The Milwaukee road, one of the latest to report, had the largest May income since 1929.

The May total of the 42 roads was $24 940,000 compared with a net railway operating income of $9,335,000 in 1932—an increase of 167 per cent.

For the first five months of this year the total was about $56,124,000 against $60,340,000 in the like period of 1932, a decline of 6.9 per cent. The May figures indicate the large amount of ground regained by the roads as a result of the recent marked increase in business. Only three of the 42 reporting roads had deficits in May compared with 15 a year ago.

Turns Deficit Into Profit.

The Milwaukee road for May reported net operating income of $1,454,881 compared with a deficit of $1,248,602 in May, 1932—an increase of $2,703,483 from last year. Gross revenues for May, 1933, totaled $7,564,422, compared with $6,485,085 last year. Net operating income for the first five months was $1,086,554, compared with a deficit of $1,458,800 for the like period in 1932.

The Rock Island was another road to report a sharp increase. Its May net operating income was $616,576, compared with $116,741 for May, 1932—an increase of $499,835, or 428 per cent. The May increase over April, 1933, was $343,011, or 125 per cent. Operating revenues for May, 1933, totaled $5,458,389, compared with $5,786,937 for May, 1932.

Great Western Shows Profit.

The Chicago Great Western reported a profit of $25,822 for May—the first income after bond interest and other charges since October last year. In May, 1932, the road sustained a loss of $98,739. Net operating income totaled $175,889, compared with $47,384 last year.

The Wabash May net operating income was $311,389 compared with $70,258 for May last year. Total operating revenues for May were $3,171,839, compared with $3,244,228 for the same month last year.

The Missouri Pacific reported net operating income of $678,907 for May, compared with $271,973 in the like month last year. Gross amounted to $5,845,329, compared with $5,503,772 last year.

Other Roads' Reports.

Other roads to report on May net operating income compared with the like month last year were the following:

	1933	1932

*Deficit.

Carloadings Continue Rise.

For the third successive week the North Western reports a 1933 carloading record as broken. For the week ending June 24 the road reported loadings of 22,965 cars—480 more than were loaded in the preceding week, the year's high to that time. The number of cars loaded in the like week of 1932 was 19,717. Grain loadings continue to lead.

The Milwaukee road loaded 24,747 cars compared with 20,093 in the like week of 1932. The Santa Fe system's loadings for the week of June 24 totaled 24,275 cars compared with 24,297 in the like week of 1932.

The Chesapeake and Ohio handled 23,855 cars in the week of June 24 compared with 21,581 cars in 1932.

Middle west shippers expect traffic in this region during July, August and September to be 5 per cent over the 1932 period. Southeast shippers expect an increase of 7.3 per cent over the third quarter of 1932.

ILLINOIS SEEKS LESS AID FROM U. S. DURING MAY

Washington, D. C., June 26.—(AP)—Illinois borrowings from the Reconstruction Finance corporation have dwindled to a mere echo of the sums which formerly were advanced by the federal government.

Loans to institutions in that state during May were almost negligible in comparison with those made during the winter months. As reported to the house of representatives, there are:

W. G. Donne Illinois Home Loans Chief

BY AL CHASE.

William G. Donne, a Chicago banker, today will be appointed Illinois manager for the new Federal Home Owners' Loan corporation. His appointment will be made by the Federal Home Loan Bank board of directors at Washington, D. C., and follows a recommendation wired William F. Stevenson, chairman of that group, by Senator William H. Dieterich of Beardstown, Ill., and Senator James Hamilton Lewis of Chicago.

WM. G. DONNE. [Wallinger Photo.]

Mr. Donne, who lives at 8130 Evans avenue, and who is head of the new business department of the Chicago City Bank and Trust company, said last night that the Illinois headquarters will be functioning within a week after his appointment.

This state's share of the $2,000,000,000 federal fund for distressed home owners and mortgage holders will be distributed from a Chicago office to be opened within a few days. The Evanston Home Loan bank quarters will not be used.

Standard form applications have been printed at Washington and will be rushed to Chicago in time for use as soon as the doors open.

Appointment is Surprise.

Mr. Donne's selection came as a surprise to several groups and individuals who had been passing resolutions endorsing favorite sons for this federal appointment. The Chicago Mortgage Bankers' association, representing leading mortgage firms, held what was termed "an emergency meeting" on Saturday and unanimously voted to wire Washington recommending Albert F. Hamman, of the Hamman Mortgage company, Chicago, for the office.

Mr. Donne said he was recommended to Senators Dieterich and Lewis by Patrick Nash, chairman of the Democratic county committee and also national committeeman from Illinois, by Frank C. Rathje, president of the Chicago City Bank and Trust company, by Melvin Traylor, president of the First National bank, and others.

Praises Home Loan Act.

"The Home Owners' Loan Act is one of the most outstanding pieces of legislation ever enacted at Washington," said Mr. Donne. "I've been in the banking and real estate mortgage business for the last fifteen years and I've been much impressed with the possibilities of this new corporation.

"I've seen the suffering occasioned by the inability of the home owner to pay his mortgage principal. The mortgagee has to eat and he can't eat the paper. The present situation explains why real estate mortgages are so unpopular."

Mr. Donne was born in Illinois thirty-eight years ago. He has been active in Englewood business and civic affairs for several years.

U. S. GIVES RULES FOR PAYMENT OF DIVIDEND TAXES

Washington, D. C., June 28.—[Special.]—Corporations will not have to file returns under the new tax on dividends and will not have to make payments until July 31, Guy T. Helvering, commissioner of internal revenue, announced today. The government will collect the dividend tax at the end of the month following that in which the dividend is declared. The 5 per cent levy on dividends declared in June, for instance, must be sent in to collectors of internal revenue by July 31.

Forms on which the new tax returns are to be made by corporations are being prepared by the bureau of internal revenue, according to the commissioner. Collectors of internal revenue will announce when they are ready.

Commissioner Helvering explained that dividends declared before midnight of June 15, when the new tax law became effective, are exempt from the levy. Corporations do not pay the tax unless they wish to absorb it. They merely withhold it from those to whom the dividend is being paid and turn it over to the government, acting as an agent throughout the whole transaction.

RAILWAYS NEED ONLY FREEDOM, EXPERT ASSERTS

The medical and surgical section of the American Railway association, meeting at the Stevens hotel, was told yesterday that the railroads need no prescriptions and purgatives to cure their ills. The message came from R. H. Aishton, chairman of the board of the railway association, in a paper read by M. J. Gormley, president.

Mr. Aishton said the railroads would work their own way back to health and prosperity if they were given an equal opportunity to compete with other transportation agencies.

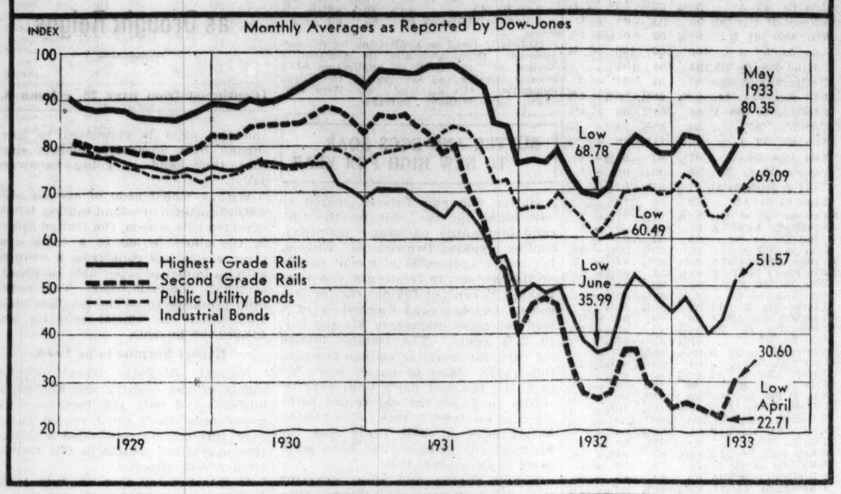
"Some day we are all going to get our health, and when we do the railroads will get back theirs and be stronger and more vigorous than ever," he said. "With the shackles they now have restricting their every movement, and with their competitors free to hit below the belt, no doctors or prescriptions can bring them back to normal health. But give them an equal opportunity and they will get back there on their own initiative."

Speakers at today's session will include Dr. W. A. Evans, writer and health editor of THE TRIBUNE, and Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, health commissioner of Chicago.

Rock Island Will Open Silvis Shops; Jobs for 750

Moline, Ill., June 26.—(AP)—The Rock Island railroad today announced that its shops at nearby Silvis, closed March 10, will reopen July 5 giving employment to 750 men.

How Prices of 4 Classes of Bonds Have Varied Since 1929



Little Fellow Profits from Market Bulge

The small speculator, the man who buys 1,000 bushels or so of grain with expectations of making a "killing," has come into his own as the result of the sensational upturn in the markets in the last few weeks. Millions of dollars in profits are reported by commission houses as having been taken in small amounts recently, and the flow of money to small country towns has been heavy. Many farmers in Illinois, Iowa, and other states are said to have taken profits on small holdings of grain futures to more than offset the loss of their crops.

Farmers who were bemoaning the fact that they could not get more than 10 to 12 cents a bushel for cash corn in Illinois and Iowa early in March have been cashing in on tremendous amounts of grain in the last few days. It is estimated that around 1,000,000 bushels of cash corn were sold in the two states yesterday at about 40 cents per bushel to the producer. Over 2,000,000 bushels have been disposed of in the last few days.

* *

Times have changed on La Salle street in the last few months. Early in March office staffs had been reduced to such an extent that only a bare minimum of clerical help was on the pay roll, and there was scarcely sufficient business to warrant keeping even that small force. Last night the greatly augmented office forces were wondering if they could finish their work in time to get home for breakfast.

Constant mention is made in Washington reports that President Roosevelt would like to see wheat prices at the level reached in 1926. According to reports by the department of agriculture, the average price paid for wheat to farmers in the 1925-'26 season was $1.46 per bushel. May wheat that season sold between $1.33 and $1.85. In 1926-'27 farmers received an average of $1.23¾ per bushel and the May delivery sold at $1.20¾ to $1.56¾.

The surge upward in the price of wheat yesterday cured a nervous disorder of one Chicagoan—at least for a day. The usual Sunday night calm in THE TRIBUNE'S financial department was disturbed by the ringing of the telephone bell. The receiver being lifted, an excited voice exclaimed:

"What's the weather condition in the northwest? I've got to know. I've put every cent I have in the world on wheat. I'm so nervous I can't sit still or sleep."

LARGE REFINERS BOOST GASOLINE AND CRUDE OIL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 26.—Crude oil and gasoline prices were advanced further today in several important sections of the country. The Standard Oil Company of California raised crude oil prices from 2 to 15 cents a barrel, according to grade, and gasoline was put up 1 cent a gallon. The Standard Oil Company of New York,, Inc., a subsidiary of the Socony-Vacuum corporation, announced that effective tomorrow gasoline prices would be raised ½ cent a gallon throughout its territory, including New York and New England.

The South Penn Oil company made an advance of 10 cents a barrel in Pennsylvania grade crude oil, making the second advance within the last two weeks. The Tidewater Pipe Line company, a subsidiary of the Tide Water Oil company, advanced crude oil in the Bradford-Allegheny field 10 cents a barrel to $1.57. The Stoll Oil Refining company increased Kentucky crude oil 15 cents to 85 cents a barrel at the well.

The advance in gasoline prices here represents an increase of 1½ cents a gallon since June 16, including the ½ cent a gallon additional federal tax.

$500,000 BOUNTY FOR WISCONSIN TOBACCO MEN

Planters Needn't Plow Up Leaf to Benefit.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., June 26.—[Special.]—Farmers who wish to participate in $500,000 to be paid in Wisconsin for tobacco acreage reduction will not be forced to permit the land that formerly grew tobacco to lie idle, according to Emerson Ela, manager of the Wisconsin tobacco pool.

Mr. Ela pointed out that under the federal plan, acres formerly planted with tobacco may not be used for commercial purposes, but that farmers may grow vegetables on them for consumption on the farm where they are raised.

Creates Much Confusion.

"There is a great deal of confusion in the minds of Wisconsin tobacco growers who have already voluntarily reduced their acreage," said Mr. Ela. While the tobacco pool has not had official notice regarding the plan, I can say that I am sure that the grower who already has reduced his acreage to the amount required under the program of the department of agriculture will be entitled to the same benefits as the man who has planted more than the reduction program calls for and who then agrees to reduce that acreage which has been planted.

"This includes the man who this year planted no tobacco. He will receive the benefits as far as I am advised, up to the 50 per cent of the 1932 or 50 per cent of the 1931 and 1932 average."

Yield $5,000,000 Yearly.

Washington, D. C., June 26.—(AP)—Farm administrators said today they expect the maximum processing tax to be levied on cigar leaf tobacco to finance a 50 per cent acreage reduction program will yield about $5,000,000 annually.

They are authorized to levy a tax of about 6 cents a pound but have not yet determined definitely when the tax will be put into effect.

CONSTRUCTION INDUSTRY PLANS FOUR WAY CODE

A. C. Tozzer, president of the Associated General Contractors of America, announced last night that his organization yesterday had considered the adoption of a code of ethics under the industry recovery act. He was a speaker at the "Construction Industry dinner" at the Blackstone hotel. The subject of the evening was "Building Construction and the New Deal."

"We've decided to prepare a national code under four general groups," he said, "railroads, buildings, highways and heavy or engineering construction. Our hope is to have it ready to present early next week to the federal administrator."

Other speakers were F. W. Morse, president of the Producers' Council, Inc., who predicted that construction will lead the country back to prosperity; Ernest J. Russell, president of the American Institute of Architects and Donald Deskey, designer. Robert D. Kohn, president of the Construction League of the United States, presided.

Dutch Inflation Proposal Stirs Money Mart

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 26.—Continental gold currencies were weak in the foreign exchange markets today, as the rumor persisted that some major shakeup in the monetary standards of one or more European countries is impending. In their movement, those currencies abandoned the leadership of the pound sterling, which continued to gain over the dollar in very nervous trading.

In local money markets, nothing more than the continuation of the vague rumors of last week was heard. No definite announcements were forthcoming or believed to be immediately imminent, other than the overnight proposal of Sir Henry Deterding advocating inflation for Holland.

Dutch Guilder Weak.

The guilder was a particularly weak spot in the market, despite reported attempts from abroad by the Dutch government to halt the decline. Sir Henri had suggested that the guilder should be inflated until they reached two and one-half for the dollar. This currency lost 90 points on the day, closing at 48.95 after having been as low as 4.88.

French francs also lost ground against the dollar even in spite of the firmness of the pound sterling. At one time, francs went as low a 4.85¾, but later they rallied and closed at 4.88, off 1¼ points on the day. Rumors predicting the abandonment of the gold standard by France continued to be heard.

Sterling Erratic.

The pound sterling was up about a cent on the dollar on opening cables, being quoted at $4.23½. It worked gradually higher until it touched $4.24½, equaling last Friday's level as the highest since England abandoned the gold standard in September, 1931. Later, the pound broke sharply to $4.20¼, although no news could be found to cause the reaction. From that point it moved gradually back to close at $4.24¼, up 1¾ cents on the day.

UNITED DRUG CO. PLANS HOLIDAY ON STORE DEBTS

New York, June 26.—(AP)—Louis K. Liggett, president of the United Drug company, announced today a "debt mortorium," designed to strengthen the credit position of the drug stores affiliated with his organization.

The plan provides for the freezing of all sums owed to the United Drug company by retail druggists as of May 31, and the liquidation of these debts through an installment plan.

"Our records show that about 47 per cent of retail dealers need help," Liggett explained. "We are asking these for a simplified balance sheet showing sales, operating expenses, etc. These will be studied by a committee and an installment plan for payment of all old debts will be developed in each case. There will be an interest charge of 3 per cent per annum."

New Treasury Bills Yield 27-100ths of 1 Per Cent

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 26.—Tenders for $75,697,000 worth of 91 day treasury bills, dated June 28 and maturing Sept. 27, 1933, offered on June 22, were accepted today. The total amount applied for was $209,956,000. The accepted bids ranged from 99.95, equivalent to a rate of about 0.20 per cent a year, to 99.919, equivalent to a rate of about 0.32 per cent a year, on a bank discount basis. The average price was 99.931, affording a yield of about 0.27 per cent a year on a bank discount basis.

'AMERICA FIRST' CUE IN STOCKS AS PRICES SOAR

Good Domestic News Causes Upturn.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 26.—The stock market ploughed in with wheat and cotton today and benefited handsomely from the enterprise. Gains of 1 to 3 points were recorded over a wide range and a long list of issues reached their best levels for the year. The turnover rose to around 4,548,000 shares.

Observers noted a growing disposition on the market's part to cut loose from foreign ties and take its cue once more from developments at home. Thus, the farm implement shares responded to the upturn in agricultural products with one of the smartest rallie sin weeks. J. I. Case Threshing, the recognized leader of the group, spurted more than $6 a share.

The steel stocks got a real "kick" out of the week-end figures showing production in the industry up to 52 per cent of capacity.

Rail and Auto News Good.

The railroads were strong and active on the statistics showing a net operating income 167 per cent over May last year for the first forty-two roads to report on their revenues for last month. An estimate on last week's motor car output placing the total at 58,389 units, the highest of the year to date and more than 3,000 cars ahead of the previous week, was made much of by followers of the automobile shares.

On top of all this good news, Wall street heard that a number of new pools were preparing to start working in behalf of a number of stocks singled out for a little extra promotion in the next few weeks. Some tape watchers thought they saw evidence that three or four of these syndicates had already started work today.

Alcohol issues provided about the nearest approach to a sensation in the day's activities. National Distillers, the bellwether of the department, fairly outdid itself with a jump of 7½ points.

Repeal Vote Boosts Stocks.

Owens Illinois Glass, Commercial Alcohol, Crown Cork and Seal, and other issues looking to prohibition repeal for their future were up 2 points or more each. The steady addition of states to the "wet" column and the prospects that others will line up against the amendment in nearby elections is making these stocks look better to their followers every day.

The oils gave another demonstration of strength, partly on the announcement of price boosts in the California field, but mainly on the understanding that gasoline and oil markups are to become general in short order. Reports were current last week that gasoline prices were to be almost doubled before the summer is out unless somebody upsets the plan.

Allied Chemical and Du Pont were features in the chemical division, which was in a buoyant mood all day. At their best some of the leaders of this department were up as much as 5 points over their previous close.

Debate Crop Restriction.

In view of the reported plans for tremendous reduction in cultivated farm acreage under the Roosevelt recovery program, the buoyancy of the farm implements had some of the tape watching philosophers guessing. They were unable to reconcile the prospects for reduced farm equipment demand, which they reasoned would be a natural corollary to an acreage cut, to the sharp upturn in share prices—in spite of the good example of wheat and cotton prices during the day. Caterpillar, International Harvester, Allis-Chalmers, Montgomery Ward, and Sears-Roebuck shared in the buying enthusiasm which found an outlet in this quarter of the market.

Tobaccos, foods, and coppers moved up with the general procession.

GIVES DOWNTOWN PROPERTY TO THE ART INSTITUTE

Miss Elsie K. White, 87 years old, yesterday deeded a piece of downtown property in trust to the Art Institute of Chicago, under condition that she be paid an annuity for the balance of her life. Upon her death the property goes to the institute unrestricted.

The father of Miss White, Alexander White, one of Chicago's pioneer real estate dealers, first suggested the formation of the Art Institute. His idea was later carried out, and Miss White is giving the property in memory of him and his suggestion.

The land is an L shaped parcel at the southeast corner of Franklin and Lake, valued by the board of assessors in 1930 at $166,443. It was leased in 1883 for 99 years to Judith C. Walker. The rental is now $3,000 annually. Cutting, Moore & Sidley were attorneys for Miss White.

That 'Better Feeling' Puts Kick in Market

BY HOWARD WOOD.

A few months ago La Salle street would look nowhere but at the bottom of the well. Today everybody is a bull.

Everybody you meet is talking about the increase in car loadings or the short crop of wheat in Kansas. Pessimist has turned into optimist and everybody is convinced that the tide has definitely turned and that happy days are here again.

Yesterday's turnover on the "big board" — 4½ million shares — was spoken of in customers' rooms along La Salle street as a "fair" trade by people who three months ago thought a million and a half share day was a big day.

News that National Distillers stock had gained $7.50 on one day's trading was received with a yawn by individuals who a few weeks or months ago thought prohibition couldn't possibly be repealed before 1936 or perhaps in the present generation.

Traders who only a few days ago believed erroneous reports that the Chicago & North Western was going bankrupt are now trying to figure just how much money that road will make during the remainder of the year.

Grain speculators who sat on their hands when wheat was selling in the low forties early this year yesterday went into the wildest market in years to load up with it in the nineties.

The answer is that "public confidence," that strange elusive abstraction that has been sought so earnestly for three and a half years, has returned with a rush.

No need now to argue that business is "fundamentally sound." The buyers are too busy giving their orders to listen to you.

Just what has done it nobody knows. Inflation doubtless started the ball rolling, but at the start inflation could have frightened people instead of encouraging them.

Inflation hasn't done the job alone. While the dollar has declined only 20 per cent in foreign exchange the prices of major commodities have doubled and many stocks have gained a hundred to a thousand per cent or more.

The first fellow you meet on the street says that he's just come back from New York and that everybody is "feeling better" down there. The next has just returned from Indianapolis and he says the Hoosiers are all "feeling better." The third says that Peorians are "feeling better," and so on.

A year or two if a few foreign diplomats got together in Geneva, Sebastopol or Istanbul to talk about the financial problems of Latvia the stock market would have a spasm.

Today not even the world money clinic going on in London gives it a qualm. If the London parley is a success, says the market expert, its a bullish factor. If it fails, it is likewise a bullish factor. And the "street" heartily approves.

"Opinion is certainly not unanimous as to whether the world economic conference will be successful or whether it will be a failure. Those who are taking a position in the American markets should, therefore, conjure the consequences of both success and failure.

"As we see the situation, a higher price level for the United States lies in prospect in the event of either outcome."

MARKET PRICE, NOT YIELD, THAT MAKES FARM PAY

Lincoln, Neb., June 26.—(AP)—The nearly 800 Nebraska farmers who kept books on their 1932 operations say they have learned at least one thing—it's not so much the yield as the market price that counts.

An analysis of the books by University of Nebraska workers reveals the most important factors influencing earnings were efficiency in handling live stock, and ability to keep down expenses, particularly costs for labor, power, and machinery.

Although some books showed a profit of six per cent after deducting all expenses and allowing for the value of the operator's labor, the average was from a negative 1.6 per cent to a negative 5.71 per cent.

The farmers who made the most profit were those who got the most return for feed consumed by live stock. The extra bushels of grain per acre meant little, with prices as they were.

SOARING WHEAT NEARS $1 MARK; PIT GOES WILD

Prices Up 7⅛ Cts. as Drought Continues.

On the crest of one of the heaviest buying waves in the history of the Chicago Board of Trade wheat soared 7 cents a bushel yesterday and came within touching distance of a dollar for the first time since August, 1930.

Other grains and commodities shared the advance. Stirred by stories from the west of farms burned out by the continued hot, dry weather, the public went into the market yesterday and bought everything it could lay its hands on.

It was the first day for official trading in May wheat, and prices promptly shot to within a fraction of "dollar wheat." The close was 99¼ to 99 cents. July wheat, the nearest option, closed at 89⅜, up 7 cents from Saturday's close.

Down in Fort Worth cash wheat actually passed the dollar mark. One carload was sold for $1.02.

All Grains Skyrocket.

All grains skyrocketed into new high ground. Corn gained 2⅞ to 3⅜ cents per bushel: oats was up 4⅜ to 4¼ cents; rye 3½ to 4 cents, and barley 6½ cents.

Trading in the grain pits was so fast and furious that the board markers couldn't keep up and at times the prices being wigwagged on the floor and those being chalked up on the blackboards high above were as much as ½ cent apart.

Old timers estimated that the turnover of all grains was around 200 million bushels. The biggest day in the history of the Chicago board was Oct. 29, 1929, when 256,000,000 bushels were traded. Saturday's trading, official reports disclosed yesterday, was the record for a short session.

Commission house clerks, who worked till 3 o'clock Sunday morning cleaning up Saturday's trades, were working all night last night.

In the Minneapolis market wheat advanced 6⅞ to 8 cents a bushel and flour broke through the $6 level for the first time in three years, family patents reaching $6.05 to $6.15 per barrel. As wheat and flour prices shot upward millers were besieged with shipping orders.

Startling Rise in Prices.

The change that has come over the grain markets since March 3, the day before the bank moratorium went into effect, is one of the most startling in the history of the trade. On that date September wheat sold as low as 48¾ cents, but touched 92 cents yesterday. September corn which then sold at 26⅝ cents, the lowest level known, has advanced to 57⅜ cents, while July oats, worth only 16 cents per bushel on March 3, have advanced 25½ cents since that day.

Inflation talk from Washington started the grain markets upward, coupled with increased confidence when trading was resumed on March 16, but nature through unfavorable weather conditions is regarded as having corrected the statistical position in wheat. This is expected to have a world wide effect, and bring about an upturn in the world's price level before long, regardless of the outcome of the London economic conference.

Trading Close to Record.

Speculative interest in the grain markets yesterday made it one of the largest days in the history of the Chicago Board of Trade. A new all time record was established Saturday, when the total purchases of all grain aggregated 143,000,000 bushels.

Three weeks of intense heat and drought wrecked one of the most promising outlooks for spring wheat ever known, and the yield of all wheat is expected to be far below domestic consumptive requirements. This was the basis for the wild outbreak of buying.

The United States has already been forced to notify importing countries that there is no wheat available for export during the 1933-'34 season. Prolonged drought in the southwest followed by intense heat resulted in the abandonment of over 12,000,000 acres of winter wheat, and brought the crop below 300,000,000 bushels of good grain for milling, according to the belief of local authorities.

Spring Wheat Crop Reduced.

The spring wheat crop, privately estimated at 270,000,000 bushels on June 1 and well above that figure by some traders, caught the full effect of the scorching winds in southwestern Kansas and western Oklahoma,

FURNITURE FAIR MAKES RECORDS ON OPENING DAY

Buyers More Numerous, Sales Are Larger.

The World's Fair market, the largest and most comprehensive exhibition of home furnishings under one roof in the world, opened yesterday in the Furniture Mart. Market attendance and buying passed records of the last four years.

Approximately 1,275 retail buyers registered on the first day. Additional buyers will visit the exhibition in the next three weeks. Every important furniture merchant in the country will have one or more buyers in attendance, said Lawrence H. Whiting, president of the Furniture Mart.

Sales of the first day were twice those of any registration day since pre-depression days. Congressman Eugene B. Crowe of Bedford, Ind., owner of two furniture stores, predicted merchants will buy twice as much in the next three weeks as they have in any similar period in the last five years.

Points to Higher Costs.

"Realizing the tremendous appreciation of values in furniture, with a 50 per cent increase in cost of raw materials and at least a 15 per cent wage increase, merchants are finding they must choose rapidly and well if they are to secure furniture for their floors which are now well depleted," said Mr. Crowe. "Stocks on hand of 99 out of 100 furniture stores are abnormally low."

Mart manufacturers have increased prices from 10 to 40 per cent to meet increased costs of production, with the average between 15 and 20 per cent, a survey revealed. More than 250 of the more than 500 furniture producers have agreed to advance wages at least 15 per cent prior to the adoption of a code under the federal recovery act, officials said.

A minimum wage of 25 cents an hour has been suggested. Some manufacturers have voiced intention of raising worker's pay as much as 40 per cent on July 1, said Oscar E. Landstrom of Rockford, Ill., leader in the wage increase movement.

New American Style Featured.

The feature of the market is the new modern American style. Standard designs are well represented.

"Don't call the new style modernistic," Donald Deskey, New York designer, said. "Modernistic was the horrible output of eight years ago which died a natural death. The new modern American style is a true departure from known period standards, but it combines rhyme and reason with comfort and utility."

More than one million feet of floor space have been given over to the exposition. Yesterday was National Furniture day at A Century of Progress.

Buy at Merchandise Mart.

Officials of the Century of Progress furniture show at the Merchandise Mart reported that registrations yesterday totaled 712. This compared with 228 registrations on the first day of the January show and with 83 on the first day of the July 1932 show. Buyers were reported from all sections of the country from New York to California.

Mart officials stated that in the present show merchants are buying instead of making memoranda and sending in their orders later. They said an indication of the size of the crowds is found in statements by the managers of the restaurants and shops who report that their business yesterday was 20 per cent above normal.

BUYING WAVE PUSHES COTTON TO NEW PEAK; RISES $3.50 TO $4.50

Heavy buying of cotton based on the advance in grain and stocks to new high levels on the present upturn, carried prices up and the close of the market was at the highest point of the day. Sentiment was more optimistic as conditions appeared to be working more in favor of higher prices, which checks speculative selling and at the same time enlarges outside buying.

The ten cent cotton level was past, the spot price in New York being 10.45c, up 85 points while futures gained 83 to 87 points; New Orleans spots were 10.30c, an advance of 90 points, the highest of the season, equaling $4.50 a bale. Futures in the latter market gained 78 to 84 points. In Chicago futures finished 60 to 70 points higher, the latter being up $3.50 per bale. Galveston was 10.20c, and Houston, 10.25c. Prices follow:

WESTERN RAIL CHIEFS TO ELECT CO-ORDINATORS

Meet Here Friday Under Federal Program.

Executives of the western railroads will meet at 11 o'clock Friday morning at the Union League club to elect a regional coördinating committee as provided for in the emergency transportation act of 1933. Five members are to be elected to the committee and it is understood the members will probably be five railroad presidents located in strategic points in the western area.

The western group of roads comprises some fifty lines. Among them are systems such as the Illinois Central and Wabash whose lines traverse other districts.

Taylor's Position Doubtful.

The position of Harry Guy Taylor, who has been acting as commisioner for the western roads under a voluntary arrangement, in the new setup is yet to be determined. Mr. Taylor has been credited with having saved the western roads a considerable sum of money since his appointment late last year. He has acted as umpire in a number of railroad situations and took a leading part in the apportioning of railroad passenger service between Chicago and St. Louis.

The new coördinating committee will have the task of eliminating duplications of services where possible and of ending uneconomic practices with the hope of improving the financial position of the roads.

Eastern Heads to Meet.

The eastern executives are meeting this week to elect a similar committee and the southern roads are expected to take like action shortly.

A recent case in which western roads have coöperated is that on the service between Chicago and Milwaukee as terminals on one hand and Duluth and Superior on the other. The Chicago & North Western and the Soo Line have made an arrangement whereby they pool their passenger trains between these two regions, effecting economies expected to run into many thousands of dollars over a year.

OFFICIAL WEATHER FORECAST

Wisconsin — Local showers and thunderstorms Tuesday, followed by generally fair Wednesday; not so warm Tuesday in extreme west central portion and in central and south portions Wednesday.

Indiana—Local showers and thunderstorms Tuesday and probably Wednesday; not much change in temperature.

Lower Michigan—Fair to partly cloudy Tuesday, followed by local showers and thunderstorms by Tuesday night or Wednesday; not much change in temperature.

Upper Michigan—Local showers and thunderstorms Tuesday or Tuesday night with partly cloudy Wednesday; not much change in temperature.

Missouri—Local showers and thunderstorms Tuesday and in south portion Wednesday; generally fair Wednesday in north portion; little change in temperature.

Iowa — Local showers and thunderstorms Tuesday followed by not so warm; partly cloudy Wednesday.

North Dakota—Generally fair Tuesday and Wednesday; somewhat cooler Tuesday in east and south portions.

Minnesota — Generally fair, except possibly local thunderstorms in extreme east portion early Tuesday, cooler Tuesday in west and south portions; generally fair Wednesday.

Nebraska — Partly cloudy, possibly local thundershowers in extreme east portion Tuesday, somewhat cooler Tuesday or Tuesday night; Wednesday fair.

RADIO PHONE ON LONG FREIGHT TRAINS PROPOSED

Engineers Told of Late Rail Improvements.

A radio telephone system for use on long freight trains, increasing speed and safety, was cited as one of the many railroad improvements on which there is active experimentation by C. D. Young, vice president of the Pennsylvania railroad, in a talk before the railroad division of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers at the Palmer house yesterday. He discussed recent and future improvements in railroad equipment and service.

Speaking of inventions which have contributed greatly to railroad safety, Mr. Young told of a rail fissure detector car which in five years has located and caused the removal of 7,000 defective rails. The outstanding work of the engineering division, he said, has been the improving of the metallurgy.

Double Deck Car.

Mr. Young told of an improvement in suburban passenger service in which use is made of a light weight car of double deck type, providing greatly increased seating capacity at about one-third of the usual deadweight per passenger. High speed, light weight trains are being developed, he said, to meet the competition of the airplane, private automobile and bus.

Great strides have been made in the improvement of the locomotive, Mr. Young asserted, saying since 1911 the average tractive power of steam locomotives has been increased more than 60 per cent.

Many Units Obsolete.

"The American steam locomotive has advanced so rapidly as to place many of the units that are now in daily operation in a position of obsolescence, replacement of which is awaiting the railroads' ability to finance," Mr. Young continued.

Other improvements, he mentioned, were air cooling of passenger cars, the installation of better brakes on freight cars, and introduction of new methods of fueling which cut down coal bills. One outstanding freight car improvement, he said, is a new type of spring which helps lessen damage to contents of cars.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 26.—In an effort to expedite the administration's public works program, Administrator Donald Sawyer today called upon the Reconstruction Finance corporation for a list of construction projects which the corporation was unable to finance because of legal technicalities.

Under the R. F. C. act applicants for construction loans were required to prove their projects to be "self-liquidating" in character. Although the experts of the corporation found many projects to be deserving, a large number had to be refused loans on the sole ground that they could not meet this self-liquidating requirement.

To Accept R. F. C. Investigation.

Mr. Sawyer explained that he intends to salvage the expenditure made by the government in investigating such projects under the Reconstruction Finance corporation set up. The public works bill, he pointed out, eliminates the "self-liquidating" requirement, so that projects found worthy by the corporation but barred from loans because of that requirement are eligible for consideration under his administration.

Included in the list of projects, which was reported to involve approximately 100 million dollars, is the application filed by the Chicago sanitary district for a loan with which to prosecute the sewage disposal program ordered by the Supreme court. Several other large projects, including New York tunnels and large bridges in various sections of the country, are also included.

Seeks Projects for Quick Loans.

"The public works administration," said Mr. Sawyer, "hopes to pluck from this list projects for which loans may be approved quickly, avoiding a wait while the new public works administration is organizing. In this list may be the first nonfederal projects aided from the 3 billion 300 million dollars provided by congress."

"In examining the R. F. C. list," he continued, "the projects will be viewed in the light of eligibility, as set forth in declarations of policy announced by the public works administration. These include immediate availability in calling men back to work, economic desirability, soundness of engineering, and legal feasibility."
